BERLIN CHARGES FRENCH BOMBED AN OPEN TOWN

Threatens to Attack Cities in Reprisal.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 11, Saturday.—Twenty-four German civilians were killed in Freiburg, in Breisgau, yesterday when three French planes raided that city, the German government announced early today.

"The city of Freiburg lies entirely outside operations and is not a military objective," a communique said. "As a reprisal for this action, which is counter to international law, the German air force will answer in the same manner.

Threaten Five Fold Attack.

"From now on every further regular enemy bombing attack on the German population will be answered five fold by German planes on an English or French city."

[The British air ministry in London described as "quite untrue" and "a further example of German mendacity" a German allegation that allied planes had bombed an unfortified town. The British reserved the right to take "appropriate action in event of bombings of civil populations."]

German officials announced that Adolf Hitler's air force had destroyed 100 planes in raids on British and French airports since yesterday's lightning invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and the tiny duchy of Luxemburg began. They admitted the loss of nine planes.

The German army announced resistance on the Luxemburg-Belgian-Netherlands frontiers was "broken everywhere in the first attack."

Claim Taking Seaports.

Seaports and airports of Belgium and the Netherlands were reported occupied by German troops, who parachuted to the earth from planes or smashed their way across the frontiers into the neutral countries.

The high command said the German forces moved across Holland's province of South Limburg, seized Dutch Maastricht, and the vital Albert canal bridges on the Belgian frontier, penetrated to the Ijssel river east of Arnhem in east central Holland, crossed the Maas at several Dutch points, seized Malmedy, former German town in Belgium north of Luxemburg, and crossed the Belgian frontier farther south after moving thru Luxemburg.

Land Mines Explode.

The Germans asserted their land forces encountered hardly any resistance during the first stretch of their advance into Holland except for a few Dutch land mines which exploded.

Resistance was offered by Dutch troops on the left bank of the Meuse. After a Dutch detachment had displayed a white bedsheet as signal of surrender, German infantrymen with tank guns crossed the river on inflated rubber boats.

At the same time the high command said that a British submarine had been sunk by a German U-boat near the Dutch North Sea island of Terschelling and that "an enemy destroyer" had been sent to the bottom by the torpedo of a German speedboat.

Germans Time Invasion.

The German high command timed the crossing of three borders by land troops at 5:30 a. m. [11:30 p. m., Chicago daylight time, Thursday], but this was in the wake of the bombing and transport planes.

[By that time, said Dutch advices, German troops had parachuted to earth at Rotterdam's bomb ruined airport on the west side of Holland and, with other men, landed by seaplane in the Nieuwe Maas river, had fought their way into the city itself.]

Juridically, Germany based her invasion of three little states on the western fringe of the European conflict—and lying directly between Germany and her British enemy—on what it said was proof that Belgium and the Netherlands, in active connivance with France, were about to attack Germany's rich industrial basin, the Ruhr.

Brussels Stays Calm as War Rushes Upon It

Graphic dispatches, telling how the ordinary man met the spread of war in Europe, were sent last night by foreign correspondents of The Tribune. Below is a story from Brussels. Others from Amsterdam, London, Paris, and Basel, Switzerland, will be found on page 2.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 10.—I am writing this dispatch at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the first day in the new act of the great European drama.

Outside my window overlooking Brussels' most central square—the Place Brouckere—everything looks as usual despite the fact the country has been at war since dawn and the third air raid alarm of the day has just been sounded.

Situation Changes.

Here is how I saw the war come to Belgium and Holland: Up to 10 o'clock Thursday night there was an excellent reason to think the war scare had blown over. It was about midnight when I heard reports that the whole situation had changed and everything was decidedly bad.

Having given instructions to the hotel porter to inform me as soon as something happened, I lay down fully dressed to snatch what might be my last hours of tranquility for some time. It seemed like only five minutes later that I was aroused by pounding on my door. A servant was shouting, "Here it is. It's war."

In the lobby of the hotel two American business men—rare persons here in these days—were discussing whether to stay on until afternoon or to run at once. They asked me where to go and I think I suggested San Francisco. My attention was concentrated on the scene near the door.

Soldiers on Guard.

It was banal, just a young lieutenant saying good-by to his girl. But they were holding each other so tight, were looking into each other's eyes with such devouring intensity and were so oblivious of what was around them that I felt embarrassed.

Up on the hill above the center of town where Belgium's government

Lineup in War! How Sides Compare

(Graphs on page 10.)

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Germany's dominating position in the air is explained by the fact that the best available estimates give her a 3 to 1 numerical superiority in first line war planes over the combined forces of the British and French and their new allies, Belgium and Holland.

These estimates give Germany upward of 20,000 first line planes, with almost 100,000 men to fly them. Here is how the belligerents line up.

NATIONS—	AREA [sq. mi.]	POP'ATION.	MEN UNDER ARMS.	FIRST LINE PLANES.
British Emp.	13,909,782	500,000,000	2,500,000	6,000 [Britain
France	216,367	42,000,000	6,000,000	and France combined.]
Netherlands	13,440	8,728,000	400,000	500
Belgium	11,775	8,386,000	600,000	500
Luxemburg	999	300,000	Unknown	Unknown
Germany [including conquered terr.]	315,000	105,000,000	9,000,000	20,000 or more

Italy, Germany's nonbelligerent axis partner, with an area of 119,744 square miles and a population of 44,026,000, has 1,250,000 men under arms and an air force estimated at at least 10,000 war planes.

SAILS TO SET UP U. S. CONSULATE IN GREENLAND

New York, May 10 [Special].—James K. Penfield of the state department's far eastern division sailed from Staten Island today in a coast guard cutter to establish the first United States consulate in Greenland at Godthaab, the capital.

"Since communications between Copenhagen and Greenland have been interrupted, direct consulate representation has been deemed advisable by the United States and by Greenland authorities," said Penfield. "I don't know how long I will stay, but I am taking full supplies for a year."

DUTCH INVASION IS FIRST SINCE 130 YEARS AGO

New York, May 10 (AP).—It has been 130 years since the Netherlands was last invaded.

It was in June, 1810, when French troops, under the command of the Duke de Reggio, entered Holland.

The French were expelled three years later. History records that the small number of French troops in the country encouraged revolts and paved the way for external aid.

DANCING BANNED AS NAZIS ENTER 'DECISIVE' FIGHT

BERLIN, May 10 (AP) [Via radio].—The following official announcement was issued at noon today:

"The German nation has entered its decisive battle.

"In accordance with the seriousness of the hour, no dancing will take place."

BRITISH AND FRENCH ORDER 2,000 MORE AMERICAN AIRPLANES

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Aviation authorities said today that the British and French governments have ordered 2,000 or more additional American-made warplanes in the last few days.

The new contracts, for the latest type fighting planes and bombers developed for the United States army air corps, were said to have boosted the allies' purchases within the last month to 4,000 or more military aircraft.

The latest allied plane purchases coincided with authoritative reports that the Anglo-French purchasing mission contemplated relying more heavily on the United States for aerial reinforcements than originally planned, in view of the European war's new turn and official admissions by the British that the empires were inferior to Germany in air power.

The latest orders included an undisclosed number of Martin bombers and of a fast new pursuit plane developed for the air corps by the North American Aviation corporation, Inglewood, Cal.

NAME CHURCHILL PREMIER OF NEW BRITISH CABINET

Labor and Liberal Parties to Join.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—Britain, tonight under a new prime minister, Winston Churchill, the arch enemy of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, prepared to battle to the death against the menace of German expansionism.

The invasion of Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg confronted the British directly with the real war issues and brought to a head the political crisis which has kept the nation on tenterhooks.

Neville Chamberlain, after desperately attempting to form a coalition government, called on King George tonight and resigned.

Churchill Named in 10 Minutes.

Ten minutes later Winston Churchill saw the king and kissed his hand as a token of his acceptance of the office.

Late tonight Churchill was working feverishly drawing up a new war cabinet. He has asked all the ministers to remain at their posts and "discharge their functions with full freedom and responsibility" until the new cabinet is completed.

Representatives of the Labor and Liberal parties will be included in the new government.

Bombshell from Labor.

The change in premiers came with dramatic suddenness. Earlier newspapers had reported cabinet changes were likely to be postponed because of the international situation. Liberal Leader Sir Archibald Sinclair said the crisis made an immediate government reconstruction inopportune.

A few hours later the Labor party dropped a bombshell by announcing it would take a full share of responsibility and participate in a government only "under a new premier who would command the confidence of the nation."

Chamberlain's Farewell.

In a farewell broadcast tonight Chamberlain defended his prewar dealings and the Munich pact on the grounds that he had hoped thereby to preserve peace. He announced Churchill had invited him to join the new cabinet and urged the people to "rally behind their new leader with united strength and unshakeable courage, and to fight and work until this wild beast (Hitler) that has sprung out of his lair upon us can be finally overthrown."

Churchill is expected to have little difficulty in setting up a government. Labor Leader Clement Attlee and Sinclair will share key positions in the war cabinet with the Conservatives and possibly David Lloyd George, world war premier.

War strategists tonight made no attempt to disguise the menace to Britain from Hitler's westward sortie and pointed out that if Germany occupied Dutch and Belgian coasts it would have bases within 60 miles of England.

British-French Troops Speed to Block Nazis

BULLETIN.

New York, May 11, Saturday (AP).—The official British wireless said a message from the Netherlands early today reported the landing of Nazi parachute troop planes on the Dutch islands of Zeeland. These islands, in the southwestern coastal area, form the province of Zeeland. The broadcast was picked up by CBS. The British broadcasting corporation reported early today that a hospital in Brussels was in flames.

PARIS, May 11, Saturday (AP).—Widespread air alarms sounded thruout France this morning as Adolf Hitler pressed his sweeping western offensive against the low countries and French-British troops raced to positions on a new front extending 200 miles from the North sea thru Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg.

An alarm was sounded in central France at 2:30 a. m., and in the central eastern area at 3:05 a. m. Another alarm roused the southeastern region of France at 2:30 a. m. It came to an end 30 minutes later.

The French high command said the allies were advancing on a front that reached from the North sea to the Moselle river at the German-French border.

It reported continuing progress in Belgian territory, while in tiny Luxemburg military advices said there were "sharp combats" as vanguards of the allied and Nazi war machines established contact.

Air Raids Widely Scattered.

Germany's push to the west, the high command said, extended to the region of Sierck, French town east of the Moselle.

While German war planes thundered into France in widespread raids, killing at least 53 civilians, French defenders aloft and on the ground manning antiaircraft batteries blasted 44 German planes out of the sky onto French soil, the high command announced.

As air raid casualty and damage reports came in from all parts of the country, the French government announced its intention of replying with air bombardments on other than military objectives if the Germans bomb such targets. Incomplete reports listed the following casualties:

Nancy, 16 killed, 30 hurt; Villers-Cotterets, 10 killed, 30 hurt; Franay, 10 killed; Breugcy, 7 killed; Laon, 4 killed; Henin-Lietard, 3 killed; Lyon, 2 killed; Abbeville, 1 killed.

Gamelin Issues Order.

Other places reported bombed, with unrevealed casualty tolls, were Colmar, Pontoise, Luxueil, Bethune, Coques, Lens, Calais, Dunkerque, Hazebrouck, and a number of small villages.

Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander in chief of the British and French armies, proclaimed to his forces that Germany had begun "a fight to the death against us."

In his order of the day he said: "The attack which we have foreseen since last October was launched this morning. Germany has begun a fight to the death against us.

"The orders are, for France and her allies: Courage, energy, confidence."

100 NAZI PLANES DOWNED; DUTCH HALT ADVANCE

British-French Army Aids Defenders.

BULLETIN.

AMSTERDAM, May 11 (AP).—Amsterdam was bombed at 6 a. m. (12:40 a. m. Chicago time) today. The attack lasted 25 minutes. The bombs included many of heavy caliber. German bombers came over the city again at 6:48 a. m.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, May 11, Saturday (A.P.).—Fighting to arrest Adolf Hitler's lightning war, the stalwart Dutch early today announced their forces were standing on their defenses near the eastern frontier.

They said they were making progress in wiping out swarms of German "men from Mars" who parachuted to strategic positions in the interior, and were receiving rapid reënforcement from shiploads of British and French troops.

A Netherlands communique said more than 100 German planes had been shot down in the first day of the invasion and that the Dutch had retaken all but one of the airports which the Germans seized yesterday in their predawn offensive by parachute and air transport. Fourteen German planes were captured when these airports were retaken.

More Chute Troops Land.

The one airport still in German hands was Waalhaven at Rotterdam and there the Nazi parachutists were reported fighting with their backs to the wall.

The German troops at Rotterdam were reënforced, however, and the Dutch radio warned in broadcasts every five minutes that "increasing numbers" of parachute troops were landing under cover of night in southern Holland near the Belgian border.

One German transport plane loaded with 19 German soldiers clad in Dutch uniforms was shot down at The Hague and it crashed thru a house roof.

50 Troop Planes Attacked.

The British air ministry reported many German planes destroyed by bombing attacks when the British swooped upon newly German occupied airports so quickly "that the enemy had no time in which to establish an antiaircraft system." Fifty troop carriers were reported attacked at Rotterdam airport.

Soldiers in the battle dress of the British army crossed the North sea by transport, landing at several points on the west coast of Holland.

Two British destroyers and one French vessel arrived yesterday afternoon at Flushing and went up the canal to Middleburg.

French Troops Arrive.

Motorized French troops also reached Middleburg from the sea last night. German planes raided the port several times, dropping incendiary and explosive bombs in the vicinity of the docks. Several fires were started.

Four hundred British royal engineers were under a severe air attack, but the landing was made without a hitch.

One British detachment marched thru war darkened Amsterdam on its way east where the Dutch, marshaling both guns and flood waters they used first during the Spanish siege of Leyden in the 16th century, were fighting bravely and with some success.

Some of the Germans, dropped by parachute, already were in western Holland, fighting in the streets of Rotterdam. But their position there was not a happy one.

The fighting in Rotterdam grew in intensity this morning as the Germans flew in reinforcements to their hard pressed shock units.

The Dutch also rushed to strengthen their forces battling to wipe out this strong but small Nazi force, confined to the left [south] side of the River Niepwe Maas.

The Germans were driven out of their control of the big bridge across the river connecting the two parts of the city. But they continued to occupy the Maas hotel, their headquarters, after extinguishing a fire set by Dutch incendiary shells.

Fight in Heart of City.

The spectacular fighting in the heart of Rotterdam raged for many hours yesterday.

There, where the terrifying roar of hundreds of planes sent virtually all the population of 600,000 into the streets at 4 o'clock in the morning, the Germans managed to land great troop transport planes in the middle of the Nieuwe Maas river, which cuts thru the city, and put troops ashore in rubber boats. Other troops billowed down on the Waalhaven airport to the south.

Fierce fighting proceeded in the streets of Rotterdam and the invaders were pounded with incendiary shells and counter-attacked by waves of Dutch marines.

The Germans were armed only with machine-guns and rifles. The reinforced Dutch troops punished them hard.

Dutch Fire Hotel.

Flames lighted the German occupied sector with a red glow as the Old Maas hotel, from which they were operating, was fired by the Dutch cannon and spread, menacing other structures.

A transport plane which alighted in the river was wrecked in a collision with a boat.

Barricades were thrown up in the streets as the Germans attacked from the shelter of abandoned street cars.

The Nazis last night bombed The Hague, governmental seat of the invaded nation, one explosive falling close to George A. Gordon, the United States minister. There were numerous air alarms.

The Germans succeeded in landing troops at two small landing fields near The Hague, and gained control of them. They were at Okkenburg and Ypenburg. But the Germans were small units and were captured.

Draws Hopeful Picture.

That the Dutch were resisting the German invasion with some success was indicated by Gen. Henri Gerard Winkelman, the Dutch commander in chief. In the name of Queen Wilhelmina he thanked the troops of Holland and declared:

"The surprise attack of the enemy can be considered a failure."

From the narrow Eems channel on the northeast to the tip of Limburg and west across the country to the Rotterdam, the green uniformed armies of the queen contested, inch by inch, the country their forebears took out of the sea.

While British and French planes droned high above Dutch canals, Holland's high command drew this hopeful picture of the defense of the nation by an army of 400,000 men:

ON THE EAST: Four armored trains destroyed [one "blown to pieces" on the railroad bridge near Venlo border]; first line armies holding their ground on the Maas and the Ijssel rivers; coastal defenders at Delfzijl, in extreme northeast Holland across the Eems from the German naval base of Emden, holding out against strong attack.

THE INTERIOR: German troops, landed by seaplane and parachute, attacked from all sides by Dutch defenders. All except one air field, occupied by Germans, now in Dutch hands.

THE AIR: One hundred German planes shot down.

Drop Leaflets on The Hague.

At The Hague, seat of the royal court, from which Queen Wilhelmina issued a "flaming protest" against the invaders and called on her army to fight, German leaflets showered down yesterday afternoon, asserting the city was surrounded and that resistance was "insane." There was nothing to indicate this was true.

The Netherlands fought back with both fire and water. Sluices in the main water line running south from the Zuider Zee were opened wide to complete the shallow flood water defenses that are intended to save western Holland and its rich cities from an invading army coming by land.

Further east, where strategic points in the first defense line above and below the Rhine were flooded last fall, the Dutch troops blew up bridges across the Maas and the Ijssel rivers.

How Man in Street Met the Spread of War

When war comes suddenly, how does the man in the street react? Tribune correspondents stationed in the key centers of Europe, sent vivid dispatches last night answering this question. Here are the stories:

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 10.—A France confident of being able to check the Germans, even tho some difficult moments are expected at first, today watched its legions swing into the low countries to battle Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's newest blitzkrieg.

Roused from bed by the sound of cannon on a perfect sunshiny May morning, Parisians took the day's calamitous events with a grave face but calmly. There was no sign of disturbance over an early morning air raid and the city went to work as usual around 7 and 8 a. m. without the knowledge that French troops had crossed the Belgian and Dutch frontiers.

Around 10 a. m. this news was announced over the radio and it quickly spread. In the subway, in auto buses, and in public places strangers began to discuss the momentous events.

No Signs of Excitement.

"Belgium was invaded last night," said some one, and the news mushroomed. "Holland and Luxemburg, too," added another.

"If I could just get my hands around that Hitler's neck!" exclaimed a stout housewife in the vegetable market.

But the regular rhythm of the town was the same. No signs of excitement or external fever were evident, but nevertheless there was deep emotion. On café terraces little groups formed and talked. Officers carrying valises signaled taxis for a dash to the railroad station, for all leaves had been revoked and every soldier had been summoned back to the front.

But the department stores were open and doing business as usual, and restaurants were animated for lunch and again for dinner.

The atmosphere was perhaps heavy, but nerves were unshaken as far as could be seen.

Warn on Careless Talk.

Just as before when important but not startling events such as this new invasion have taken place, the ministry of information issued another warning to the population against talking indiscreetly about the movements of soldiers or other important subjects with friends and relatives.

Amid the fever of consultations of cabinet members and diplomats the morning was relatively calm in the hallways of the chamber of deputies and the senate, just as it was elsewhere in the city.

Naturally the talk was entirely devoted to the new German stroke. While anxious eyes were turned toward Italy and Spain, it was generally believed Europe's destiny is at stake. However, a foreign office spokesman said there was no indication of an early Italian move and that the foreign office had been assured Spain's neutrality would be maintained.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, May 10.—The people of Holland, as well as their leaders, met Germany's surprise invasion of their kingdom today with courage and calm.

In Amsterdam life continued almost as if nothing unforeseen had happened. Street cars kept normal schedules. Inhabitants went to work as usual—many pedaling bicycles along boulevards and the banks of canals.

Two house painters added a slight touch of humor to the tragedy by continuing their work as intently as if the nation were at peace.

Banks Close in Afternoon.

Shops were open at the usual hours, but banks closed in the afternoon and dealings in foreign exchange were suspended temporarily.

The postoffice functioned as usual, as did hotels and restaurants.

The streets, however, were filled with grim faced persons. Yet there was no sign of fear, altho there were expressions of bitterness and hatred.

Following unconfirmed reports that German troops had secured a foothold in Amsterdam by a "Trojan horse" ruse [swarming into the streets after being concealed on a Swedish ship], police cars with sirens screeching sped thru the streets.

Prominent Citizen Jailed.

Police squads arrested many enemy aliens and suspects. Among the latter was a prominent citizen who had never been suspected of being a German sympathizer.

Army officers immediately suppressed two Nazi newspapers, the Nationale Dagblad and the Volk en Vaderland, and one communist daily, the Volksdagblad. The army also prohibited distribution of pamphlets and leaflets. It warned against believing or obeying instructions from leaflets dropped by German airplanes.

As people began to hoard soap, butter, cigarets, and coffee, the government passed restrictions limiting the sales of these products to any one person.

This is how I learned of the German invasion. At 2 a. m. I was awakened by antiaircraft fire. I looked out the window, saw nothing but heard the heavy drone of a bomber. The shooting stopped and I went back to sleep. I was awakened again by antiaircraft fire. Then came a dull explosion. Later I learned bombs had struck the airport five miles south of Amsterdam. It was daylight.

Sees German Bombers.

Hurriedly, I put on some clothes and climbed to the hotel roof. Heading west were German bombers flying at 7,000 feet.

Four bombers were in close formation. They were followed by three others. As the planes kept on their course antiaircraft guns were fired.

From the time we first sighted the planes until we saw them dive must have taken five minutes. Suddenly the planes swooped in the region of the airport. A tremendous blast followed and huge columns of smoke arose.

No one seemed to realize that this was war and that Holland had been attacked. Even then the suggestion that the planes were headed for England and had been compelled by aircraft fire without harmful designs to descend on the Netherlands appeared to be reasonable. But soon a feeling of indignation and horror replaced the original bewilderment.

Britons became worried. Those, who wanted to depart, sailed for England on a Dutch steamer. Americans, who number around 700 in Holland, were advised "to stay put."

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—Adolf Hitler's thrust thru Belgium, Holland, and Luxemburg shocked the English today into the realization the country is fighting for its very existence and that armed forces, not economic pressure, are going to decide the issues of the war.

The atmosphere in London was more tense than at any time in the last eight months. Crowds besieged newsstands to snatch up the latest editions and listened avidly to the radio for news. In pubs, clubs, buses, and street cars there was no other topic of conversation.

Gas masks—issued at the beginning of the war but long neglected in drawers and odd corners—suddenly reappeared on the streets, slung around the necks of men, women, and children. Tonight London's streets were blacker than at any time since the war started.

Air Attack Peril Cited.

The fact that German airplanes are less than a couple of hours' flight from Britain was emphasized over the radio, and the press urged no one to venture out without a gas mask, that window blinds be drawn closely during the blackout, that all find where the nearest air raid shelter is located and that all carry identification cards at all times.

These warnings were overshadowed in the public estimation by cancellation of the Whitsuntide week-end holiday. All civil servants, employés of government, factories, docks, and railroads were ordered to report for duty as usual Monday.

The war office issued a warning that the military guard at vulnerable points has been strengthened and ordered to shoot any one ignoring the challenge to halt.

Invasion Considered Possible.

The possibility that German parachute troops might attempt to raid Britain was stressed in a home office announcement urging the population to maintain an incessant watch, particularly on open spaces near airports, and to report immediately to police if raiders were seen.

Four incendiary bombs were reported to have been dropped by German planes at Chilham, near Canterbury, early today, but the damage was not disclosed by the air ministry.

The new German invasion is expected to put in motion British plans for a new evacuation of school children from London. The London county council issued an appeal for more volunteers to help remove children to safe areas.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 10.—Switzerland will have 600,000 men under arms at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning when general mobilization goes into effect.

The government announced a "precautionary state of war," beginning at midnight tonight.

All men between the ages of 18 and 48 have been ordered to report for duty. They will join those already guarding Switzerland's borders and vital defenses, estimated now at 300,000. German troops facing Switzerland have been estimated at 24 divisions, or about 335,000 men.

Railroads on War Schedule.

A wartime railroad schedule will go into effect tonight. Only troops will be moved over the lines tomorrow. Military authorities have taken over control of border traffic and foreign legations have been forbidden to issue visas for travel in Switzerland.

The frontier along the Rhine, which separates Germany from Switzerland, has been closed and the evacuation of border towns has begun. Long lines of civilians and soldiers filled the highways today.

Planes Unload Bombs.

Twenty-seven bombs were dropped on Swiss territory today by high flying planes. One railroad line was damaged near Courrendlin, 40 miles from Basel. Witnesses said the bombs were dropped by German planes being pursued by French attack ships. Only by lightening their loads, the witnesses said, were the Germans able to elude the French attackers and disappear into the heavy morning fog over German territory.

Nearby Colmar, France, was bombed at 6 a. m. The roar of many planes was heard in Basel several hours earlier, but fog prevented Swiss anticraft guns from registering effective hits.

BOTH SIDES MAKE VARYING CLAIMS OF AIR VICTORIES

The war in the air yesterday brought forth varying claims as to the number of planes destroyed.

The Dutch said 100 German planes were shot down.

France claimed 44 enemy craft were downed.

Germans said 100 British and French planes were destroyed by their fighters.

Britain reported "numerous enemy planes destroyed."

Total of 252 Flyers Killed in Action, English Report

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—The air ministry tonight issued a casualty list covering an unspecified period, showing:

In action—14 killed, six wounded, 37 missing.

On active service—19 killed, four wounded, 12 died.

The list brought the announced totals to 252 killed, 45 wounded, and 245 missing in action and 455 killed, 75 wounded, and 224 died on active service.

CROMWELL TOUR OF CANADA URGED BY CLUB GROUP

OTTAWA, Canada, May 10 (AP).—The Association of Canadian Clubs today addressed a letter to Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the United States suggesting that it would please Canadians if J. H. R. Cromwell, American minister to Canada, could postpone his scheduled May 21 departure and make a tour of Canada.

Cromwell recently announced he would resign May 21, the date of the primary elections in which he is a candidate for Democratic nomination as a New Jersey senator. He said he regretted he would be unable to make a proposed tour of the dominion.

DUTCH BUYING 30 U. S. PLANES WHEN WAR CAME

Washington, D. C., May 10 [Special].—The government of the Netherlands was discussing with American aircraft manufacturers the purchase of 30 giant, long range, four motored flying boats to reinforce its defenses when Germany attacked that nation, it was learned today.

Whether the order will be placed now is said to be uncertain.

Holland already had invested heavily in American military and naval aircraft. Its largest order was for 125 Glenn-Martin bombers for the Netherlands East Indies. The last of these was delivered six months ago. Curtiss and Lockheed planes also have been bought, and the most recent order was placed with Douglas Aircraft corporation.

The British and French governments, it is understood, have placed within the last two weeks orders for 80 giant patrol boats and their land twins of the type known as flying fortresses. These can carry an 8,000 pound load more than 3,000 miles, with a top speed of 300 miles an hour. The army for a time refused to permit sale of such planes abroad.

3 Trains of Belgians Leave Paris to Defend Home

PARIS, May 10.—Three special trains with mobilized Belgians left Paris this afternoon. The Belgian embassy issued mobilization orders today to all citizens of Belgium in France up to 45 years old. The number of Belgian nationals in the Paris region alone is estimated at 10,000.

U. S. INVESTMENT OF DUTCH QUEEN ROUSES WONDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The nation's capital speculated today on what may become of Queen Wilhelmina's real estate holding in Washington if the German blitzkrieg in the Netherlands is successful.

The queen of the Netherlands, it was reported reliably, holds a large block of stock in the exclusive Westchester apartments here, thru a dummy corporation in New York.

Realty men wondered what would happen to the Dutch ruler's investment here if it is included in the assets of Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg, which were impounded today by presidential order to prevent possible German seizure in the future.

Treasury officials expressed the opinion this real estate holding would be included and that the queen, if she holds controling interest, could receive rents and other payments but not disburse any funds without a treasury license.

It was reported the apartment investment here was made to salt away some of the royal family's cash in case trouble came to the Netherlands.

5 Japanese Sailors Seized Near Pearl Harbor Base

HONOLULU, Hawaii, May 10 (AP).—Rear Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander of the 14th naval district, said five Japanese crew men on the liner Asama Maru were apprehended yesterday in the vicinity of Pearl Harbor, mid-Pacific American naval base. They were released after questioning and sailed on their Japanese boat.

BRUSSELS STAYS CALM AS WAR RUSHES UPON IT

Air Raids Usher In Nazi Invasion.

offices are grouped around the royal park, I found cordons of the military.

The attack on Holland began about 2 o'clock in the morning. For Belgium the attack occurred about 4:30 a. m., when bombs dropped on Antwerp.

Air attacks at dawn, besides that at Antwerp, were on the airfield at Evere, in Brussels, and its environs, and at the important railway junction of Jemelle, which afternoon papers report is in flames. Seven persons were killed in Brussels.

Thru the streets going up the hill to the foreign office I saw a dense cloud of smoke to the north where, I was told, an oil refinery had been hit. I saw one entirely demolished house, which I judged, was about four stories high. Another house diagonally across from the American embassy and about 150 feet distant had the inside blown out. The house next to it was badly damaged.

By 7 o'clock martial law and general mobilization had been declared. It was announced that the cabinet would sit permanently and that King Leopold III.—who is an effective leader of the army—was in conference with the general staff.

Later, the government proclaimed Brussels an "open town," hoping that this might save it from air bombings.

There were fewer soldiers in Brussels today than I have seen for the past month. This absence of troops gives the city its amazingly calm aspect.

Alarms grew more frequent during the afternoon and the heavy firing of anti aircraft guns was heard to the north.

Rounding up of the "fifth column" continued. Thousands of persons were said to have been arrested, including Deputies Leon Degrelle and Paul Colin, and Flemish leaders. Police took 12 Germans from one hotel, bundling them into a patrol wagon as a crowd yelled "death to them."

Over the radio came repeated warnings in French and Flemish to guard against saboteurs and parachutists.

RED CROSS APPEALS FOR ADDED FUNDS TO AID NEW WAR AREAS

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—A $10,000,000 war relief drive was announced today by the American Red Cross. Chairman Norman H. Davis said that the expansion of the European war into Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxemburg meant that large relief funds would be required if the Red Cross was to mitigate the suffering.

Reporting that authorization for the drive was voted by the Red Cross convention meeting here earlier this week, Davis said:

"I urge all sympathetic Americans to respond quickly and generously to this appeal by making immediate contributions to their local Red Cross chapters."

He said each of the 3,700 local Red Cross chapters had been advised of its quota of the $10,000,000 to be raised.

PRESIDENT SAYS AMERICAS WILL DEFEND LIBERTY

Asserts Republics Would Act Together.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—With his eyes on the invaded low countries and his voice pitched to Berlin, President Roosevelt tonight declared that the 21 American republics, altho they love peace, will fight to defend themselves and protect civilization.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke at the opening of the 8th Pan-American scientific congress in Constitution hall. His address, his first since the invasion of Holland, Belgium, and Luxemberg, was carried to the nation by radio.

"I am a pacifist," he said solemnly. "You, my fellow citizens of 21 American republics, are pacifists.

"But I believe that by overwhelming majorities you and I, in the long run and if it be necessary, will act together to protect and defend by every means our science, our culture, our freedom, and our civilization."

Recalls Other Conferences.

Mr. Roosevelt recalled that in the Pan-American conference at Buenos Aires in 1936 and that at Lima in 1938 the fear was expressed that the other continents might become so involved in war that the Americas might have to become the guardians of civilization.

Today, he intoned, that fear has become a fact.

"The inheritance which we had hoped to share with every nation in the world is, for the moment, left largely in our keeping, and it is our compelling duty to guard and enrich that legacy, to preserve it for a world which might be reborn from the ashes of the present disaster," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt had composed a draft of his speech to the scientific congress before the war spread to new neutrals. He tossed this into a White House waste basket and rewrote his speech a few hours before he appeared before the scientific body.

Points to Tragic Events.

He began by saying that all the men and women of the congress came to the gathering he addressed with heavy hearts because in the last few years events have shocked their hopes of peaceful development of civilization.

"This very day three more independent nations have been cruelly invaded by force of arms," he said.

"In some human affairs the mind of man grows accustomed to unusual actions if they are oft repeated. That is not so in the world happenings of today—and I am proud to say that it is not so. I am glad that we were shocked and angered by the tragic news. . . .

"The overwhelmingly greater part of the world abhors conquest and war and bloodshed—prays that the hand of neighbor shall not be lifted against neighbor."

Defines American Creed.

Mr. Roosevelt gave as the American creed of international behavior:

"We, and most people in the world, believe in a civilization of construction and not of destruction. We, and most people in the world, believe that men and women have an inherent right to hew out the patterns of their own individual lives just so long as they as individuals do not harm their fellow beings. We call this by many synonymous terms—individual liberty, civil liberty, democracy."

The President said that the Americas permit search for truth and the teaching of truth in contrast to other parts of the world. He did not name Germany or any totalitarian state. But he said that the mobilization of tongues and minds for other ends than the truth has not come in the new world and, "God willing," it shall not.

Distances Are Shortened.

He said that until recent weeks too many citizens of the Americas considered themselves wholly safe, but in terms of time tables—"the moving of men and guns and planes and bombs, every acre—every hectare—of the Americas from the Arctic to the Antarctic is closer to the homes of modern conquerors and the scenes of attacks in Europe than was the case in historic efforts to dominate the world in bygone centuries."

The President said it is a shorter distance from Europe to Santiago de Chile than it was for the chariots of Alexander to roll into Macedonia from Greece—shorter to San Francisco than it was for Cæsar to move from Rome to Britain. Today, he said, it is but four or five hours from Africa to South America where it took Napoleon four or five weeks to move his armies from Paris to Rome or from Paris to Poland.

Misuse of Inventions.

Mr. Roosevelt said that scientists might be told they are to blame for having annihilated time and space by their inventions. Those who are really to blame, he said, are those who are misusing the inventions of peace "to dominate hundreds of millions of people in vast continental areas—those who, if successful in that aim will, we must now admit, enlarge their wild dreams to encompass every human being and every mile of the earth's surface."

BRITISH ASSAIL NAZI GROUNDS FOR INVASION

LONDON, May 10.—Rebutting German claims that the Netherlands and Belgium had not preserved their neutrality, the British government today announced it was well known both the Netherlands and Belgium deliberately elected to pursue a policy of the strictest neutrality and "consistently declined even concert with the empires in military means for their defense"

The announcement said the governments of France and Great Britain are taking immediate steps to come to the assistance of Holland and Belgium with all means at their command.

"At the same time it must be recognized," the statement said, "that once again Germany has gained the military advantage by taking the initiative in attacking neutral countries."

U. S. TAKES OVER BERLIN LEGATIONS OF INVADED LANDS

BERLIN, May 10 (AP).—Alexander C. Kirk, United States charge d'affaires, en route to the United States on leave, hurriedly returned to Berlin today to find himself handling the business of two more legations—Belgium and Luxemburg.

Those two nations asked the United States embassy to take over their affairs as soon as German troops crossed their borders. United States embassy business already includes that of England, France, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand.

The Netherlands asked Sweden to take over its affairs in Berlin. Belgian and Dutch diplomats were held here pending arrangements between their governments and Germany.

ROOSEVELT SETS PACE IN CAPITAL WHIRL OVER WAR

Gloomy Faces Appear at Series of Parleys.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The mad dash of developments on the European front—British occupation of Iceland, the German blitzkrieg against Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg, and the British governmental upheaval—today threw official Washington into a flurry of concern.

Count Robert van der Straten-Ponthoz, Belgian ambassador.

President Roosevelt set the pace for official dithers in arranging a series of conferences. Cabinet officials, military chiefs, and diplomats dashed in and cut the executive offices wearing long faces of concern. In a lesser degree the conference flurry was repeated in other departments concerned with the European situation—the state, war, navy, commerce, and justice departments.

Sees No Change, He Says.

The fever of activity was so great at the White House that it appeared as tho the nation were already at war. President Roosevelt himself took cognizance of this at his press conference by pleading with reporters, "Don't, for heaven's sake, say we might get into the war."

He said he sees no change in the situation, bad as it is, to warrant revision of his statement on the outbreak of the war last September that he hopes the United States can stay out of the war and his belief that it will be able to do so.

At a conference this morning Mr. Roosevelt met with Secretary Hull, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Daniel J. Callaghan, White House naval aid. None of the conferees would discuss their meeting as they left the President's office with gloomy faces.

Expresses His Sympathy.

Mr. Roosevelt then received the press. He expressed full sympathy with Queen Wilhelmina's rallying of Holland to repel German invaders.

He sidestepped questions relating to the Dutch East Indies, which may bring this country face to face with Japanese aggression, or the Dutch West Indies, a factor in the American Caribbean defense system based on the Panama Canal.

The President conferred with the Belgian ambassador and Dutch minister respectively, Count Robert van der Straten-Ponthoz and Dr. A. Loudon.

The European situation was the sole topic of a comparatively long cabinet conference. It was reported that possible course of action designed to cover the spread of the war in Europe and to keep America out of the conflict was discussed.

Other Developments.

Other capital developments included:

The President signed an executive order prohibiting withdrawal from the United States of any funds of the invaded countries without special treasury licenses. The primary purpose of the freezing order, it was said, was to prevent Germany, if succesesful in the invasion, from claiming any of these funds. The commerce department estimated the cash and security holdings in the United States totaled 296 million dollars for Belgium, 14 millions for Luxemburg, and 1 billion 76 millions for Holland.

Secretary Hull indicated the United States will discuss with the western hemisphere republics any questions arising over the Dutch West Indies.

The department of commerce held conferences on the status of supplies of tin and rubber—strategic materials imported from the Dutch East Indies.

MILLIONS MORE ARE URGED FOR U. S. DEFENSES

Spread of War Prompts Pleas in Congress.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Extension of the war in Europe produced a general demand in congress today for vast expenditures to strengthen this country's defenses. Members of the senate military appropriations subcommittee, now considering the 831 million dollar war department appropriation bill passed by the house, indicated that it would be boosted to more than 1 billion dollars.

As a result of the new turn in the European war, the army high command delayed presentation of a confidential report which the senate subcommittee had expected to receive today. The subcommittee has demanded a detailed report of all the items desired by the army, but rejected by the bureau of the budget. The war department decided to postpone its additional requests until next Tuesday, pending conferences with President Roosevelt and the budget bureau.

Advocates Stronger Army.

Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], chairman of the subcommittee, said the members with but one exception were agreed that "we've got to develop an army that will protect us in any emergency."

"We must go forward just as rapidly as it can be done," Senator Thomas said. "We must proceed to get our equipment in order just as if we were in war."

Senator Warren Barbour [R., N. J.] demanded an expansion of aircraft production facilities "as rapidly as men and money can do the job to give the United States world leadership in the air."

"We are turning out bombers and fighters by the hundreds when we ought to be turning them out by the thousands," Barbour said. "The army needs rifles, artillery, tanks, and other mechanical equipment, and we are lagging in our acquisition of rubber, tin, nickel, manganese and other strategic materials.

Would Meet Any Threat.

"Our only hope of keeping the war from spreading to the Americas is instantly, but without hysteria, to put the United States in position where it can meet any threat or responsibility which may arise."

Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, which has reported a bill authorizing an 11 per cent expansion of the fleet at a cost of 655 million dollars, also demanded "redoubled efforts to strengthen our own defenses at every point, realizing always that our first line of defense is our navy, and that we must make it impregnable."

"Now that all Europe seemingly is about to be engulfed in war," Senator Walsh said, "we must be on our guard more than ever against war hysteria in our country."

Demand for More Planes.

There was a general demand for building up the nation's air forces, instead of subordinating the requirements of the army and navy to those of Great Britain and France. Altho congress at the last session authorized an expansion of the army air corps strength to 6,000 planes and appropriated the money for a total of 5,500 planes by June 30, 1941, the army today has only 2,700 planes, and of these all but 52 large bombers are regarded as obsolete. American army orders have been delayed to accommodate Great Britain and France.

The army has 2,800 planes on order, enough to bring the total up to 5,500, and these are expected to be delivered by July 1, 1941, unless some of them are released for Britain and France. Even if all are delivered, only 1,960 will be first line combat planes. The others will be training and miscellaneous planes.

House Reduces Number.

The budget bureau this year requested 496 additional planes, all replacements for obsolete craft. The house reduced the number to 57, and the army requested the senate committee to restore only 109, which would make a total of 166.

The present mood of the senate committee is to appropriate the money for at least 496 new planes and probably more, regardless of the army's [or the administration's] wishes. There are reports that the war department will request funds for 200 four motored, long range bombers, for western hemisphere defenses. These would be in addition to the 52 modern bombers now possessed by the army and 200 others on order.

Members of the senate committee said they had experienced great difficulty in their efforts to ascertain from the war department just what the army wants, or should have. For the first time since the world war, an appropriation committee appears to be eager and determined to gve the army more than it wants.

Funds for Equipment.

Funds provided in the house bill are sufficient, within about $23,000,000, for so-called critical items of equipment to complete the presently planned requirements of the initial protective force of the protective mobilization plan. This would equip an initial striking force of about 400,000 men, since the I. P. F. includes the National Guard and the regular army less those forces which are maintained outside the continental limits of the United States.

In addition, the house bill provides $10,000,000 for anti-aircraft guns and semi-automatic rifles toward the initial equipment of the force of 1,000,000 men contemplated by the war department's protective mobilization plan.

It appears certain that the senate committee will boost the appropriations sufficiently to provide complete equipment, including extensive mechanization of the I. P. F., or an army of 400,000 men.

The senate committee also is expected to provide for an expansion of the army arsenals and for the placing of large scale armament orders with private manufacturers.

BELGIANS FIGHT 'FOOT BY FOOT,' KING DECLARES

British and French Take Battle Positions.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 11 Saturday (AP).—British and French troops, pelted with flowers by the cheering populace, moved last night and early today into the most important centers of Belgium while King Leopold, in command of his own army, proclaimed that the Belgians were battling "foot by foot" to halt the German invaders. Exact location of the Allied troops was a government secret.

The king's proclamation declared "the power of our country today is infinitely greater than in 1914" and said the fight to oust the Germans would be hard "but no one can doubt the final result."

King Leopold declared that "for the second time in a quarter century, Belgium—loyal and neutral—has been attacked by the German empire in spite of the most solemn engagements."

Like His Father in 1914.

He asserted that "up to the last we had faithfully discharged our duty of neutrality," but now, "like my father in 1914, I have placed myself at the head of my troops with the same faith and confidence."

In a ringing sentence the king proclaimed:

"The Belgian cause is pure, and with the help of God will triumph."

Smiling Belgians cheered the quick allied aid and pelted the troops with flowers as they entered the country in swelling numbers. Four British aviators, interned when their planes crashed in Belgium earlier in the war, were released amid wild cheers. One was an American, Jim Trotter of Charlottesville, Va., who crashed Feb. 24.

Refugees Leave War Zones.

While the allies poured in, refugees streamed from the combat zones where the Belgian army declared it had halted the German invaders all along the border area.

Traps, barricades, blown up bridges and roads stopped the Nazis' land invasion, Defense Minister Lieut. Gen. Henri Denis told a cheering house of deputies, while behind the lines Belgian troops "dealt with" German parachute troops.

Eight German planes were shot down, an official announcement said.

The casualties in German air raids on greater Brussels were placed at 41 dead and 82 wounded. Four air raid alarms were sounded yesterday.

The waves of German bombers, however, were cheated of a major portion of their objective because the Belgians had cleared airports of all planes.

Thus, Denis said, only two planes were destroyed, altho many buildings were damaged.

Food Rationing Ordered.

The economics ministry today ordered food rationing to begin tomorrow at fixed prices, and Belgium experienced its first blackout since the initial nervous weeks of the war last fall.

Sirens signaling the start or end of air raid alarms wailed almost constantly. Cafés were closed and deserted. Windows were hastily taped to prevent injuries from flying glass, and "blackout paper" to seal cracks appeared like magic, as did gas masks.

GERMAN BOMBS SMASH 3 HOUSES AND TWO LIVES

Destruction Like That Left by Tornado.

BY WILLIAM McGAFFIN.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE [Note: Dateline deleted by censor], May 10 (AP).—I have just seen the scattered remains of three private homes where two civilians were blown to bits and another gravely injured by Germany's first great aerial onslaught on France.

Ploughing thru the debris on the outskirts of this village [name deleted by censor] I suddenly came upon a jagged piece of bone and flesh wedged against a wall.

"Her thigh," said one of the military officers who was conducting me.

Malca Leon, young and pretty, was engaged to be married. They picked up her remains in a sack after the German planes went over at dawn today.

Drop 24 Bombs.

Four planes dropped 24 bombs, according to the officer. When I asked him if there were any military objectives in the neighborhood, he replied with an emphatic "none whatever."

"Then why?" I inquired.

His explanation was that the German aviators, growing nervous, must have wished to lighten their loads to facilitate their escape after being caught in a curtain of antiaircraft fire.

Direct hits were scored on two of the three houses which stood in a row along the side of the road. The scene was reminiscent of the destruction a midwestern tornado leaves behind.

The direct hits were on the two end houses, killing one person in each. In the center house Mdme. Pauline Bluteau and her seven children escaped unhurt, tho all the windows were smashed.

Miniature Battlefield.

The other person killed was Gilbert Vasseur.

The area about the houses looked like a miniature battlefield. Soldiers were prodding the craters for pieces of the bombs, while spectators looked on. Out in back, by the side of the onion patch, a flock of chickens clucked and pecked, with not a feather out of place.

200,000 BRITONS BEGIN ADVANCE ACROSS BELGIUM

Get Long Awaited Order to Move on Nazis.

LONDON, May 10 (AP). — Nearly 200,000 British troops poised for months in northern France were given the long awaited order today to push 75 miles across Belgium to join their allies of the last war in a stand against the German drive along the strategic Albert canal.

The order came after months of preparation to prevent a repetition of the German success in overrunning Belgium and striking deep into northern France in 1914.

British armored divisions were expected to roll northeastward into Belgium followed by infantry and artillery and supported in the air by planes from a score or more nearby royal air force bases—the cream of Britain's 250,000 strong expeditionary force in France.

Concentrated in One Sector.

With the exception of two brigades stationed near Strasbourg, the B. E. F. [British Expeditionary Force] has been concentrated in a 16 mile long, three mile wide sector near Lille.

For months Viscount Gort, general commanding the B. E. F., has been training his two army corps for just such a move as was ordered today by the allied commander in chief, Gen. Maurice Gamelin.

Long laid plans called for the British march into Belgium to be led by armored units headed by newly developed reconnaissance armored cars. Advancing behind the fast traveling scouting parties will be slower moving 3½ ton and 5 ton light tanks and 12 ton tank cruisers. These combat mechanized and motorized units are equipped to communicate with headquarters and supporting infantry units by two-way wireless.

Many Machine Guns.

British infantrymen pushing thru Belgium today carry the same Lee-Enfield rifle the Tommies used 25 years ago, but instead of the few cumbersome machine guns of "the old contemptibles" [the original B. E. F. of 1914] the Tommies today have light and easily handled Bren guns, one for every 8 to 10 infantrymen.

Moving up with the infantry are motorized artillery units, consisting for the most part of 32 pounder Gun-hows, the official name for a combination gun-howitzer developed by the British.

Britain's campaign plans are believed to call for the moving into Belgium of the bulk of the combat forces of the B. E. F. The French seventh army, stationed to the left, is expected to stretch southeastward to close the gap.

The air ministry announced that German troop carrying aircraft had been destroyed by royal air force flyers this afternoon on the beach near the Hague, the Netherlands, and on the air field near Rotterdam.

Direct Hits Scored.

The communique said the raids followed so quickly the German occupation of the landing areas that the Germans had no time to establish defenses. At Waalhaven airdrome the attacks were concentrated on a large number of German planes, including 50 troop carriers, the British reported. Numerous direct hits were noted. In one dive bombing attack alone four German planes were destroyed.

In telling of the attack near the Hague, the communique said:

"Ten enemy troop carriers which had disembarked troops on the beach about eight miles north of the Hague also were attacked by a British bomber force in concert with long range fighters.

"Flying low above the beach and firing with their front guns, the British fighters first attacked the line of stationary aircraft with devastating effect.

"The bombers, attacking from a higher level, followed up with salvoes of high explosive bombs. One salvo bursting 20 feet away from a troop transport was seen to lift the great three engined machine bodily off the ground, and as it fell back it burst into flames.

"When the raiding forces withdrew two enemy aircraft could be seen half submerged in the water. Two more were in flames, and the remainder were riddled by bullets and bomb splinters."

REYNAUD REVISES CABINET TO MEET NEW NAZI DRIVE

2 Extreme Rightists Join Government.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 10.—Premier Paul Reynaud today reshuffled his cabinet, reduced its size, and increased the number of parties represented in it to face Germany's new drive to the west.

Two new ministers, both from the extreme right, were named. They are Louis Marin, pugnacious president of the rightest Republican federation, and Jean Ybarnegaray, vice president of the French Social party, an offshoot of Col. François de la Roche's Fascist "Croix de Feu" [Cross of Fire] movement.

A few hours after the German drive opened Reynaud announced that "because of circumstances" he judged it necessary to obtain the participation of all political parties in his cabinet. As a matter of fact, the cabinet as reconstituted does correspond to a Frenchman's idea of a national union ministry since it includes all shades of opinion except the dissolved communist party.

Socialists Stay in Cabinet.

Formerly, both Marin and Ybarnegaray had declared they never would serve in a cabinet which included Socialists, but Reynaud was able to overcome their objections and the three Socialist ministers will remain in the cabinet.

No ministeries were assigned to the newcomers. They will serve as ministers of state without portfolio, but will become members of the cabinet's inner war committee.

Reynaud was able to reduce the size of his cabinet because the 14 undersecretaries voluntarily resigned to permit him to achieve this purpose. Ten resignations were accepted but four undersecretaries were asked to remain.

Reynaud and Bullitt Confer.

The cabinet changes followed a day of intense political activity in which Reynaud conferred with American Ambassador William C. Bullitt, as well as the Belgian ambassador, the Dutch minister, and many of his own important aids. Edouard Daladier, former premier and now defense minister, also took part in numerous conferences, as did President Albert Lebrun and Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber of deputies.

In a broadcast prior to his cabinet shuffle, Reynaud challenged Fuehrer Hitler's allegations that Germany had an old account to settle with France and pledged the French and British troops would bring all possible assistance to the three countries invaded today.

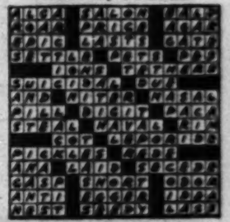
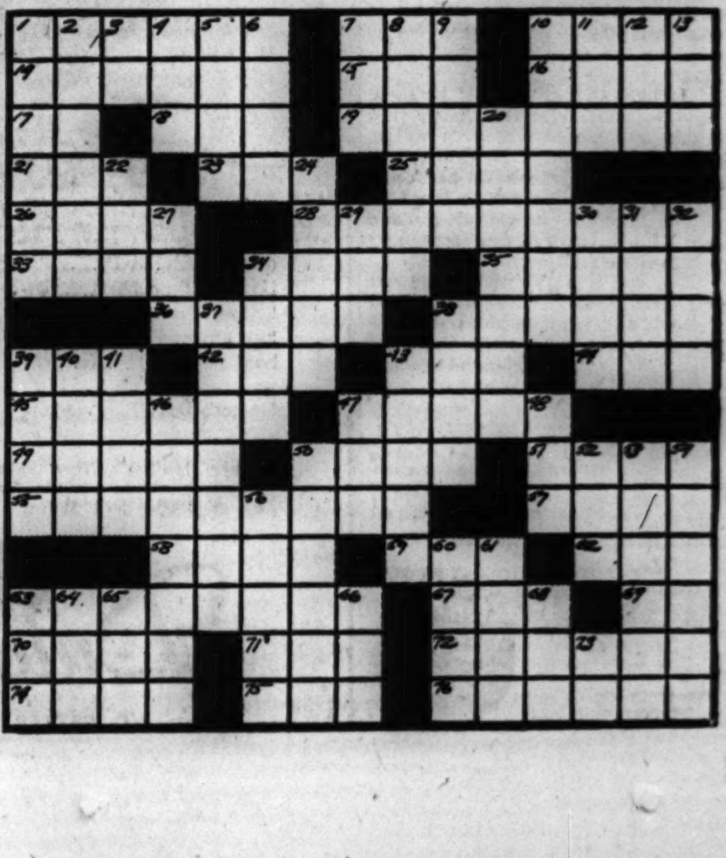
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, MAY 10, SOLVED





BACK CHURCHILL, ENGLISH URGED BY CHAMBERLAIN

Nation Put to Test, Says Retiring Premier.

LONDON, May 10 (AP) [Via Radio].—Neville Chamberlain, the symbol of appeasement, said his valedictory today as prime minister, lifting his weary voice in an appeal for support for his successor, Winston Churchill.

Speaking to the empire just after resigning a post which he had held thru three years of mounting tragedy, he told his countrymen:

"You and I must now put all our strength behind the new government, and we must fight until this savage beast who has sprung out of his lair at us is finally overthrown."

New Action Held Necessary.

He recalled, in an international broadcast, the recent parliamentary crisis in which his leadership was but barely upheld after angry debate and added that after that he had "no doubt that some new and drastic action" must be taken to restore confidence.

"By today," he went on, "it was apparent that some unity could be attained under some other prime minister. My duty was plain. I saw his majesty [to resign]."

He began with a somber declaration that "without warning or excuse" Adolf Hitler had "added another to the horrible crimes which already disgrace his name, by a sudden attack on Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg.

Cites House Debate.

"In all history no other man has been responsible for such a hideous total of human suffering and misery as he," said Chamberlain. "He has chosen a moment when perhaps it seemed to him that this country was entangled in the throes of a political crisis and that he had found it divided against itself. If he has counted on our internal division to help him he has miscalculated the mind of this people.

"I am not now going to make any comment upon the debate in the house of commons which took place on Tuesday and Wednesday last, but when it was over I had no doubt in my mind that some new and drastic action must be taken if confidence was to be restored to the house of commons and the war carried on with a vigor and energy which are essential to victory.

"What was that action to be? It was clear that at this critical moment in the war what was needed was the formation of a government which would include members of the labor and liberal oppositions and thus present a united front to the enemy.

Tells of Parley on Program.

"What had to be ascertained was the conditions which would be necessary to enable such a united government to be formed, and to this question I devoted myself, with the assistance of some of my colleagues, yesterday afternoon.

"By the afternoon of today it was apparent that the essential unity could be secured under another prime minister, tho not under myself. In those circumstances, my duty was plain. I sought an audience with the king this evening and tendered him my resignation, which his majesty has been pleased to accept.

"His majesty has now entrusted to my friend and colleague, Mr. Winston Churchill, the task of forming a new administration on a national basis, and in this task I have no doubt he will be successful.

Aid Sought by Churchill.

"For that purpose, my other colleagues in the government had intimated to him that they will place their resignations in Mr. Churchill's hands, but they will, of course, retain their present offices pending the appointment of the new government.

"I should perhaps say, too, that Mr. Churchill has expressed to me his strong desire that I should be a member of the war cabinet, and I have told him that I will gladly give him any assistance that I can in that capacity.

"Now, as this is my last message to you from No. 10 Downing street, there are one or two things I should like to say to you.

"During the period—it is almost exactly three years—that I have been prime minister, I have borne a heavy load of anxiety and responsibility. As long as I believed there was any chance of preserving peace honorably, I strove to take it. When the last hope vanished and war could no longer be avoided, I strove equally hard to wage it with all my might.

Nation Put to Test.

"Perhaps you will remember that in my broadcast of Sept. 3, last year, I told you that we should be fighting against evil things.

"My words have proved to be insufficient to describe the vileness of those who have now staked everything on the great battle just beginning.

"Perhaps it may at least be some relief to know that this battle, tho it may last for days or even weeks, has ended the period of waiting and uncertainty, for the hour has come when we are to be put to the test, as the innocent people of Holland and Belgium and France are being tested already.

"You and I must rally behind our new leader and with our united strength and with unshakeable courage fight and work until this wild beast that has sprung out of his lair upon us be finally disarmed and overthrown."

DUTCH, BELGIAN VESSELS PLACED AT WAR'S MERCY

Fleets Made Subject to Seizure.

New York, May 10 (AP).—The German invasion of the Netherlands and Belgium today placed another mighty merchant fleet at the mercy of war.

The Netherlands had 1,523 ships totaling 2,969,578 gross tons before the war began, and many more have been built. Only 30 have been destroyed.

Flag Changes Augment Fleet.

Belgium had 200 ships of 408,418 tons at the start of the war and her fleet was increased by flag changes, including the transfer of eight United States lines vessels to Belgian registry.

One of these ships, the Ville de Bruges, formerly the American passenger liner President Harding, was unloading cargo at Antwerp when the Germans bombed the city today.

Dutch and Belgian shippers in New York said they expected to order all their ships to neutral harbors.

Ordered Back to New York.

The Nieuw Amsterdam, $15,000,000 flagship of the Holland-America line, was ordered to return to New York immediately from a West Indies cruise. She radioed she would reach New York Monday with 300 American passengers.

Netherlands and Belgian ships became subject to seizure by the empires because of the invasion.

Hundreds of Danish and Norwegian ships are idling in neutral harbors.

100,000 MEN ADDED TO JUGO-SLAV ARMY; BALKANS ON GUARD

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, May 10 (AP).—Jugo-Slavia called 100,000 more men to the colors today as southeastern Europe took new military precautions in light of the spreading war. Previously 600,000 Jugo-Slavs had been reported under arms.

Hungary, Bulgaria, and Greece rushed additional troops to their frontiers.

The Rumanian cabinet met with King Carol in Bucharest and drafted new military measures.

Black Sea Ports Closed.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 10 (AP).—The Rumanian army today ordered the closing from dawn to dusk of Constanta and other Black sea ports. The significance of the measure was not disclosed.

Shut German-Hungarian Frontier.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 10 (AP).—The German-Hungarian frontier was closed today by German authorities.

Ex-Kaiser Stays at Doorn as Invaders March In BERLIN, May 10 (AP).—Aged ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II. remained at his Dutch estate in Doorn today while legions of the army he once commanded poured into the Netherlands, which has given him refuge since Germany was defeated in the last European war. Reliable sources indicated he was staying serenely at his Doorn estate but watching developments with greatest interest.

CHURCHILL—A BOY WHO GREW UP TO BE FIGHTING MAN

Sketch of England's New Prime Minister.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill, Great Britain's new prime minister, was born Nov. 30, 1874. He was the eldest son of Lord and Lady Randolph Churchill. His mother was the former Jennie Jerome, daughter of Leonard Jerome of New York.

He attended school at Harow and the Royal Military college at Sandhurst.

Nicknamed "Winnie," he was commissioned as lieutenant in the fourth Hussars.

He got a leave from his regiment to enlist with the Spanish forces in the war against Cuba and won the Spanish order of military merit, first class.

Awarded a Medal.

In 1897 he served on India's northwest frontier, where the mad mullah of Swat had aroused the Pathans to war. He was awarded a medal and mentioned in dispatches.

Churchill won another clasp to his medal in the fighting at Khyber pass. He found time to write his first book, "The Story of the Malakand Field Force," and then was off for further fighting in Egypt.

He headed a charge against dervishes and was given another medal for galantry in action. His experiences produced another book, "The River War." Meantime, he had acted as newspaper correspondent.

In 1899 he ran for parliament, but was defeated. He served in the Boer war, was captured and made a spectacular escape. The next year he wrote two books: "London to Ladysmith via Pretoria" and "Ian Hamilton's March."

After the Boer war he was elected to parliament and switched politics several times thereafter.

Home Secretary in 1910.

In 1906-'08 he was undersecretary for the colonies and president of the board of trade for two years after that.

He was home secretary in 1910-'11. Then for four years he was first lord of the admiralty, during part of the world war period.

In 1915 Churchill was chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster. He was minister of munitions in 1917; secretary for war and air in 1918-'21; secretary for the colonies, 1921-'22; chancellor of the exchequer from 1924-'29.

He figured prominently in various capacities in the world war. As first lord of the admiralty he had built the British fleet up and kept it mobilized so it was able to bottle up the German fleet.

He personally went to Antwerp when the British rushed men and ships there following the German invasion. He hoped to save the city from the Germans, but failed.

Failed at Dardanelles.

He encountered another failure in the Dardanelles campaign and was a political victim of the fiasco. So he resigned and went to France, serving as a lieutenant colonel commanding the Scots Fusiliers.

Then Prime Minister David Lloyd George called him back into the cabinet as minister of munitions and other capacities.

Churchill inspired the allied expedition to Archangel against the Bolshevik revolution, but was caught in the popular reaction and lost his seat in parliament.

In 1924 he was reëlected to parliament and achieved his ambition of occupying his father's post in the exchequer.

Ramsay MacDonald's government reduced him to the status of a private member of the commons.

Target of Nazi Broadsides.

He foresaw Germany's preparations for the present war and his biting remarks against Adolf Hitler made him a target for many Nazi verbal broadsides.

He became again first lord of the admiralty and gradually increased his influence in the government of Neville Chamberlain.

Churchill's attitude for a more vigorous proscution of the war made him a logical choice for the prime minister's post after the cabinet crisis this week.

He was married in 1908 to Clementine Hozier. They had one son and three daughters.

During the various political whirligigs, Churchill turned to landscape painting and bricklaying as safety valves for his energies.

Between times, he was noted as a lecturer. He spoke in Canada and the United States in 1929. He caught a swordfish off California. During his American visit he called on President Hoover at the White House.

In 1931 he made another visit to the United States, was hit by a New York taxicab and later was in a hospital, ill of pleurisy. He forgave the taxi driver and presented him a free ticket to his next lecture.

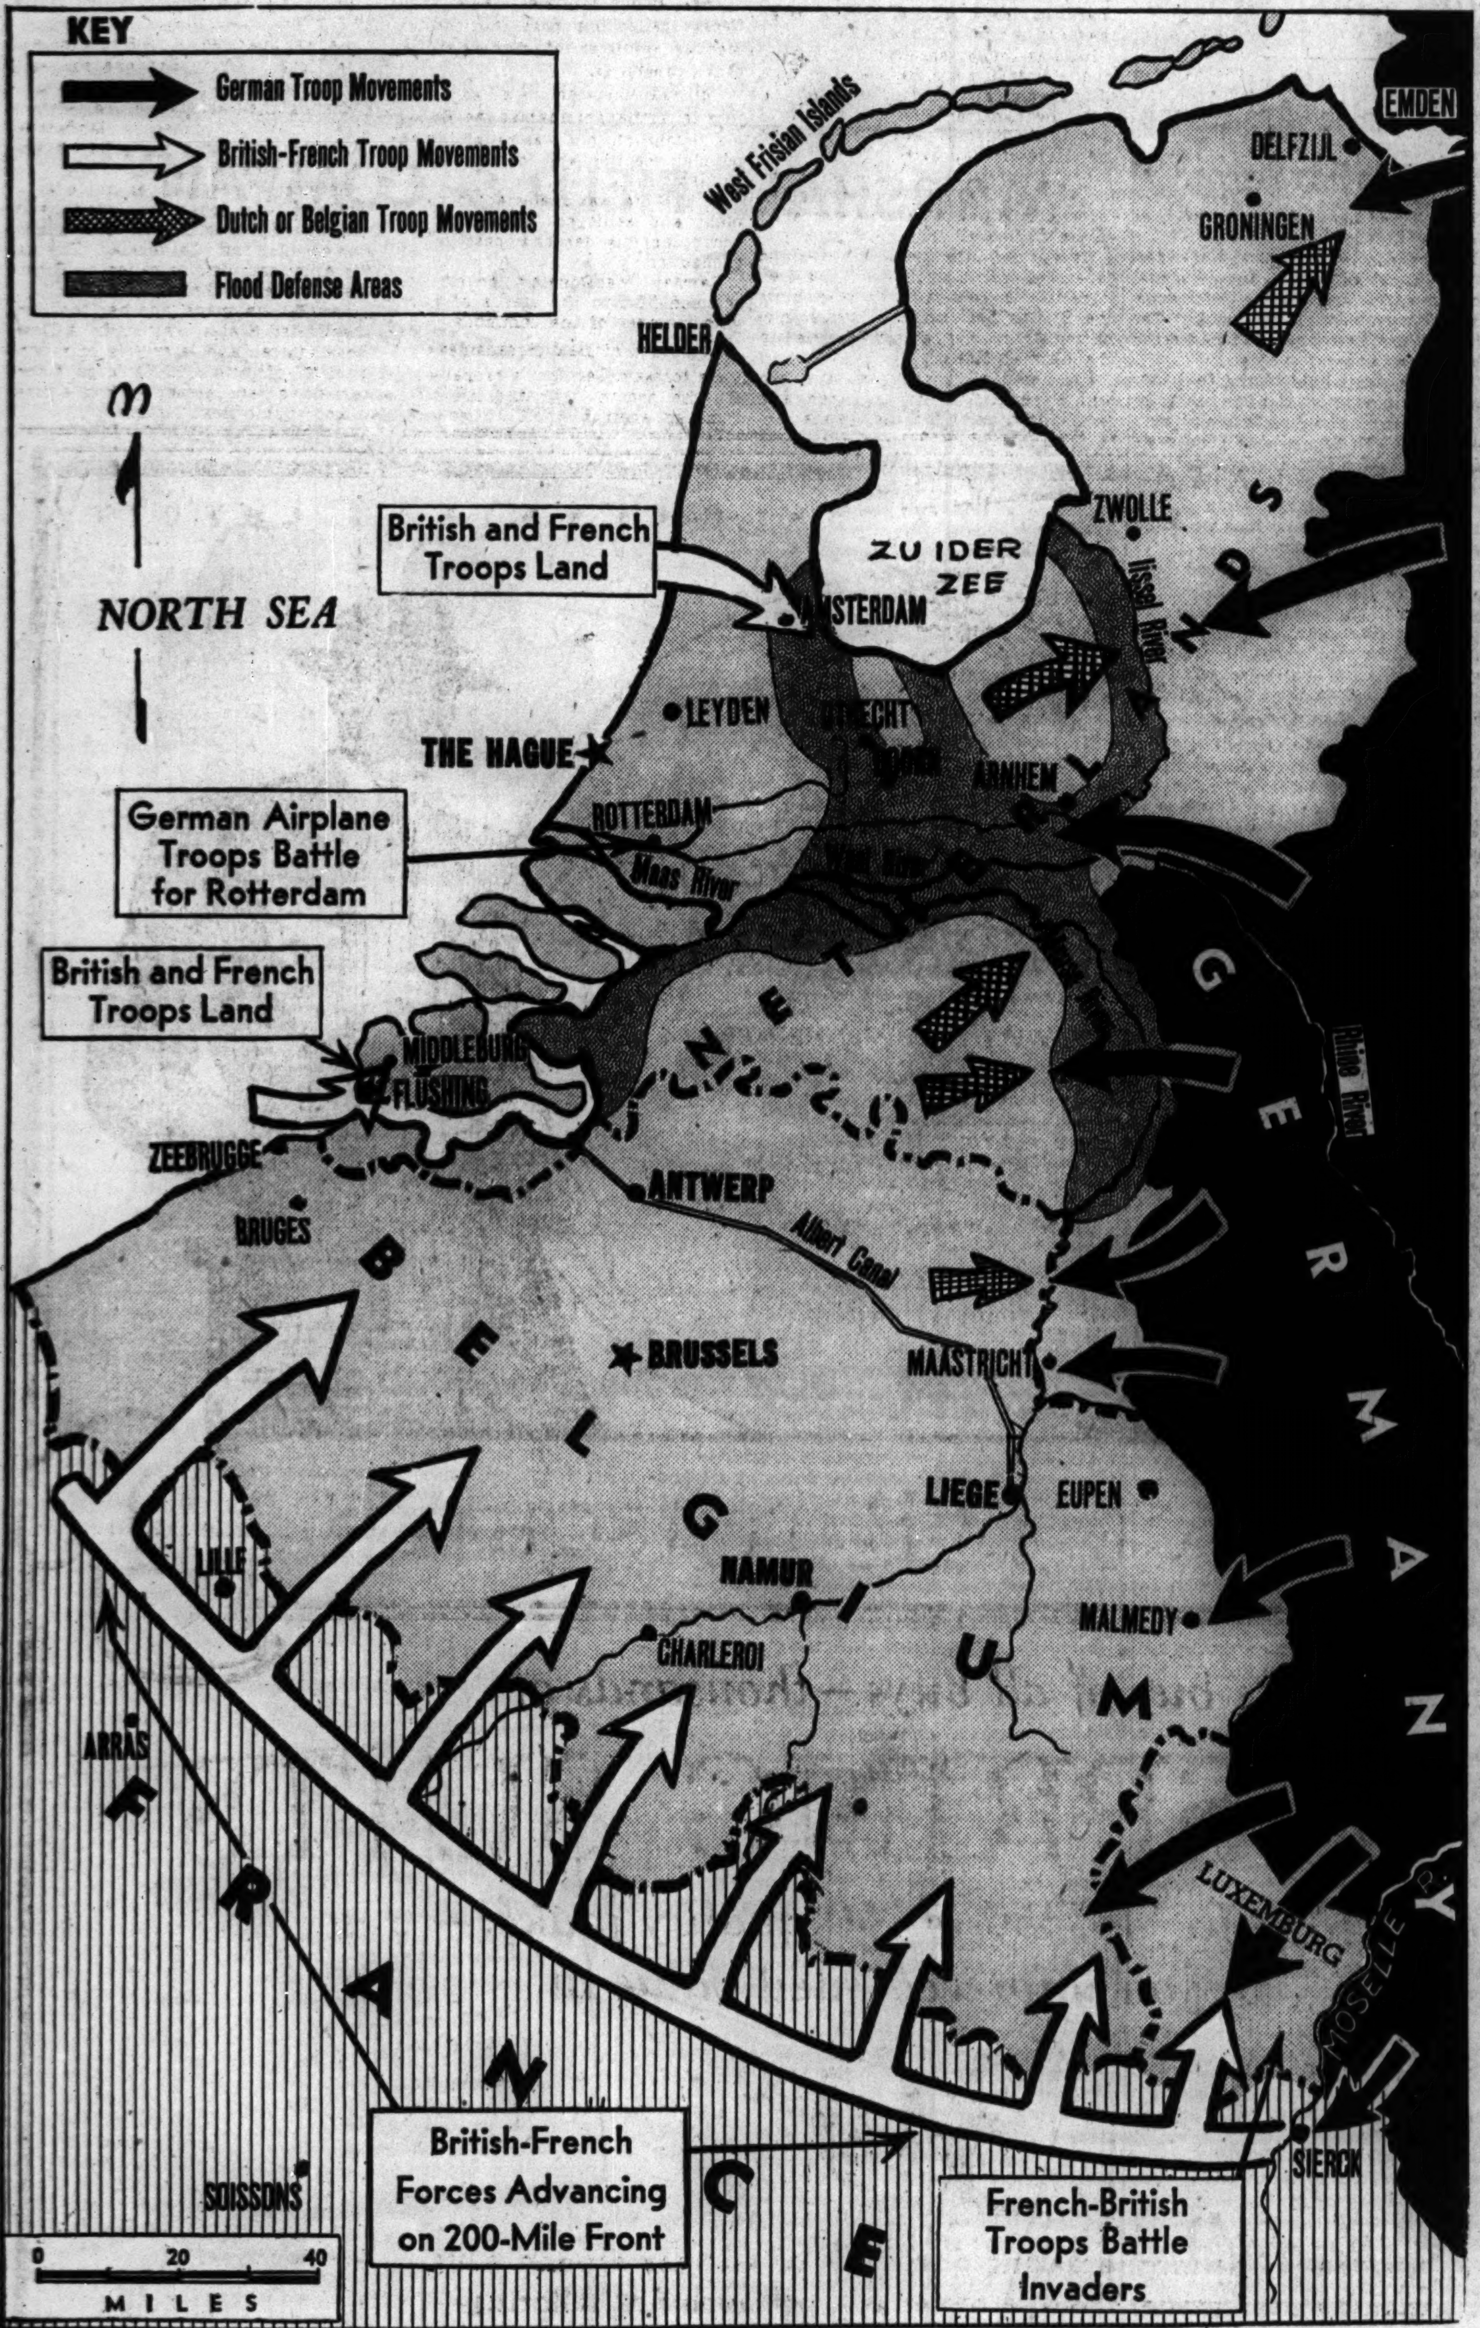
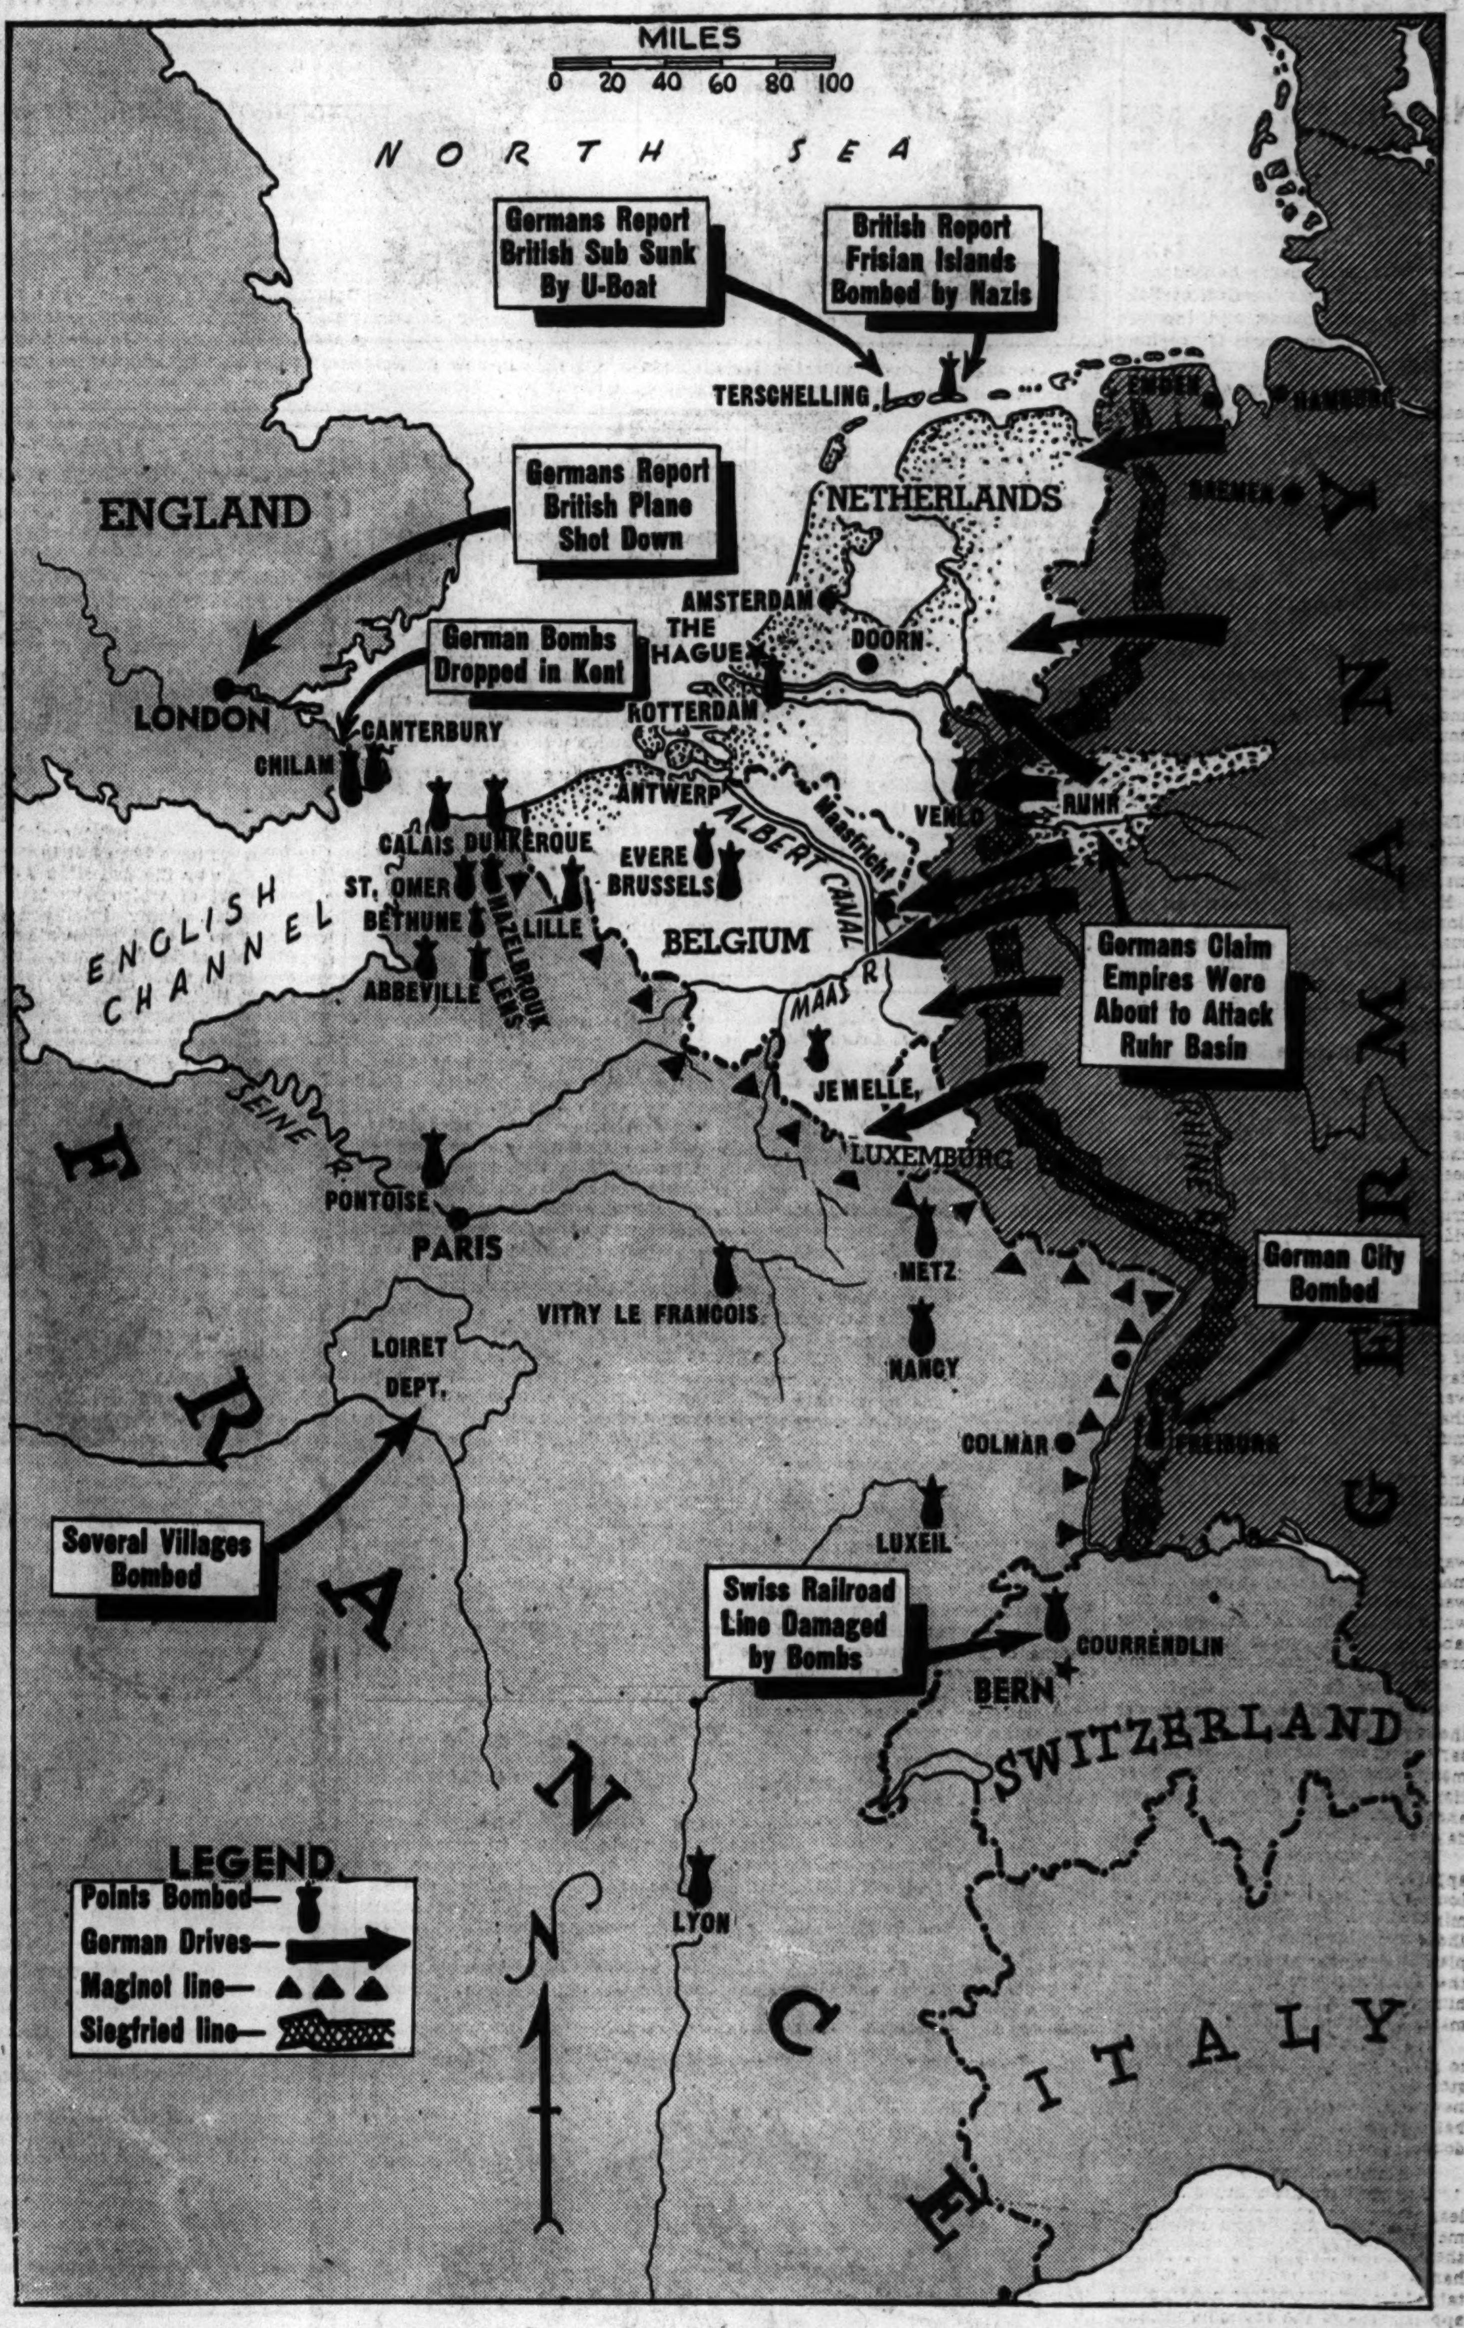
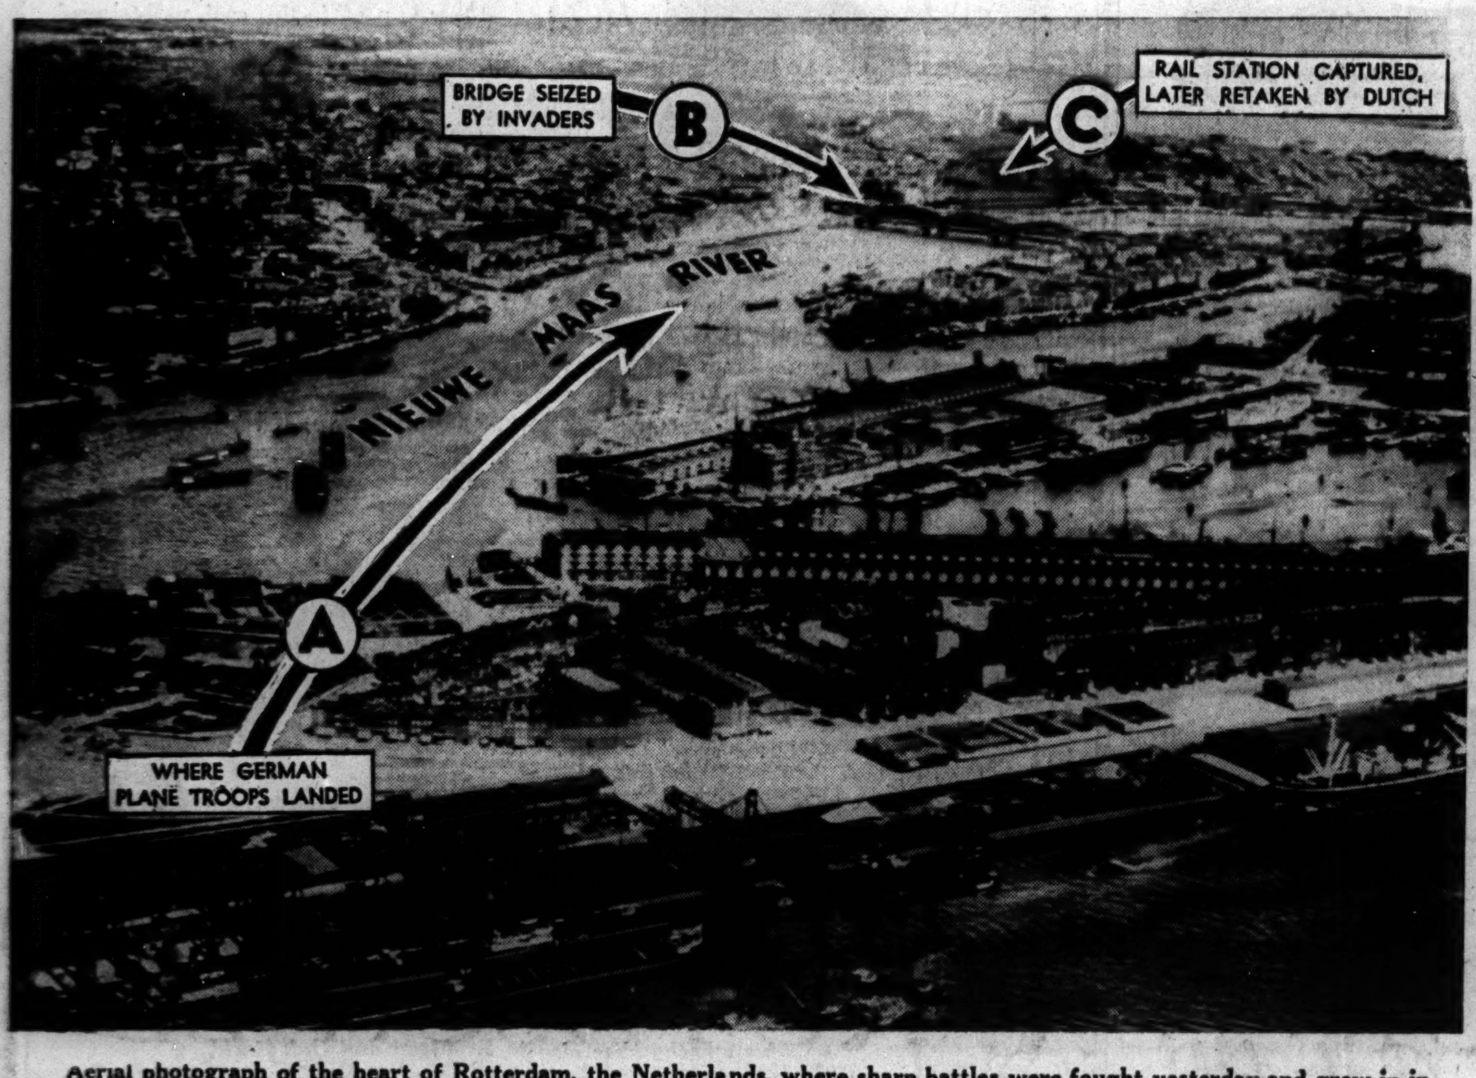
Land and Air Forces Clash in Bitter Conflict for the Netherlands and Belgium



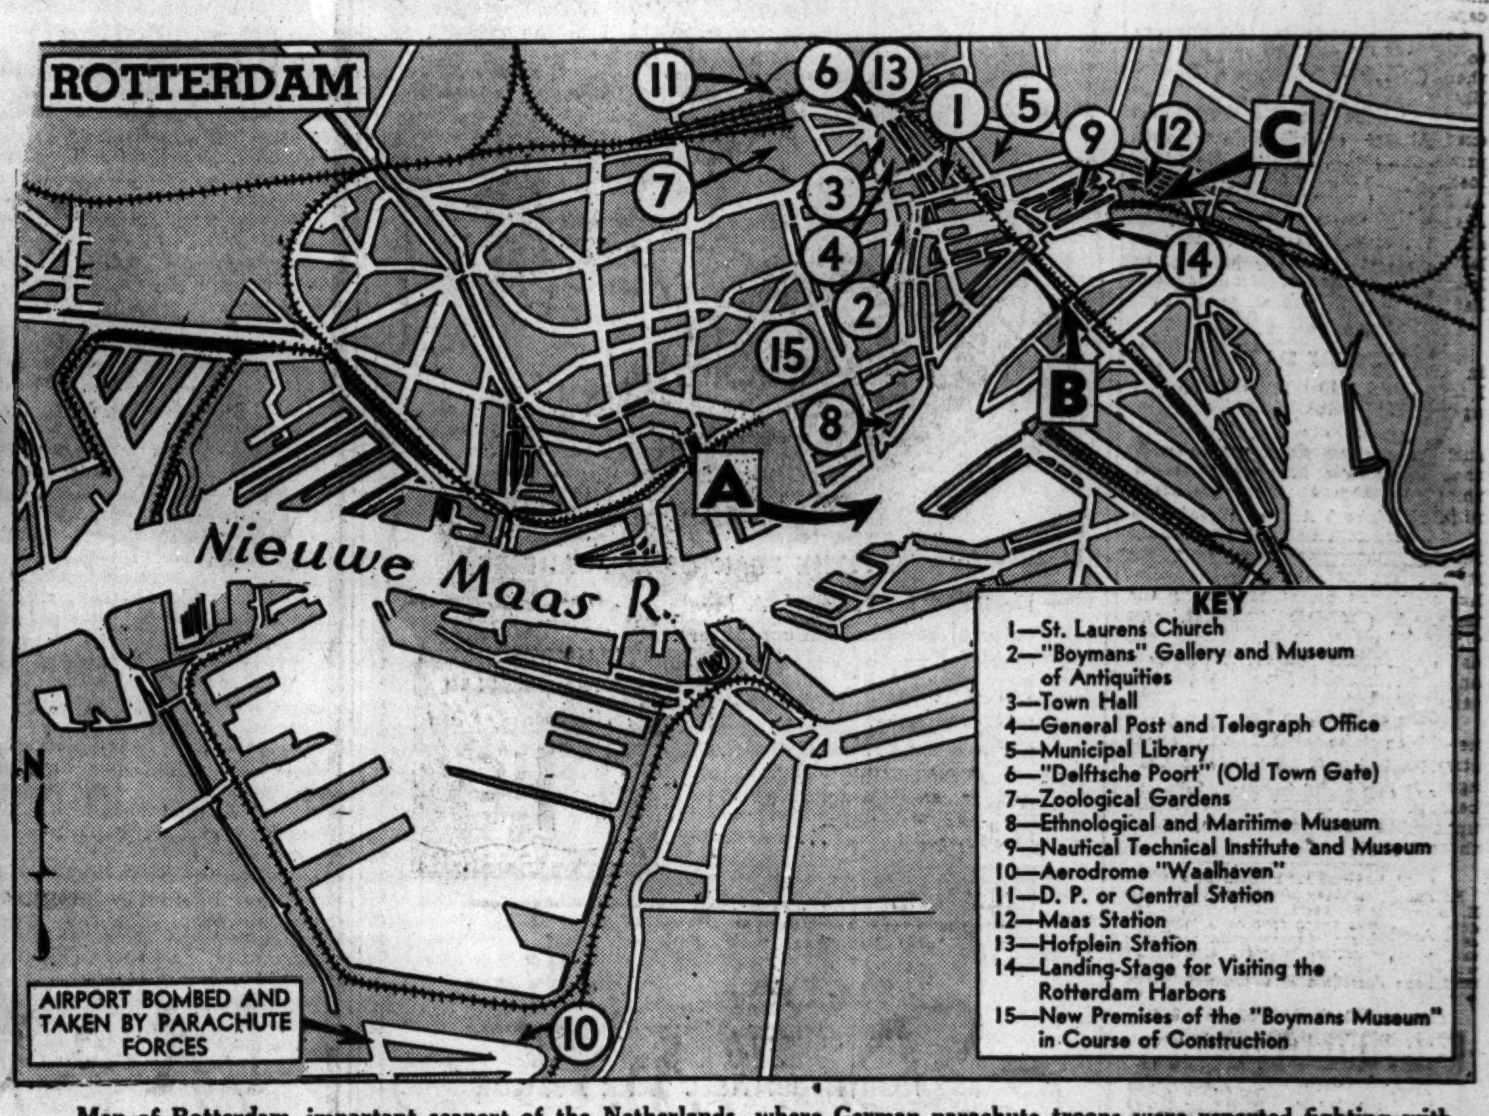
Arrows indicate routes by which German and empire troops rushed into conflict for the Netherlands and Belgium yesterday. Dutch announced their defenses were holding early today. Belgians said their troops were battling "foot by foot." The Albert canal, whose waters may be released to flood the countryside, is one of Belgium's defenses.



Principal events of yesterday in the war in western Europe are indicated on this map. The powerful German and French lines of fortifications also are shown. More than two score were reported killed by aerial bombings in France. Widespread air alarms were sounded in France early today as Hitler's planes pressed drive.



Aerial photograph of the heart of Rotterdam, the Netherlands, where sharp battles were fought yesterday and grew in intensity last night. The British reported that their aircraft attacked 50 German troop-carrying planes at the Rotterdam airport, occupied by enemy during early hours of invasion.



Map of Rotterdam, important seaport of the Netherlands, where German parachute troops were reported fighting with their backs to the wall early today. Invaders were being reinforced by airplane under cover of darkness. Letters locate the principal action as similarly designated on photo.

LOW COUNTRIES GIVE NAZIS SHORT CUT TO ENGLAND

Offer a Possible Way of Flanking Maginot Line.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Behind Germany's invasion of Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxemburg is this important military factor:

The flat, sandy, low countries offer the shortest direct route from Germany to England and a possible way of flanking the tremendous French fortifications on the western front.

Germany declared her invasion was launched to forestall a similar move by England and France.

Air bases in Belgium would bring German planes within 50 miles of the English coast; in the Netherlands only 120 miles.

Defenses at Peak Efficiency.

Apprehensive since the European war started Sept. 1, both nations have brought their defenses to peak efficiency.

Belgium has the better fortifications. The Netherlands places faith in a complex system of water defenses which already is being flooded in an effort to hold up land operations. Air invasion is another matter.

Together they have about 1,000,000 soldiers, 600,000 of them Belgian and 400,000 Dutch.

Luxemburg, which also felt the force of Nazi might today, is a 999 square mile grand duchy wedged between France and Germany at the southeastern end of Belgium.

Luxemburg Easy Prey.

Without defense forces or fortifications, Luxemburg is easy prey for a larger power. During the world war she was occupied by Germany.

Holland's fortifications are built around a basic system of water defenses first used with decisive effect 367 years ago.

The dikes were opened in 1572 to break the siege of Leyden by the Spaniards. About 1,500 miles of the works protect the one-fourth of the country which is below sea level.

Dutch defense experts last Nov. 8 opened sluices on the first or eastern border "water line."

A strip two to three miles wide can be flooded thru the center of the Netherlands, from Zuider Zee on the north, thence south and west to the west coast above the Belgian border.

Picture Holland as Vulnerable.

This leaves the country's three principal cities, The Hague, Amsterdam, and Rotterdam, protected from the east.

American military observers believe Holland is vulnerable to a lightning German assault despite the water defenses.

Belgium, with whom the Netherlands has been coöperating closely in preparing for emergency, has a three line defense system of which a water line—the Albert canal—forms the third line.

The first line, along the 55 miles of Belgium's common frontier with Germany, is based on fortresses at Eupen and Malmedy. It is made up of trenches, blockhouses, and concrete machine gun nests.

Belgium's Maginot Line.

Behind the first is a second, a far more formidable system of fortifications which is believed to be patterned after the French Maginot line, of which it could form a continuation.

The third, the water line, extends for 75 miles from the pivotal fortresses of Liege northward to the Netherlands border, thence westward to Antwerp on the seacoast.

CALL WOMAN'S DEATH SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Mrs. Mae G. Chapman, 57 years old, a widow, who slashed her throat Thursday in the West Suburban hospital. She lived at 154 North Humphrey avenue, Oak Park.

DUTCH DECLARE STATE OF WAR IN THE WEST INDIES

Foil Attempts by Nazis to Scuttle 3 Ships.

WILLEMSTAD, Netherlands West Indies, May 10 (AP).—The governor today proclaimed a state of war against Germany in the territory of Curacao, a possession of the Netherlands.

Soon afterward 150 French marines from the cruiser Jeanne D'Arc landed on the rich oil shipping island of Anuba. They were fully equipped.

All Germans in Aruba were detained and sent by steamer to an unnamed island. The crew of the German ship Antilla set fire to its vessel and nearly burned it out. The crew was detained.

Population Is Calm.

The proclamation of a state of war and martial law in Curacao followed attempts by the crews of three other German ships to scuttle or burn them.

One German who resisted Netherlands authorities was reported killed. The destructive attempts were frustrated. Soon after word was received that Germany and Holland were at war the German ship Patricia and Alemania were set afire by their crews, but quick action by fire fighters controlled the flames.

Sea cocks were opened by the crew on the Henry Horn, but the authorities closed them. The vessel was left listing.

Other German vessels in the harbor were safe. German crews were picked up and sent to Bonaire.

The population remained calm, and it was said that any offers of help from the outside would be refused.

CHURCHILL SHIFT OF NO MOMENT, DECLARE NAZIS

BERLIN, May 11, Saturday (AP).—Authoritative Nazi sources said today that the appointment of Winston Churchill as British prime minister has "very little interest for us at the moment."

DNB, the official news agency, however, said the switch from Neville Chamberlain meant that "the most extreme war agitators have seized power in London.

"Chamberlain, who constantly sought to play the rôle of gentleman wth an umbrella and prayer book, is now succeeded by an exponent of plutocracy who always has preached a brutal war of destruction against the German people," said the agency.

NAZI INVASION GIVES FILIPINOS CASE OF JITTERS

MANILA, P. I., May 10.—Germany's invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxemburg has given this part of the world its worst case of war "jitters." Securities prices dropped and many rumors concerning activities in the far east were circulated.

Martial law and defense preparations of Java, a possession of the Netherlands, however, did not cause authorities here to consider the situation alarming.

Six submarines, one light cruiser, and 12 bombers have been left in the Philippine area by the American Asiatic fleet, most of which now is in Chinese waters. Army intelligence sources say no special preparations are contemplated in the event that Japan decides to move into the Netherlands East Indies.

DUTCH PROCLAIM MARTIAL LAW IN RICH EAST INDIES

Say Outside Assistance Will Be Unwelcome.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, May 10 (AP).—Gov. Gen. Tjarda van Starckenborgh Stachouwer issued a proclamation today placing the entire Netherlands East Indies under martial law.

In a broadcast he declared that the Indies, as a part of the Netherlands kingdom, were at war with Germany, but that their status was otherwise unchanged. He said the government was able to guard the Dutch East Indies, rich in raw materials, and that any help from other nations would be rejected as unwelcome.

That statement was believed here to refer to an official Tokio declaration April 15 expressing Japanese concern over any change in the status of the Netherlands East Indies as a result of the possible involvement of the Netherlands in the European war.

Recall Hull Statement.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull on April 17 issued a formal statement asserting that any intervention in the East Indies "would be prejudicial to the cause of stability, peace, and security in the entire Pacific area."

The Netherlands government subsequently announced that it neither desired nor would request any third power protection in the East Indies.

The governor general's office announced that all Germans over 16 would be interned. Between 2,000 and 3,000 Germans are believed to be in the Netherlands East Indies.

Nineteen German cargo ships taking refuge in Dutch East Indies ports were reported to have been seized and their crews interned. It was said they had been preparing for a dash to the Russian Siberian port of Vladivostok.

Japan Keeps Hands Off.

TOKIO, May 10 (AP).—Germany's invasion of the Netherlands has brought no concern in Japan over the Netherlands East Indies, Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, said today. Japan, he said, is following a policy of "strict noninvolvement."

He said Japan had no evidence to indicate that the European move would affect the East Indies.

"Germany is too busy in Europe, the spokesman said, "to pay attention to the East Indies."

Vets Who Crushed Boxer Rebellion to Meet Today

Forty-six of the 5,000 American soldiers, sailors, and marines who stormed the walls of Peiping, China, on a hot day in August, 1900, and opened the way for the crushing of the Boxer rebellion, will be reunited in Chicago today. The occasion will be the 39th convention of the Department of the Mississippi, Imperial Order of the Dragon, which meets in the Fort Dearborn hotel.

26 YEARS SPEED WAR'S TEMPO IN BELGIAN ATTACK

Bennett's Story of 1914 Invasion Retold.

No more striking illustration of how war and the spirit of war have changed in 26 years could be found than by a comparison of Germany's invasion of Belgium yesterday with the occupation of Brussels by Kaiser Wilhelm's army of 1914.

Ground strafing planes, parachute troops dropping from the clouds, and flat bottomed rubber motorships carrying soldiers over flooded areas brought the 1940 invaders to the lowlands. This army is armed with the most efficient death dealing devices the ingenuity of man has produced for the destruction of his fellows.

By contrast, the advance of the long column in field gray that took three leisurely days to pass thru Brussels in 1914—with curiously human interludes to break its business-like progress—seems almost harmless.

Same Spirit of Ruthlessness.

But then, as now, the same spirit of ruthlessness prevailed.

Herewith THE TRIBUNE presents a word picture of that older German occupation, penned by a master reporter, the late James O'Donnell Bennett, whose dispatch remains as fresh and vital as the day it first appeared in THE TRIBUNE:

"The morning of Aug. 20 [1914] was cloudy, a motionless kind of cloudiness which the Bruxelleans—and we sojourners who loved Brussels, as, I think, do all visitors who tarry there—felt was ominous.

"All morning came reports, by word of mouth, that the invader was steadily drawing near, ever nearer.

"The city was very still.

National Colors Drawn In.

"The vivid national colors of black, yellow, and red had all been drawn in. No flag floated from any window or any balcony; from both the naked poles stuck out light, gaunt fingers.

"As noontime approached the maids, some of them gasping with fright and some of them softly crying, ran thru the halls and suites of the Palace hotel and drew down all the shades—tightly.

"The silence became more oppressive. It weighed one down like heavy atmosphere. The sidewalks on both sides of the noble Boulevard du Jardin Botanique, down which it was known the troops would come, were filled with people. Now they spoke hardly at all—not even in whispers.

"The Germans had sent on no orders that they stay indoors. That surprised me. But maybe they wanted as many as possible of the population to receive a direct impress of the fear of the Lord.

First Rumble of Invasion.

"A little after 2 o'clock there was a soft, remote rumble, at first hardly audible, but, once you had caught it, you heard nothing else.

"Then, looking up the sloping boulevard I saw, nearly half a mile distant, what I can only describe—and that lamely—as a kind of toppling, or perhaps slow gliding, over the slope's edge of glittering bits of silvery metal. The whole length and breadth of the boulevard's roadway down to the spacious plaza at its foot was empty.

"Slowly descending toward us, the metallic glitter revealed itself as the bicycles of some 75 military wheelmen whose machines, in breadth filling the pavement from curb to curb, made a formation of about equal depth. They moved several hundred paces in front of the avalanche of foot troops now sweeping into view.

Sniper Bullets Invited.

"Those wheelmen—silent, watchful, steady—in a sense invited shots of franctireurs, if any there were. That invitation was their perilous mission. They were to draw the fire, if firing was to be, and they made a pathetically easy target.

"A dozen similes, all of them banal, come to mind in my effort to describe the avalanche.

"It was a gray-green glacier. It was a slow moving Niagara of troops—troops, troops, troops—of rumbling gun carriages, of heavy stepping artillery horses, and of the glossy clean limbed, clean stepping, dapper mounts of glossy, dapper officers. It was wonderful; it was beautiful; it was eerie, and the pageantry of it, stupendous tho it was, clicked like a piece of delicate mechanism.

"When the head of the columns reached Place Rogier at the foot of the boulevard, there was a period when field guns were passing thru that plaza at the rate of three a minute for one solid hour.

Commander's Mien Haughty.

"Count Von Arnim, members of whose illustrious family had, nearly three centuries before, fought now with the great Gustavus Adolphus, and now with Wallenstein, was in immediate command of the entry and led the way.

"When he rode past I stood within a few feet of him and closely scanned his face. Save for watchfulness and a severe placidity his countenance was inscrutable. But his mien seemed haughty. He held a loose rein, made no gestures, and, as far as I could hear, uttered no commands.

"On, on, on moved the host. Rumble of cannon wheels, thud of heavy boots, ring of sharp shod hoofs, tinkle an dcrash of metal links of harness.

"The sounds combined into a harmonious diapason—so close-knit, so steady that it did not create the effect of noise and did not break in upon the wide-eyed wonder of the thousands of onlookers.

Order Echoes Down Line.

"Suddenly there was a far-carrying cry of 'Halt!' from an officer of artillery. It was caught up by detachment after detachment. It ascended the boulevard—'Halt!' . . . 'Halt!' . . : 'Halt!'—growing fainter but not less commanding as it receded from us.

"With a grinding sound, rather sickening to us in our taut, nervous state, brakes were thrown down upon artillery wheels. The action was so abrupt that sparks flew like fireworks from the broad tires. Horses were flung back on their haunches.

"What, we whispered, could that far-flung command mean? Had something dire happened? Truly our hearts skipped a beat, and some devotees made the sign of the cross.

An Interlude of War.

"This is what happened:

"An old woman, vender of newspapers, was standing in the throng on the left side of the boulevard, a bundle of fresh extras under one arm.

"An officer of artillery, riding close to the curb, bent low from his horse in passing the aged vender, motioned to her, dropped a few centimes—or perhaps pfennigs—into her dazed hand and indicated her bundle. She passed him one paper. All was so swiftly transacted that the customer did not halt his horse.

"A dramatic change of soul came over that vendor and her nearby sisters. They were emboldened. Other officers bought papers. Trade, while not brisk, became good.

"The old women waxed autocratic.

Machine Halts for a Woman.

"Business on the left of the boulevard was well cared for. Then one vendor beheld larger opportunities on the right side. With gestures, with cries in French, she made clear her wish to cross to that side. A good natured officer fathomed her tactics.

"Hence the command to halt the green-gray glacier and give place aux dames.

"The passing array was not only magnificent beyond description; it was, to the minutest detail of uniform and equipment, perfection. All was in order, unvexed, unhurried.

"Militarism in its apogee could not have clicked with more precision. And, I suppose, this was militarism in its apogee.

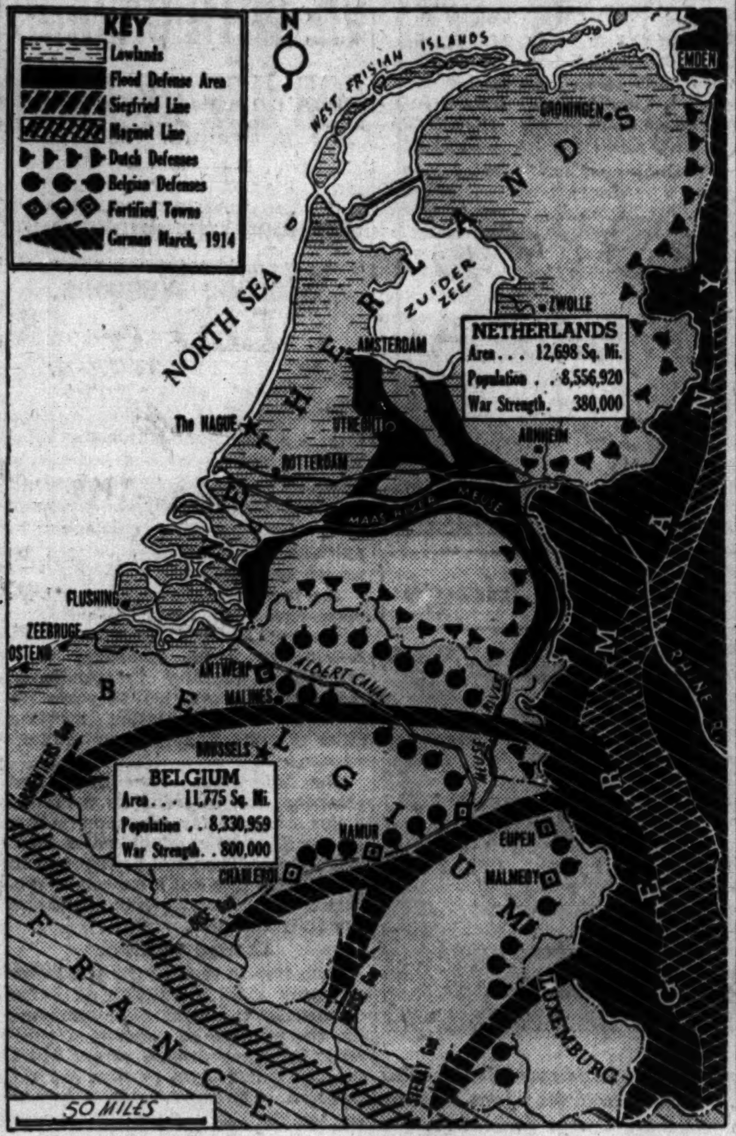
Moral Sense Befuddled.

"One's moral sense was befuddled by so much magnificence and power. One felt—fleetingly—that such magnificence and such power must be good. One had to shake oneself to recapture belief that they were terrible instruments of oppression in terribly capable hands.

"By sunset the troops that were to garrison Belgium had broken ranks. Many officers were viewing the shop windows. I must say that their conduct was above reproach—no loudness, no arrogance, no swagger. Invading Germany, now in bad with the whole neutral world, was on good behavior that evening.

"To late! Too late! The neutral world had decided that a German soldier was incapable of good behavior."

Germans Try to Repeat 1914 Feat



Heavy arrows indicate routes of German invasion of Belgium in 1914, followed by a drive into northern France. The present German campaign apparently has the same objective. The grand duchy of Luxemburg, which was invaded with Belgium and the Netherlands, has a population of 301,000, an area of 990 square miles, and an army of 250 men.

THE WAR LEAVES SHIP AN ORPHAN ON GREAT LAKES

Cleveland, O., May 10 (AP).—Somewhere on Lake Erie tonight sails a ship and crew without a country.

The vessel is the Carmelfjell of the Fjell [Norwegian] line, one of the first boats to make regular trips between Europe and the Great Lakes. The 250 foot boat was under charter to a New York company until she unloaded cargo at Toronto this week.

No word has come from the Fjell line owners, Olsen & Ufelstrad of Oslo, since that port was occupied by German troops. Neither has the vessel been taken under charter by the British government, as has been done with other Norwegian ships away from home. A Chicago concern is North American agent for the Fjell line.

On board the Carmelfjell are Capt. Helge Durandahl, 35 years old, and 18 men, most of whom have families in their native land.

GERMAN 24 HOUR BLITZ PLAN RUNS WELL OVER LIMIT

French Anticipated Move and Were Prepared.

German military leaders, in their invasion of Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg, apparently are putting the famous Schlieffen plan of strategy into operation with a few modifications prescribed by Gen. Franz Ritter von Epp, 70 year old warrior.

The Von Epp strategy, however, called for the disposition of the Netherlands in 24 hours, but the first 24 hours elapsed early today with the Dutch army fighting desperately and holding up the Nazi march. The advance also was reported slowed up in Belgium.

Despite the use of the air force in the preliminary attacks on strategic points and the employment of parachute infantry, it appeared the plan so far has not had the success expected of it.

The Schlieffen plan, conceived by Alfred von Schlieffen, who devoted most of his life to perfecting military strategy, is built around the German army's all important right wing.

"Don't weaken the right wing or you are lost," he said, just before he died.

Movements of the German army indicate the plan is following the expected pattern. The plan included a sweeping movement thru the Netherlands and fixing Belgian forces on their defensive lines in the early phase of the operation. In the meantime, the French would be kept occupied by a demonstration on the banks of the Moselle river, a move designed to "entice the French into a mouse trap."

French generals, however, were believed prepared for just such eventualities in this war. There is no question of enticing now. French and British forces were pouring into Belgium and have made contact with the Germans on both sides of the Moselle river which may result in a major battle.

Invaded Lands' Sizes

BRITISH SHELL NARVIK; LAND RING TIGHTENED

STOCKHOLM, May 10 (AP).—The battle of Narvik, almost forgotten in the rush of events in western Europe, raged on today with British naval guns pounding the German held northern Norwegian ore port and allied-Norwegian troops drawing tighter their ring of steel by land.

The Germans were reported to be intensifying efforts to land additional parachute troops to aid the besieged garrison.

Despite all the maneuvering, the latest advices said no deciding advantage had been gained by either side.

GERMANS CHARGE DUTCH-BELGIAN ESPIONAGE PLOT

Attempt to Start Revolt Alleged by Nazis.

BERLIN, May 10 (AP).—The Nazi high command and Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick today declared that startling espionage activities had been uncovered in the reich. The announcement coincided with Germany's invasion of Belgium and the Netherlands.

The government made public purported documents which it said demonstrated the low countries already were associated at arms and in spirit with the allies.

Nazi officials said it therefore was necessary that Germany strike to protect the vital southwestern part of the reich where was concentrated the bulk of her steel and coal industries.

British Link Alleged.

Official quarters said these documents had been attached as annexes to notes handed to the governments of Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxemburg.

Minister Frick charged that the Netherlands had maintained the closest collaboration with Britain in espionage activities against Germany since 1914. He linked with this the name of the late Prince Consort Heinrich of the Netherlands [husband of Queen Wilhelmina], who died in July, 1934, saying that English money had gone to Prince Heinrich to assure coöperation.

Frick said these facts and more would be brought out in the early trial of Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best, British army captains, who were seized by Gestapo agents on the Dutch side of the Netherlands-German border last Nov. 9 in connection with the Munich beer cellar explosion.

Keitel Charges Plot.

Gen. Henrich Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, in written charges added that ever since the last world war Belgium and the Netherlands had planned to join with Britain and France against the reich.

One of Keitel's reports said the entire line of Dutch and Belgium fortifications faced toward Germany. In another report he said British defense organizers had been at work on the Belgium side of the German frontier since the beginning of the present war.

Frick announced that the trial of Best and Stevens, who were seized at Venloo, on German soil within a few feet of the Netherlands border, would "unravel the dark plans of obscure and anti social elements" to bring about a revolution in Germany, overthrow Hitler, and make peace with Britain.

1914 Beginning Claimed.

Frick's report said the coöperation of these British officers with Dutch officials was a continuation of collaboration during the last European war which functioned with the active support of Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Heinrich thru Rotterdam Police Commissioner Van Tsant.

The report, which was dated March 29, 1940, alleged that "after the world war this close collaboration with neutral Holland and with Belgium was not given up, but expanded and continued with the knowledge and tolerance of authorities in the low countries, which today are obeying English commands and working under high pressure."

After the seizure of Best and Stevens last November, authoritative British quarters said the officers were acting with the knowledge of the British government to determine the genuiness of a purported German peace offer.

Alleged Tire Thief Shot as He Attempts to Flee

William Wilczynski, 21 years old, was shot in the right leg last night as he tried to get away after Policemen Raymond Rydeen and Timothy Regan, of the stolen auto detail, said they caught him stripping tires from a new automobile in front of 1746 Adams street. Wilczynski, who lives at 2236 21st place, told police a federal charge of stealing from on interstate shipment is pending against him.

PRESS IN SWEDEN BRANDS INVASION AS 'OUTRAGEOUS'

Derides Charge of Plot by the Empires.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 10 (AP).—The Swedish press today criticized Germany's invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxemburg as "an outrageous violation of neutrality."

While refugees still streamed across the border into Sweden from German-invaded Norway, the latest Nazi move shoved the Norwegian campaign out of the Scandinavian news picture.

Scoffs at a "Plot."

The newspaper Aftonbladet observed:

"Germany has attacked and, as an excuse for her outrageous violation of neutrality, stated that she had absolute evidence of plans for a French-British attack against Germany via Holland and Belgium. . . . This method is well-known by now."

Nya Dagligt Allehanda declared "the attack has this time been started with brutal accuracy, characteristic of Germany's plans of war."

Sees Help in British Crisis.

"England has been busy publicly washing her dirty linen," this newspaper continued.

"The disorganization which possibly could have been a result of this among England's highest leaders has given the Germans a favorable opportunity for a surprise."

FIGHT OVER AIR SAFETY SENT TO VOTE BY SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The senate reorganization committee today reported adversely, by a vote of 5 to 3, a resolution by Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] to reject President Roosevelt's order shifting the independent Civil Aeronautics authority to a subordinate status in the department of commerce.

Altho the McCarran resolution was disapproved by the administration dominated reorganization committee, the fact that it was reported to the senate will obviate the necessity of a motion to discharge the committee, as Senator McCarran had planned. The reorganization scheme thus will be considered on its merits when the senate convenes on Monday. The house disapproved the President's order by a vote of 232 to 153 and Senator McCarran is confident that the senate also will reject it.

The President's order abolishes the CAA's three man Air Safety board, which conducts investigations and makes recommendations for safety rules to be adopted and enforced by the CAA.

Warrants Issued for Five Who Defied Dies Quizzers

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Bench warrants for five alleged communists, charged with contempt of a house committee in refusing to answer questions in the Dies committee investigation of un-American activities, were sent to their home jurisdictions today. The warrants, designed to aid in bringing the men to Washington for arraignment, were sent as follows: To Boston, for the arrest of Philip Frankfeld and Thomas F. P. O'Dea; to Pittsburgh for the arrest of George Powers and James H. Dolsen, and to Baltimore for the arrest of Dr. Albert Blumberg.

4 YEAR COLLEGE PLAN WILL GET COUNCIL STUDY

A subcommittee was appointed yesterday by Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], chairman of the city council schools committee, to study the possibilities of establishing a four year city college.

This action followed a two hour meeting in the council chambers at which James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, Supt. William H. Johnson, and representatives of student groups, civic organizations and business mens' clubs spoke. McCahey told the meeting that the 1940 school budget has no funds for the erection either of a four year college or branch of the city junior college on the north side.

Johnson said that under state law the board has power only to operate a junior college for a two year term. It was emphasized also that additional funds for such a purpose would have to be supplied thru a higher pegged tax levy.

ENGLAND TARGET OF BLACKSHIRT JEERS IN ROME

Posters Are Tacked Up in Streets.

ROME, May 11 [Saturday] (AP).—Thousands of posters deriding England were tacked up during the night in Rome's principal squares by Italian blackshirts.

Headed "England's failure," the posters consisted almost entirely of phrases from speeches made by former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of England. Some of them were: "Our plan failed" [referring to Chamberlain's words admitting failure in Norway], "always late," and "nightmare of menace." Another bore the caption: "England has missed the bus."

The Fascist press accepted the German attack on Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg as evidence that Germany once more had won in swiftness, but otherwise was cool in its comments. Italy, which is linked with Belgium by ties of royal blood and with Germany by a pact of steel, officially was firm in its nonbelligerency. The country remained calm tho apprehensive.

Expect Call for More Reserves.

It was thought probable more reservists would be called to reinforce the army of 1,250,000 men as a precautionary measure.

United States Ambassador William Phillips likewise found nothing to recommend that Americans leave Italy for their safety. High Fascists puzzled over probable effects of the resignation of Chamberlain and the succession of Winston Churchill as prime minister of England.

Fascist opinion was divided between the idea that Churchill would force more vigorous prosecution of the war and the opposite theory that the Democratic system could not produce any government capable of defeating the German dictatorship.

Pope Described as Shocked.

Foreign diplomats called on Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and at the Vatican, where Pope Pius XII. was described as "shocked and deeply grieved." The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano condemned the German invasion of the low countries as "horrible."

Italians expressed hope in the leadership of Premier Mussolini, their royal family, and the pope to keep them safe. King Vittorio Emanuele returned to Rome from the opening of the colonial exposition in Naples just in time yesterday to receive news of the invasion of Belgium, the country of his daughter-in-law, the Crown Princess Marie Jose.

Burglar Slugs Grain Man; Flees; Seized 2 Hours Later

Kankakee, Ill., May 10 [Special].—Awakened by a burglar in his bedroom early today, Rene Euziere, 50 years old, Manteno grain dealer, grappled with the intruder until the latter felled him with a blunt instrument. On Euziere's description, two hours later in Kankakee, Sheriff Dan Bergan arrested Elbert Reed, 29 years old, of Manteno, who admitted the robbery and assault.

CHICAGO CONSULS WAIT ANXIOUSLY FOR WAR NEWS

Chicago consular officers of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxemburg—invaded by Germany—last night were anxiously awaiting official notice and instructions from their governments. Meantime, they will carry on their business as usual.

Emile Rosier, consul general for Belgium, and a veteran of the first world war, predicted that Belgium would put up a good fight. John Vennema, veteran consul general for the Netherlands, said the invasion was "a great shock," particularly after Hitler had promised not to attack the Netherland. Fred A. Gilson, secretary to John Marsch, consul general of Luxemburg, said: "We had hoped the Germans would keep their word that Luxemburg would not be invaded."

Vennema said the captain of the Dutch freighter Prins Maurits, which arrived in Chicago Thursday from Europe, had been instructed to continue loading operations and then await orders. Yesterday the freighter was in East Chicago loading steel.

REPORTS CAPTAIN LOST WITH SHIP DIED IN VAIN

MIDLAND, Ont., May 10 (AP).—Junis Macksey, first mate of the ill fated grain carrier Arlington, told an admiralty inquiry today that Capt. Fred Burke, who went down with the ship, had ample time to reach the lifeboat before the vessel foundered in a storm on Lake Superior May 1.

[Previously it had been reported Burke stayed aboard to make sure all his crew was able to reach the lifeboat.]

"He had lots of time," said Macksey, one of 16 who took to a lifeboat and were picked up by a freighter. "He was no use on the bridge with the steam off." Macksey testified he learned after the lifeboat had been lowered that Burke still was aboard, but it was "too risky" to send any one back for him.

HERO OF REVOLUTION, ETHEN ALLEN, FEATURE OF FIFTH ROW CENTER

The patriotism of Ethan Allen was dramatized for W-G-N listeners last night on the Fifth Row Center program. Van Heflin, the leading man in "The Philadelphia Story," now playing at the Erlanger theater, took the title rôle of the Green mountain hero in Tom Foy's Revolutionary war days play, "Ethan Allan." Gail Henshaw played the part of Mary Brownson, who became Allen's wife. The final episode portrayed the surprise attack which Allen and his men made on Fort Ticonderoga and their triumph over the British. Harold Stokes and his W-G-N orchestra supplied a musical backdrop.

TWO NEW RIFLES VIE WITH GARAND FOR USE BY ARMY

Developed by Makers of Sporting Weapons.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The army's Garand semiautomatic rifle, which received a congressional vote of confidence in tests yesterday with its rival, the Johnson semiautomatic rifle, faces two new challenges in quick firing weapons developed by private enterprise.

The new semiautomatic rifles have been developed by the Winchester Repeating Arms company and the Remington Arms company. Both companies working independently, made use of more than 20 years' experience with repeating sporting rifles in perfecting the new military weapons.

The Winchester Repeating Arms company was awarded an 8 million dollar contract for the manufacture of the Garand semiautomatic rifles last October. The plant has not turned out a single rifle, but it expects to produce 3,000 a month when tools and dies are fully installed.

Charted by Army.

Each step in turning the plant over to army rifle production is being charted by the army high command for the purpose of creating a yardstick for other private plants which may be called upon to turn out the weapons. The army claims it is turning out the rifles at the rate of 1,000 a week in its Springfield arsenal. However, as late as last January production claims of 600 a week were shown to be one-third exaggeration.

Both companies could turn out their own rifles at a much faster rate than the army is turning out its weapon. The companies can produce between 100 and 200 sporting repeating rifles each of various models a week without pressing. Demand does not reach that amount except around the hunting season. These rifles could be readily converted to military rifles with the addition of bayonet swivels and slings.

Turning all facilities to one standard weapon of their own design, the factories could readily throw production into the thousands. During the world war plants turned out rifles at the rate of 38,000 a week. They could easily top the 7,000 rifles a month schedule which the army hopes to attain when the Winchester plant is in operation.

Civilian Experts Disagree.

At the rate of 7,000 rifles a month, it is estimated, it will take almost 10 years to equip an initial protective force of a million men with Garand rifles.

The Winchester and Remington companies estimate that they can turn out between 200,000 and 300,000 semiautomatic rifles a year without any costly additions to their equipment. Officials of the Johnson Rifle company have insisted that they can turn out their weapon rapidly enough to equip the army with all it needs in a year.

While members of the house and senate appropriation subcommittees, which watched the Garand and Johnson rifles in action for four hours yesterday, were satisfied to call the controversy over the relative merits of the weapsns closed, civilian experts were of another opinion.

The congressmen pronounced both guns to be excellent weapons and said they were satisfied to let the army make the Garand its choice as the army had developed the weapon. The civilian experts said that the tests were not conslusive.

The civilian experts, members of various rifle groups, insist that the army should employ a number of semiautomatic rifles.

Experts from the National Rifle association hold that the Johnson is a better rifle than the Garand because the latter overheats, cannot stand tough usage, and will stray as much as six feet in 600 yards in 130 rounds of firing.

The civilian experts advocate full trial of the Remington and Winchester rifles. The principal feature of the latter is that its gas reloading mechanism is operated from a vent in the middle of the barrel rather than the end as is the case with the Garand and Johnson.

CHARGES AGAINST 2 IN CHRISTIAN FRONT CASE ARE DISMISSED

New York, May 10 [Special].—Federal Judge Marcus B. Campbell today dismissed for lack of evidence charges of conspiracy to overthrow the United States government and to steal government munitions against George M. Kelly, 24, a swimming instructor, and Edward L. Walsh, 23, National Guard member. They are two of the sixteen defendants who have been on trial in the United States District court in Brooklyn since April 3.

As soon as they left the court room, Capt. John T. Prout Jr. of the 165th infantry, New York National Guard, took the witness stand in his own defense and began a long account of how he came to be involved in the alleged "Christian front" conspiracy.

Capt. Prout, who will be 30 years old Sunday, told hom he had been convinced by William Gerald Bishop, alleged leader of the plot, that Bishop was a former British army officer. He said Bishop often asked him if he could get any spare ammunition for a rifle club in which Bishop was interested.

ENEMIES WITHIN MENACE NATION, REP. DIES WARNS

Asks Drive on Disloyal in Two Speeches.

Congressman Martin Dies of Texas, chairman of the house committee on un-American activities, called yesterday for the prosecution of such un-American elements as communists and followers of Naziism "who are violating the laws of our land."

"There is not a leader of these un-American groups who cannot be apprehended and convicted," Dies said.

He spoke at a noon luncheon of the Executives' Club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman and in the evening before 5,000 persons in the Roosevelt High school at East Chicago. This was sponsored by the East Chicago Junior Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion. He will talk at 8 p. m. tonight in the Evanston High school.

Reviews Committee Findings.

Speaking on "Exposing the Skeleton in the Closet," the Texas Democrat reviewed disclosures made by his committee, using them to illustrate his warning of the dangers which lie in activities of undemocratic minorities in this country.

"Nazis, Fascists, and communists alike follow the same pagan philosophy that the state is everything, the individual nothing," Dies said.

"This nation has two enemies—those without and those within. Personally, I have no fear of our enemies without, for we cannot be invaded.

"I cannot join in the clamor that it is the duty of the United States to involve itself in the European war. If we are to retain our constitutional democracy we must keep aloof from European entanglements, for if we do not we will emerge in dictatorship."

Dies then described the workings of the undemocratic minorities in Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, and Denmark, explaining how the Czecho-Slovakian government permitted the Nazi sympathizer, Konrad Henlein, to organize a group of 1,500,000 "whom the government finally learned owed its allegiance to Germany, rather than to Czecho-Slovakia."

Tells of Nazi Spy Activities.

"Hitler knew the military plans of Poland six weeks before he invaded that country," Dies continued, "thru the operations of Nazi sympathizers there. And communists aided Nazi spies in Norway.

"Is this a major threat in this country? Don't measure the Nazi and communist strength by their actual numbers. Remember that when the communists took over the government of 160,000,000 persons in Russia they had only a few members, and that when Hitler took Germany his was a minority party.

"While the communists and those who belong to the German-American bund mask themselves as political parties in America, they are in no sense political parties. They are all agents of Moscow and Berlin, and their object is to gather and transmit valuable industrial and political information, and to undermine our constitutional democracy by force and violence."

Dies said his committee had evidence that the communists have units in every vital industry in America and asserted that there are 150,000 communists in American labor unions. "I want it understood, however," he said, "that the great majority of union members are loyal, patriotic Americans."

QUIZ IN NEBRASKA ABSOLVES DEWEY OF SLUSH CHARGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C. May 10.—The senate committee investigating senatorial, presidential, and vice presidential campaigns today absolved Thomas E. Dewey of charges that excessive sums of money were spent in his presidential primary campaign in Nebraska. Dewey defeated Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan in the presidential preference contest.

Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], chairman of the campaign committee, said investigators' reports indicated "there was on substantial basis for the allegations of large expenditures in the Nebraska presidential primary."

Gillette said investigators now will proceed to Wisconsin "for an investigation of similar charges in the presidential primary campaign." Dewey also defeated Senator Vandenberg in Wisconsin.

$170,000 FOR CITY SHARE WILL KEEP 7,600 ON WPA JOBS

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission authorized the Chicago Relief commission yesterday to advance $170,000 to the Works Projects administration to maintain the present employment level of 36,000 workers in the city during May. This grant of the city's share on sponsored WPA projects prevents dismissal of about 7,600 men.

Yesterday's action brings the total allocation for May to $335,000. Several weeks ago the IERC made its first allotment of $165,000 for the month to the city. The city is to contribute $458,000 from motor fuel tax receipts.

Pick 5 in House to Probe Interstate Migration

Washington, D. C. May 10 (AP).—A special five member house committee, headed by Representative John H. Tolan [D., Cal.] and including Representatives Claude V. Parsons [D., Ill.], John J. Sparkman [D., Ala.], Carl T. Curtis [R., Neb.] and F. C. Osmers [R., N. J.], was named today by Speaker John H. Bankhead to investigate the interstate migration problem. Tolan said the committee would ask $25,000 to finance its study.

DEADENING HAND OF BUROCRACY HIT BY WALTER

Raps Supreme Court for Breaking Faith.

Congressman Francis E. Walter [D., Pa.] charged yesterday that government burocrats have stifled the nation's business and that the United States Supreme court has broken faith with the people in recent rulings denying judicial review from decisions of federal administrative agencies. Walter spoke at a luncheon of the Union League club. He said the remedy for these conditions is enactment of his bill to end usurpation of authority by administrative agencies.

Francis E. Walter.

This bill was passed by the senate last year while the Democratic leadership was napping. It was called back at the insistence of Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.]. It was revived recently and approved in the house by a three to one vote, received unanimous support in the senate judiciary committee and is to come before the full senate soon.

Predicts Senate Passage.

"I am certain that the senate will pass it," Walter said. "I don't think there will be 35 votes against it. Then I am certain popular opinion will force President Roosevelt to sign it."

The measure empowers the federal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to review rules and regulations of any administrative agency. It empowers the court to set aside these rules and regulations if they conflict with the law or if it is found the agency exceeded its authority.

Personal Gain Paramount.

"Burocrats know no political party," Walter said, "and feel they owe no allegiance to any one except the superior officer who for the moment may be in a position to extend benefits. As a result, the fundamental instinct of self preservation creates the impression that our government was set up to serve our servants.

"Unbridled power once given has the effect of strong drugs. There are in America forces that would move us away from our form of government and create an all-powerful executive branch whose judgment could not be challenged.

"There is an abundance of evidence of this move. Recent decisions of the United States Supreme court proved conclusively that the court has issued a challenge to the legislative branch either to surrender its powers or to pass the Walter bill or a similar measure."

3 LABOR CHIEFS TO BE HONORED BY LEGION POST

The American Legion's Americanism award will be presented to three labor leaders at a mass meeting to be held in the Coliseum, June 7 under the sponsorship of Chicago Union Labor post No. 745. Those to be honored are William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and Patrick F. Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council. In his announcement of the meeting Hayes Ownings, post commander, said that 15,000 persons were expected to attend and reaffirm their faith in American democratic institutions.

COURT REFUSES LOSER'S PLEA TO GET ON BALLOT

Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court yesterday denied a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the board of election commissioners to proclaim the nomination of John R. Lamb as Republican nominee for state representative in the 15th district. Lamb was defeated in the April 9 primary by Representative John A. Pelka, who died four days after the primary. After his death the senatorial committee named Joseph Zientek, 2001 West 18th street, as the nominee, and his name will appear on the November ballo'

$100,000 TRIBUTE TO UNION AGENTS CHARGED BY U. S.

Glass Industry Indictment Alleges Conspiracy.

Three business agents for a Chicago union conspired late in 1936 to enforce an alleged price fixing agreement in the glass industry in Chicago and collected nearly $100,000 in tribute from glass contractors in two years.

This is one charge in an indictment returned yesterday in the federal District court alleging violations of the Sherman antitrust law in the glazing industry. It was the fifth indictment returned in Chicago as a result of the government's inquiry being conducted by Leo F. Tierney, special assistant attorney general, into alleged trade restraints within the building industry.

Named as Defendants.

Named as defendants in yesterday's action were six persons, seven corporations, the Glass Contractors' association, and the Glaziers' union, local 27, of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America. The business agents named among the individual defendants are George Meyers and his two assistants, Max Glass and Charles Pfeiffer.

Contracting firms made defendants are: Hooker Glass and Paint Manufacturing company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, and Tyler and Hippach, Inc., known as the big three manufacturers in Chicago, and the Hamilton Glass company, the Industrial Glass and Paint company, Torstenson Glass company, and the National Glass corporation.

The other individual defendants are Michael Shapiro, president of the Hamilton company; Elmer L. Torstenson, president of the Torstenson company, and Elmer H. Puls, an independent glass contractor.

Accused of Policing Agreement.

The indictment charges that the concerns named in the indictment, together with other companies which are members of the contractors' association, agreed to use a common price schedule. The union policed the agreement, according to the charge, by refusing to supply union workers to any contractor violating the price agreement.

In return, it is alleged, the firms paid the thousands of dollars' tribute into the bank accounts of Myers and his two assistants. This practice cost the contractors nothing in the long run, the indictment adds, because they simply raised the price of glazing work to make up fro what they paid union agents.

The indictment itemizes, month by month, $86,167 which the three union agents are charged with obtaining from the glass contractors, and also lists 26 of the 28 glass contracting firms in the city which made payments. Federal investigators said the tabulation is not complete. They got most of the figures only two days ago from bank records.

List Concerns That Paid.

Following are firms from whom the tribute is alleged to have been collected and the total amounts they paid from September, 1936, to May, 1939. The list was compiled from figures in the indictments:

Aetna Glass company	$ 1,282.00
American Glass company	17,902.00
Atlass Glass and Mirrors Co., Inc.	91.50
Auburn Glass company	2,750.50
Chicago Glass company	1,367.00
Chicago Heights Glass & Paint Co.	1,520.50
Cicero Glass company	913.50
City Glass company	2,731.94
John W. Belter company	568.50
H. Eberhardt & Co.	119.50
Economy Glass company	154.50
Enterprise Glass company	193.50
Evanston Paint and Glass company	2,644.50
Hamilton Glass company	27,402.50
Humboldt Glass company	1,336.00
Industrial Glass & Paint company	1,080.50
Kellman Glass and Mirror company	184.00
Metal and Glass Products company	342.00
Midland Glass company	1,881.50
National Glass corporation	7,170.50
Normal Glass company	3,425.00
Peterson Glass company	306.00
L. Scher Glass Co., Inc.	1,518.00
Torstenson Glass company	3,860.00
Vitrolite Products company	4,260.50
Vodney Glass and Paint company	1,191.50
Total	$86,167.44

The alleged payments to the union agents came to light, it was reported, during questioning of glass contractors before the grand jury. Subpenas were then obtained on Thursday permitting the federal prosecutor's agents to examine bank records of Meyers and his aids at the American National Bank and Trust company, and at the Farmers' State bank in Valparaiso, Ind.

Chief Agent Gets $7,800.

Other investigators under the direction of Prosecutor Donald B. Britt found that Meyers got a salary of $7,800 a year from the union, and that the other agents get $5,200 a year each. The agents also get $75 a month each for garage allowance and are supplied with drawing accounts and automobiles by the union.

A second conspiracy on the part of the defendants to prevent the shipment of mill glazed sash into this area is also described in the indictment. This agreement is alleged to provide that all other union workers would be withdrawn from a job where the glazing was not done on the site.

The glazing indictment brings to 98 the number of persons, corporations and labor groups named in the building inquiry. Other indictments were returned in the tile, stone, plywood and electrical phases of the industry.

Security Director Warns Against Phone Inquiries

Don't give information about your job and business to strangers who telephone you that they're agents of the Social Security board. That warning was issued yesterday by H. L. McCarthy, the board's regional director. He charged that some collection agencies are gathering information regarding persons from whom they seek to make collections by having employés pose as agents of the board. And, he said, the board does not use the telephone for its investigations.

DICK TRACY—IS THERE A COPPER IN THE HOUSE?

BUREAUS PASS BUCK ON SCALISE AND WILLIE BIOFF

Not Our Business, Say Federal Agencies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Demonstrating the aloof attitude which the federal government has taken on the presence of gangsters and racketeers in the labor unions, federal officials today passed the buck on whose responsibility it was to look after such characters as George Scalise and Willie Bioff.

They are brother panders.

Scalise served time in Atlanta penitentiary for violation of the Mann act, and is under indictment in New York on extortion charges, accused of shaking down at least $100,000 from hotels and cleaning contractors while president of the Building Service Employés' International union. Scalise has been deposed by the union of janitors, scrubwomen, porters, and chambermaids since District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York obtained the indictment.

The Case of Bioff.

Bioff is completing in Chicago a sentence for pandering which he forgot to serve 18 years ago. It was called to his attention by unrelenting publicity which finally compelled authorities to bring Bioff back from California, where he was active as boss of the International Association of Theatrical and Stage Employés, a union which controls about 35,000 Hollywood craftsmen.

Despite the known records of Scalise and Bioff, the federal government displayed lack of interest in their unionization drives and handling of union funds until public reaction forced the government's hand.

Then the federal treasury investigated Bioff's income, particularly the source of $100,000 which he received about the time he called off a movie strike. Similarly, the treasury is now understood to be looking into Scalise's situation for possible income tax evasion. Reports of such an investigation followed Dewey's extortion charges and further disclosure that Scalise milked the union treasury of approximately $1,500,000 within the last three years.

Labor Department's Stand.

The labor department disclaimed any responsibility for looking into the characters or reputation of labor leaders. The department's specialty is prosecuting "aliens," according to department officials. And since Scalise and Bioff are both American citizens, the labor department claimed no further interest in them.

Critics here recalled, however, that in the case of one alien labor leader, Harry Bridges, a radical C. I. O. leader on the west coast, the department has not done so well in its specialty. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has been repeatedly accused of protecting Bridges from deportation.

The National Labor Relations board likewise avoided responsibility for taking action against Scalise, Bioff, or any other disreputable character in organized labor. It lacks jurisdiction, says the board.

NLRB's Explanation.

The NLRB records show no cases involving Scalise or his union. According to the board's explanation, Scalise headed a building trades union and such unions operate locally. The board is only interested in interstate operations and therefore exempted the Scalise union. Paradoxically, however, the justice department has obtained indictments against building trade unions on charges of restraining interstate trade, thereby violating the antitrust laws.

Bioff's theatrical union has been before the NLRB, but only in employé representation cases between the international union and independent unions operating on the motion picture lots. In a bargaining election, Bioff's union won hands down as bargaining representatives of the technicians for Columbia Pictures and 11 other companies involved in the mass representation election. This also did not give the NLRB authority to check on Bioff or other union officials, according to the board.

Justice Department's Powers.

The justice department, the only other federal agency with jurisdiction over labor unions, said that in addition to prosecution for income tax evasion—which really is a treasury matter—its only powers over union racketeers are confined to prosecution or antitrust charges, such as launched recently in Chicago and New York, or prosecution under the extortion statutes, where threatening letters have been sent endangering life or demanding money.

The only justice department record on Scalise was his conviction and prison term of 4½ years for white slavery, which he served.

Wife Gets Divorce from Kent Cooper, A.P. Manager

Miami, Fla., May 10 (AP).—Marian Cooper was granted a divorce today from Kent Cooper of New York on the ground of desertion. No alimony was asked. The couple was married in 1920. There were no children. Mrs. Cooper was Marian Rothwell of New York, and Mr. Cooper is general manager of the Associated Press.

Files New Charge

JULIETTE COMPTON.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 10 [Special].—Juliette Compton, once widely known on the stage and screen, in private life Mrs. Juliette Hall Bartram, today filed a fifth amendment to her complaint for a divorce in the Superior court in which she accuses her wealthy husband, James Bartram, of traveling about the world with his girl secretary.

According to the complaint, Bartram's secretary is Miss Sheila Sutton, an English girl. The plaintiff asserted that Bartram traveled from England to Australia and then back to England in company with the young woman. This was in 1937 and 1938, it was asserted. She charged further that Miss Sutton and Bartram again sailed from England to Australia and then back to Los Angeles.

CENSUS SHOWS LEVELING OFF IN COUNTY GROWTH

Incomplete Total Is 3,847,000.

The population of Cook county, which grew rapidly after the turn of the century, and leaped 30 per cent in the decade of the '20s, has changed only slightly during the last 10 years, according to census figures released yesterday.

George W. Schreech, census manager in the Chicago area, said that the tally, up to May 1, showed a county population of 3,847,000, a 4 per cent drop from the 1930 population. The figures are still incomplete, however, because all county residents have not yet been enumerated, and Schreech estimated that the final count probably will indicate a slight increase over the 1930 figure.

Last 40 Years Compared.

YEAR.	POPULATION.	PCT. GAIN.
1900	1,838,735	54
1910	2,405,233	30
1920	3,053,017	27
1930	3,982,123	30
1940	*3,847,000	†—4

*Incomplete. †Decrease.

Schreech asked all county residents who have not been counted by enumerators or who believe incorrect information was turned in, to get in touch with his office at once. A penny postcard, with the writer's name and address, will bring an enumerator, he said. The census office is at 225 South Clark street.

Trend Affects Entire Area.

The May 1 incomplete returns, indicating a 4 per cent decrease in the population of Cook county, also indicate a similar trend over the entire Chicago census area. This includes Lake county, Illinois, and Lake county, Indiana, along with Cook county.

For this area the incomplete figure is 4,191,000 compared with 4,348,000 in 1930. Final reports are also expected to show a slight gain over the 1930 census total.

Figures indicating the population of Chicago proper are not yet available, but any gains are expected to occur in the suburbs.

Tells Effect of Blighted Areas.

County Assessor John S. Clark, discussing the census reports, said the growth of the city's population is imperiled by blighted areas. He said such areas in Chicago cover 22 square miles and form a strangulation belt around the loop.

"Remove these areas or people will continue moving out of the city," Clark warned.

Frederick Rex, municipal reference librarian, said employment opportunities play a big part in determining the city's population. He commented, "There have not been enough jobs in the last 10 years, and people have returned to their old homes."

Census reports from Los Angeles, Cal., the New York City metropolitan area, Minneapolis, Minn., and Seattle, Wash., show increases. Figures up to May 1 show Los Angeles with a population of 2,499,000 compared with 2,208,000 in 1930, or a gain of 13 per cent. Gains in the other cities are roughly 2 per cent in New York, 3 per cent in Minneapolis, and 6 per cent in Seattle.

LAWYERS MAKE ARGUMENTS IN BARRETT'S SUIT

Bloomington, Ill., May 10 (AP).—Legal batteries volleyed for three hours today in the suit of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, asking for a recount in six counties in the April Democratic primary, in which he was defeated for renomination by John C. Martin of Salem.

Circuit Judge William C. Radliff then continued the case until 10 a. m. next Wednesday and instructed attorneys to file written arguments by Monday.

Barrett alleged he was deprived of 31,500 ballots in the primary, in which Martin was adjudged winner by 17,815 votes.

Martin's attorneys, including State Democratic Chairman Arthur Sullivan of Chicago and Bruce Campbell of Belleville, another Democratic leader, alleged Barrett's petition was not properly verified because Barrett had not sworn positively that the alleged irregularities were true.

DRYS NOMINATE ROGER BABSON FOR PRESIDENCY

Two relatively new converts to the dry cause, Roger W. Babson and Edgar V. Moorman, were nominated yesterday as the national ticket of the Prohibition party by its Chicago convention.

Babson, a statistician, was named for the presidency on the motion of George L. Thompson of Boston, chairman of the Massachusetts state committee. Moorman, who was named for the vice presidency, is president of the Moorman Manufacturing company, Quincy, Ill., producer of live stock food.

Until two years ago Babson was a Republican. Moorman formerly was a Democrat.

U. S. WILL WATCH ROAD FUND QUIZ AT SPRINGFIELD

Highway Bureau to Send Observers.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Federal agents next week will watch for disclosures by a legislative committee at Springfield, Ill., of any waste or corruption in expenditures of government road funds by the Illinois highway department. This interest by federal authorities was made known this afternoon at the United States bureau of public roads, which administers the federal highway appropriations.

"This bureau," said one of the executives, who requested that his name not be published, "is not an inquisitorial agency but it is our duty to protect the federal highway dollar. If evidence is uncovered that a criminal alliance is diverting funds, we can shut off Illinois federal road allotments."

Funds Involved in Inquiry.

Federal funds are involved in two subpenas issued by the legislative committee this week and returnable next week. Attorney General John E. Cassidy is commanded to produce the "little black book" of the late F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and former Horner campaign manager, who died mysteriously in Springfield on March 9. The book contains records of campaign shakedowns of contractors, boosting pavement costs partly financed by the government.

Ernst Lieberman, chief of the Illinois highway department, is directed by subpena to produce evidence relating to alleged collusions among political machines, labor racketeers [including Mike Carrozzo of Chicago], and politically tinged material companies and bond agencies—collusions shrinking the amount of pavement obtained from federal as well as state road funds.

May Withhold Funds.

The reference of the United States bureau of public roads executive to the authority of his bureau to withhold federal highway money from Illinois is not trivial. There is precedent that this authority might be exercised. Projects in Cook county were held up a few years ago while State's Attorney Thomas E. Courtney battled a teamsters' union of ill repute.

Substantial sums are involved in the implied threat that Illinois must fumigate its highway construction. From July 1, 1939, to April 1, 1940, federal payments to Illinois consisted of $4,764,684 for roads and $1,575,096 for railroad grade separations and crossing protection.

As the story of "The Angelus" is portrayed, radio listeners will be invited to turn to the reproduction in full color of the painting in the drama section of tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE. Marion Claire, soloist of the symphonic hour, will join in the "Angelus" presentation.

With Miss Claire on the musical portion of the program will be heard the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber. The Rev. John C. Evans, religious editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

The first symphony was released last Saturday. It is Franz Schubert's inexpressibly beautiful Symphony Number 8 in B Minor, familiarly known as the "Unfinished."

The Schubert symphony will be distributed as long as the supply lasts. It comes in three double-faced 12-inch records, 6 recordings. For the entire symphony, all three records, the public pays only $1.69.

BEETHOVEN TODAY!

Beethoven's mighty Fifth Symphony in C Minor is being released today. It comes in four double-faced 12-inch records, 8 sides. The total payment for this entire symphony is only $1.69. Except through this distribution, the price would be eight dollars or more.

WORLD'S GREATEST ORCHESTRAS

The recordings represent the interpretations of some of the greatest and most famous symphony and philharmonic orchestras in the world, under the direction of conductors equally renowned. All of the recordings were made in the United States, within the past 18 months, specifically for this wide public distribution in behalf of music education.

In giving up their royalties the orchestras and conductors specified that their names not be exploited for advertising purposes, and that the symphonies be distributed only through schools, public libraries, music clubs, or newspaper public service campaigns. Accordingly, the Committee has arranged two downtown distribution headquarters to be used exclusively for the purpose of making these symphonies available to the public. The addresses are 65 East Lake street, and 14 North Franklin street, and the hours of distribution are from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

HOW THIS GREAT SERVICE WAS ACCOMPLISHED

The world's greatest orchestras and conductors waived their royalties. The foremost manufacturers of musical instruments minimized their charges and profits to what they considered the barest possible operating minimum. Some of America's most prominent leaders in educational, civic, and economic spheres, members of the National Committee for Music Appreciation, gave their unstinted co-operation. Many of America's great newspapers sponsored the movement. Thus was born this great campaign to DEMOCRATIZE great music, to give its pleasure and cultural values to the largest possible number of American families. Through this campaign, sponsored here by the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation with the co-operation of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Chicago Opera, Ravinia Festival, and Chicago Women's Orchestra, it is expected that tens of thousands of Chicago families will add a source of new pleasure, new enchantment, new hope and new interest to their lives.

Philanthropists have given millions of dollars in an effort to give good music to the people. These gifts were, for the most part, without any selfish motive. These huge bequests, notably the George Eastman and the Mary Louise Curtis Bok bequests of more than eleven million dollars each, were inspired by a desire that all people might experience the unbounded pleasure and comfort that music had meant for the donors.

In the words of music educators, this distribution of recorded symphonies is one of the most progressive steps in all the history of music education. "It is an answer to a prayer music educators have offered down through the years," says Dr. Edgar B. Gordon, professor of Music Education of the University of Wisconsin.

In an editorial on May 4th, one of America's great newspapers, published in Chicago, asks: "Is it too much to say that this represents the most spectacular single advance yet made on the steadily broadening front of popular cultural participation in America?"

THIS IS HOW TO GET YOUR RECORDS

1. Come for, or send for, your symphonies at MUSIC APPRECIATION DISTRIBUTION HEADQUARTERS, 65 East Lake Street and 14 North Franklin Street. The office will be open each day from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Requests by mail will be filled in order of receipt.

2. At regular weekly intervals, on Saturday of each week, each of the 12 symphonies or symphonic masterpieces will be released. The first symphony, Franz Schubert's Symphony No. 8 in B Minor, was offered for distribution on Saturday, May 4th, and is now available. Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C Minor will follow on Saturday, May 11; Tschaikowsky's Nutcracker Suite on Saturday, May 18, etc., until all of the educational masterpieces provided in the campaign have been made available to the public. Notice of release date of each symphony will be printed in the public press.

3. You receive each symphony, which consists of either three or four double-faced 12-inch records, for a total payment of $1.69. THIS IS NOT FOR EACH RECORD, but for the COMPLETE SYMPHONY, all three or four records, six or eight sides, which comprise each symphony. The two symphonies which consist of five records (ten sides), require a payment of $2.18 for the entire symphony of all five records. The Cesar Franck D Minor Symphony, on account of its length, is divided into two units, each unit consisting of three double-faced 12-inch records and the cost of each unit is the same as for any other three-record group. A quantity of de luxe records, known as Philharmonic Transcriptions, and inclosed in record albums designed for each particular symphony, is available at a slightly higher price. These are the first pressings from the same masters enclosed in albums and featuring a portrait of the composer on the label of each record. There is little, if any, difference in playing quality. Sales tax should be added to the foregoing prices.

4. An electric Record-Player attachment, which enables these records to be played through the loudspeaker of an average radio, is available for those who require a means of playing records, and is available with your first or any succeeding symphonic unit. The player can be obtained for $4.75. A more elaborate instrument, the Symphonic De Luxe Model, inclosed in a walnut-finished case, is available at a higher price. If you wish delivery of your symphonies by mail, add 25 cents for shipping charges for each symphony. Add 50 cents for shipping charges if you wish a Record-Player shipped to you. Sales tax should be added to prices quoted above.

5. Every effort will be made to supply as many symphonies as are required. In order to avoid disappointment, and to enable us to have a sufficient supply on hand, please fill in and mail the Reservation Form. It does not obligate you in any way.

EVERYTHING AT STAKE IN EUROPE.

Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg have been drawn into the war which now covers most of central and western Europe. Just a month after Denmark and Norway were taken by surprise these three other small neutrals had their fate put to the decision they had been dreading for nine months. The decision there may be the decision of the war. It is not out of the question that it will be speedy.

Apparently the Netherlands coast is the primary objective of Hitler's new stroke. It is assumed for the present that Belgium and Luxemburg have been included in the operations partly because they would fall in by gravity if the neutrality of the Netherlands were violated and, more essentially, because the Nazi plan is to engage French and British troops over as large a front as possible to cover the dash for the coast. For the present it would seem that Hitler is seeking possession of bases from which he can maneuver his superiority in the air.

From the lowlands an air flight of about 100 miles would bring the bombers to the shipping lanes of the Thames and one of about 200 miles would carry them into the heart of industrial England. Nothing the Germans gained in Scandinavia provided them with such advantages for their air force. The Nazi attack on the new western front might indicate Hitler's thought that the Chamberlain episode in parliament—ending in the prime minister's resignation—revealed Great Britain in confusion and it also might be taken as evidence that the British blockade was winning and that the German attempt to break it and strangle the island was failing. The conclusion from the second assumption would be that Hitler decided to stake all in great battles rather than await starvation. If the Germans occupy the Dutch and possibly the Belgian coast they presumably will turn to the defensive on the ground and strike at England from the air.

The anti-Hitler world must face the fact that if the plans of the German staff are as well laid against the Netherlands, and as well executed, as they were against Scandinavia, the war may have entered its final and decisive stages. If the British and their French allies are late again, and if they cannot prevent the occupation of bases in the low countries, England must fight off attack from the air and do so with better results than have been obtained elsewhere or be in such a military position as will present the urgency of peace while there is still hope for one of arrangement. If the Germans fail in their dash they face a hopelessly protracted conflict.

The great war, stalemated for the greater part of a year, has at last broken thru and will now be fought with desperation. Two weeks may tell whether it has to find its parallel in the long drawn out struggle of the other world war or is to follow the modern line of which Poland and Norway offer tragic examples. A fortnight may tell. The Germans have more dash, more organization, and more military skill than their opponents, but they are inferior to the latter in doggedness as their defeat at the first battle of the Marne, at Verdun, and in the Argonne demonstrated.

Great Britain and France are not weak nations. Their people know what war is; they have courage and determination and they have materials for defense and attack. The French army is as yet untried in this war and now Belgium is opened up for its operations. The British navy, which has executed its assignments with its traditional skill and courage within the limitations placed upon it by a cautious government, has now its greatest task of the war—in one field of naval action to hold Mussolini in check and, in the other, to prevent the German military establishment from being firmly planted so close to the British shores.

The British and the French have been handicapped not only by the presumed air superiority of the Nazis but by the scruples which must be inherent in their theoretical position. They cannot adopt the ruthless German disregard for neutral lives. That is a characteristic of German military strategy. The French and British have felt obliged, in their larger operations, to wait until the overt act was committed by the other side. This initial disadvantage can be costly. The Nazis' propaganda that the Netherlands and Belgium were mobilized against them, that the neutral guns all pointed at Germany, and that two countries were about to yield to French and British pressure and open their frontiers is just more of the mendacity which preceded every other attack made since September, 1939.

The usefulness of such pretense is confined to internal Germany, where it is part of the exhortation to the Germans to be resolute in a war Hitler says was forced upon them by designing governments seeking their destruction. A régime at war would neglect no such appeals.

This is a war in which dominion of the old world and its possessions may be at stake. Certainly the personal fate of the men who control Nazi Germany and have expanded it into the powerful third reich is dependent upon military victory. They may be confident that they will save their skins, but they know they will not if they are defeated. Men in that position, in these days, will have small regard for the lives of people in the neutral countries.

If desperate and ruthless measures are needed for their salvation, which they say is the salvation of Germany itself, these desperate and ruthless measures will be adopted as they have been. From now on the only consideration which will govern will be the cause of the belligerents. From now on, whether the conflict be sharp and quick or protracted and more murderous, a changing world may be evolving from the decisions on the western battlefields and on other fronts in various countries to which it may spread.

If Mussolini is coming into this war he must be strongly tempted to believe that his hour will strike when the Germans get a foothold in the Netherlands or Belgium. Why this opportunist should welcome the full arrival of the German conqueror is a question he himself might later take up for reconsideration. But he will probably throw in with a winner and take his part of the spoils, if there are to be any.

The new blows of the war in its growing intensity, afflicting peoples whose one great purpose in the crisis was to keep their peace, naturally affect American sentiment profoundly. Our judgment continues to tell us that the best service the American government can do, not only for the American people but for many others, is to preserve a great area in the world where civilization keeps its sanity, its strength, and its peace. The changing world may present new problems which can be seen in outline, but they are not problems beyond solution by American intelligence, good will, good faith, and the resources at the disposal of a powerful nation.

CORN AND MORE CORN.

The announcement that the government is granting export subsidies on corn is, of course, a confession of failure. The New Deal's agricultural program was intended to prevent the accumulation of huge surpluses. Farmers in the corn belt were paid a subsidy to reduce their plantings, but the terms were such that they were encouraged to use high yielding hybrid seed, and at the same time the production of corn in other areas increased rapidly. The drouths which had been helpful to Mr. Wallace in earlier years did not again come to his rescue. A succession of fairly favorable growing seasons produced big crops.

The results are to be seen in the vicinity of country elevators. Dozens of tin sheds have been erected at almost every railroad station to store the surplus corn on which the government made its one way loans. The country is heavily oversupplied and a new crop will be added to the accumulation in another five months.

The European war has somewhat increased the difficulty by cutting off markets, but war or no war, the corn program was a failure. It is so recognized by the corn farmers. They expressed their disapproval two years ago when the congressional elections in the corn belt, and notably downstate in Illinois, showed marked Republican gains. In the recent primary the swing away from the New Deal was shown to have gained momentum.

Nebraska displayed the same trend and so did Wisconsin. The tin storage sheds which were regarded in Washington as a brilliant improvisation have served to advertise to the farmers of the central states that the Wallace program cannot be made to work. Any farmer knowing that his own corn cribs are full and that the country elevators are not big enough to hold the old crop, much less the new one, can figure out for himself that the scheme can't succeed.

THE WEST SIDE GETS THE CRUMBS.

Within a few weeks, it is announced, the work of filling in the lake off the present Oak street beach will be started. A 32 acre park is to be created at an estimated cost of half a million dollars. The state will furnish the money from federal funds allocated to Illinois for highway purposes.

A number of plans have been considered for carrying the outer drives through the new park, with a view to breaking the Oak street bottleneck. A system of highway tunnels to cost 3 million dollars is among the schemes in contemplation.

Until additional information is available comment on the various plans must be deferred, but no additional facts are required to draw the conclusion that when major highway improvements are made in this town, the west side doesn't get them. As everybody knows, the north side and the south side have received most of the improved facilities. The west side, where congestion is most severe and the incidence of traffic accidents is high, gets relatively little. That is one of the reasons why real estate values on the west side are lagging behind in the procession.

So far as highway improvements are concerned, the city's greatest need is for an elevated highway to the west and preferably for a number of them. When money is available for roads in Chicago, the west side is the place to spend it. Instead, it goes to build another park on the lake front.

PLENTY OF HIGH AND DRY LAND.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Cincinnati has mere fringes of lowlands along the Ohio river. Then it has the narrow valley of Mill creek with its steep hillsides. The low lying part of the city is a minor fraction of our territory. We have plenty of highland. No one needs to build where high water may reach them, for there is available enough high and dry land for all purposes.

Our pioneers to whom the river was the beginning and the end of all things made the mistake of starting the city in the bottoms. Not until 1832 did the people wake up to the fact that high water could work damage. That year there was a disastrous flood. Since then little by little the city has retreated from the Ohio and has put its feet firmly on the upper levels beyond its reach. So it is that high water may come and go without doing any particular harm. Years ago harm was done, but that has been wiped off as a bad loss. If any one builds now in the lowland construction is such that an occasional wetting causes a little inconvenience and nothing more.

The difference between the past and present is that from 1800 to 1832 our people thought the most desirable place of residence was on Front street, where they built houses with fine river views. Now they build their houses on the hilltops with even better river views.

We all agree, in the light of later events, that the best thing for Cincinnati that could have happened would have been successive floods from 1788, when the city was founded, to 1810 or so. Then our forefathers would have known enough to stick to the higher levels, as we are doing now. They had, as we have, plenty of high and dry land.

MR. PEPYS MISSES THE TRAIN.

11th May—Feeling rueful today, for I did plan to go on a junket but instead I must stay at home and take things easy to hasten the end of a small illness. Indeed, I am mortal tired and so I shall sleep and read at this week-end instead of frolicking away on a train ride to St. Louis, which is the destination of this junket.

Some of my friends, whom I call the Archies because they follow the craft of architecture, are going, and some other fanciers of the fine arts, too, and they will have a private car to make merry in. Now the purpose of this junket is to attend the unveiling of a great fountain symbolizing the meeting of the two great rivers where St. Louis stands, the work of one Carl Milles, a Swede, now dwelling in this republic. Indeed, they do call this Milles the finest living sculptor; and if you want to see a piece of his handiwork, go to the building in Chicago called Diana Court and pass into the rotunda, where there is a bronze lady with a bow.

Among the junketeers are the two Johns, Dave, Helmuth, Jibs, Sam, Andy, and other lively Archies of my acquaintance; and maybe Raoul, the French sculptor, who is very good at singing "La Tonkinoise," and I do mention their names so they will read it on the train and know that Mr. Pepys is keeping an eye on them, and advising them, as usual, about the golden mean of Horace.

They will sit among the civic fathers at the unveiling of the statuary, and then they will be given the keys to the city and taken to country clubs and banquets and Lord knows what, returning on Sunday, full of strange tales. And while they are in St. Louis, Master Milles better keep a close eye on his sculpture, for these fellows can criticize its head off.

MOTHER'S AFGHAN.

She often says she does not understand
How words like these are fashioned into rhymes,
The while her flying fingers change a strand
Of silk or wool to magic things; sometimes
A quilt, sometimes a bit of lace, and now
An afghan knit in rows of green and gold
So (if we dose off in a chair) somehow
We find it when we wake, no longer cold.
Poems are futile things beside the arts
A mother seems to know; with hands that weave
Beyond forgetting, in her children's hearts,
Her hopes and dreams, and still find time to leave
The blessing of her presence, simply told,
Within an afghan's pattern, green and gold.

Spring Song, Moaning Low.

No spring this year, I cried, there can be no spring! Spring comes only in the heart, and this year men's hearts are wintry with reality, cold with fear, icy with hate—no spring can come here. And nature seemed to concur.

The fields lay ice bound and dreary. The light brown buds of elm and maple showed no more life than brown pebbles. The birds sat miserably upon the fence row, and cheeped "No spring!" And then one day the sun shone warm, and the wind sprang in the south. There was a rustling in the grass, of growth and life. Buds swelled hourly, and I heard a meadowlark. And spring came to my heart, too.

True, its joy was gentler for the grief that stood so close at hand, but richer, too, perhaps. Fear and hate melted into faith and pity. And those who have briefly known the fear and hate, and died? O, grant that they may find a lovelier spring somewhere!

MEMORIES ON MOTHER'S DAY.

You heard my baby prayers at your knee;
Faith in the right for right's own sake you taught,
And that the way of wrong was always fraught
With consequences which were dire for me.
You always took the time to go and see
If you could find the boyhood toys I sought,
And, tho my looking there had come to nought,
You always found them where you said they'd be.

But there's one truth which, buried in your heart,
I lost, nor all your hunting helped me find,
Until, too late, I learned in some small part
What must have been forever in your mind—
That when I erred and paid the bitter score,
Each hurt I suffered pained you ten times more!

Apropos of Hamlet's "Father-in-law" [May 2]: In "Sense and Sensibility" [1811] John Dashwood's stepmother is always called his "mother-in-law," and a similar usage is found in "Emma" [1816]. Jane Austen, I think, never uses the "step" form.

Another Version of the Rebel Yell.

We-all are surprised at you-all for not knowing our-alls rebel yell. In our forthcoming production of "Kiss the Boys Good-bye," we found need for a rebel yell in act two. After much research we excavated Miss Ida Mae Culpepper from the wilds of Atlanta, Ga., who says the yell starts on a middle o-o-o and ascends to a high e-e-e-e, much like a siren. The yell has been used by her great-great-grandfather, her great-grandfather, her grandfather, and is even used today by her mother when calling her father to dinner.

AIDING RECOVERY AFTER A FRACTURE.

WHEN one sustains a broken bone there is much more to the repair process than fixing the parts so they can be used. Naturally, the first thing to do—after swelling has subsided—is to place the fragments in proper position [correct alignment]. In this procedure the X-ray furnishes invaluable aid, and what a difference there is between a modern "setting" and that which was practiced before shadow pictures were available. Roentgen eliminated the guesswork from this branch of surgery altho many of our older physicians were exceedingly expert in manipulation.

Now, a bone heals slowly and weeks or months may be required before union is firmly established. It is not like a cut or a scratch which will disappear within a few days. Great quantities of mending material—called "callus"—must be thrown out so as to cement the "break" into a solid piece. In most instances—should a strain be suffered later in the same region—a second fracture [if it occurs] will more than likely be some distance above or below the affected portion.

In considering mishaps of this sort we must not forget that the soft tissues—muscles, tendons, nerves, blood vessels, etc.—have been torn and crushed. But these structures will be restored to normal long before the bone is ready for use. One reason why the individual may be quite ill for a few days following an accident is because absorption from bruised cells often exerts a depressing effect.

After we are certain that a sufficient quantity of new lime has joined the ends together—then comes the rôle of physical therapy. This includes heat, massage, and exercise. The one who will begin to move an arm or a leg—as soon as it is safe—will get along far more rapidly than he who views his situation as an invitation to chronic invalidism. Many industries follow the plan of placing every workman on light tasks—well within his power—later allowing him to return to his regular duties gradually. This will shorten the interval of incapacity and the patient's confidence will be established speedily.

But before any attempt is made to resume employment of any sort the victim can start movements on his own account. Joints have a habit of becoming stiff and unyielding and—as far as possible—they should be left out of plaster casts. If it is necessary to splint these hinges or sockets they should be released at the earliest moment so that movements may be begun. Nothing will be gained by forcing a joint and only that amount of bending which can be accomplished without pain should be attempted. But day after day [perhaps several times daily] a "work-out" period may follow the application of 20 or 30 minutes of heat or gentle massage.

Two cases illustrate the point clearly, as both occurred in the practice of one physician. Two women experienced falls, each suffering a fracture at the wrist. X-ray films showed the same injury in each and the treatment was identical. One patient had five children and almost from the outset it was necessary for her to utilize the fingers, working about the house and caring for the youngsters. With her the outcome was a perfectly flexible wrist.

The other was a person of wealth who refused to help herself in the slightest degree. A maid and a nurse obeyed her every wish. When the splints were removed her fingers were swollen, stiff, and painful. Months elapsed before function was regained.

There are many movements that may be followed without danger. A joint that is free should be permitted to operate regularly. Fingers may squeeze a rubber ball. Toes may be depressed and extended. Ankle breaks—including those of the lower leg—are assisted materially by utilizing what is known as a "a walking iron"—the prongs of which are imbedded in the cast. This permits the patient to be up and about on crutches, gradually increasing weight bearing as time goes on. In addition, muscular effort is unobstructed, circulation is improved, and subsequent rigidity is avoided. Even in hip accidents the Peterson pin has changed the situation from two or three months in bed to fair activity within one's room within a week.

BEARD RASH.

R. O. writes: I am suffering from beard rash. After shaving, a watery fluid exudes from the skin. This dries, hardens, and resembles glass. What can I do?

REPLY.

The culprit may be ringworm or impetigo. Infection of the bearded region of the face is difficult to eradicate. You will need the help of a skilled skin specialist.

BLOOD TO HEAD.

E. B. writes: Whenever I sit and think the blood rushes swiftly thru my head. I am 15 years old and in good health but very nervous. Can anything serious occur from this?

REPLY.

No. It's bound to appear when you become emotionally upset. This is a minor symptom but one that should not be encouraged. Keep occupied and cultivate equanimity.

MATURE MEN THE BEST.

Chicago, May 8.—I am so tired of hearing of personnel managers who say that a man past 45 is "too old" to be given employment, that, for the first time in my life, I am addressing your good newspaper.

As manager of a Chicago corporation which at present has about 890 employés, I have seen hundreds of men sifted thru our personnel department during these last several years. Men 20 and men of 70.

And it is my firm belief that until a man has passed 35 he hasn't any real judgment—real "common sense." That a man reaches his prime somewhere between 35 and 55. And that the "curve" of his prime drops a whole lot more slowly after 55 than it rose before 35.

While much of "youth" has chosen relief and unemployment compensation in preference to hard, conscientious work, our star salesman—73 years old—has earned a good living for himself and the wholehearted respect of our entire organization for these last many years.

A JOB FOR EVERYBODY.

Maywood, Ill., May 10.—Forty billion dollars in the red and we should let a few crackpots get us into another war. America, wake up! Ask any veteran of any war or his family about war. They know. I am merely the father of a lad who is one year younger today than I was when there was an election for a fellow who would "keep us out of war," and the records now prove we were in it. He had a messenger boy go over there shortly before that election, too. Sane thinking Americans and those who have come to this shore to enjoy the freedom they never had in any foreign country, I say use your heads for something else besides hatracks before it is too late. It is everybody's job to help keep us out of war. Start today cracking down on the war mongers.

Let's add another and call it Atlantic day—honoring the most conveniently glorious dumping ground for war mongers, propagandists, interventionists, prophets of fantastic bugaboos about invasion of the United States, the alien-minded who prattle about "our" doing something altho as individuals they lack the courage to go abroad and enlist. Let's start speaking and thinking American—and American only.

LOCKS ON TOILET DOORS.

Wilmette, May 4.—Your article relative to the North Western road putting its red caps under strict observance of the wages and hours bill is enlightening. Maybe the workers generally will come to see that the present administration is taking away more incomes than benefitting the workers.

But the North Western itself has aroused the ire of many commuters. In various north shore stations, at least, they have allowed to be installed locks on the toilet doors.

FROM A MOTHER OF THREE.

Chicago, May 8.—Can some one enlighten me in the art of securing employment?

On Monday I approached one of the placement women of one of our leading employment agencies, with reference to an ad which they had in the paper. After listening to the sad story of my immediate need of a job to support my three children, the interviewer said: "Due to your previous employment on WPA and not with a private company there is no hope for you to secure employment at this time. You see, you are too old for the average office, and the fact that you have three children depending upon you for support is a great drawback."

I told her I was only 34 years old, quick and energetic, and had a thoro knowledge of office work in general, besides being a good typist, switchboard operator, and light stenographer, and would be a dependable employé, and would do everything within my power to hold a job if I were to get one, since I had such a responsibility. Even those statements, true as they were, brought forth no word of encouragement from her lips, and I left the office wondering if I should just keep walking east; but I said a prayer and something inside of me said: "Keep on trying, don't give up."

HE HAD NO PHYSICAL HANDICAP IN 1917.

Chicago, May 7.—Answering Letherneck, who criticized Roosevelt, saying he hung on to his swivel chair job in the navy department during the world war because it exempted him from the draft. For shame, Letherneck! You might have been a soldier in the world war, but you would have to go some to equal the bravery of Roosevelt. Find me another man who can equal his courage and his fortitude. Think for a minute—if you had his physical handicap, what would you do? Perhaps lie in bed and make life miserable for yourself and others. Even tho we might not agree with all his New Deal policies, I consider Roosevelt one of the bravest and noblest men our country ever produced.

THE "DRY" ISSUE AGAIN.

Chicago, May 9.—Has the Prohibition party outlived its usefulness? I wrote to 10 leading candidates for the presidency—four Democrats, including Mr. Roosevelt, and six Republicans—asking for their stand on prohibition. Only two replied, Frank E. Gannett and Senator Taft. Mr. Gannett in a second letter said it is not now a national issue, tho in an earlier letter he said some statement about it would be incorporated in the party platform.

Mr. Taft replied to my questionnaire and said prohibition would not come back again as it was contrary to our American ideals of liberty. He advocated temperance rather than prohibition as our goal.

Let me say that prohibition is not a dead issue and we will always need such a party to fight alcohol. The 18th amendment could not be strictly enforced by "wet" politicians. The party will still be needed as a moral stimulus in the life of our nation.

FINDS THE CENSUS JUST PHONY.

Chicago, May 8.—Cheer up, Lillian Plummer Washburn! The fact that you have not seen a census taker doesn't mean anything. There are scores, yes, hundreds of blocks in Chicago that never saw a census taker, but the "returns" were turned in just the same. You see, that army of census takers was paid so much for every name they turned in. Who checked on their work?

That census, so far as Chicago and other big cities is concerned, smells to heaven. If you don't believe it, just ask friends from different parts of the city, as I did. Out of six homes from Rogers Park to Roseland but two have been interviewed by census takers. And yet the New Deal census is "complete." I would be willing to bet even money that actual reports on the other four homes have been turned in and the fees already paid.

Battle of Fontenoy, which gave Louis XV. of France possession of Belgium. Louis himself was on the scene to enforce the command of Marshal Saxe, who was ill. Saxe's troops numbered 52,000, while the combined English, Hanoverian, Austrian, and Dutch forces under the command of the duke of Cumberland totaled 46,000. Each side lost more than 7,000 men in the battle, one of the most important in the war of the Austrian succession.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION.

Chicago, May 6 [Legal Friend of the People].—I am working for a firm employing five men. If I am laid off I get no benefits same as my brothers do. I am a citizen same as they. I am discriminated against. This is not right and I do not think it is constitutional. My brothers work for a firm that employs more men and they get compensation when laid off. I do not think this is right and the present unemployment compensation law should be knocked in the head and a fair law substituted for it that is fair to all citizens; one that will give equality to all in the same boat. Why should the government discriminate against me just because I happen to be working for a boss that hires only five men? It is not fair, I tell you, and I do not like it. The government should be fair to me as well as my brothers.

J. S.

If your employer has less than the requisite number of employés, this would explain the difference.

The Illinois unemployment compensation act [as amended in 1939] defines "base period" as "the 12 consecutive month period ending Dec. 31, immediately preceding the first day of a benefit year." [Sec. 2 (i)].

Section 4 [b] states that "an individual's 'weekly benefit amount' shall be an amount equal to 5 per centum of his total wages for insured work during that quarter of his base period in which such total wages were highest," but not more than $16.00 nor less than $7.00.

Section 4 [c] fixes a maximum per year of "whichever is the lesser of 16 times his weekly benefit amount, or one-fourth of the wages earned by him for insured work during this base period." In both cases odd cents are increased to make even dollars.

The act applies only to employers of eight or more thru 1938, or of six or more in 1940 and thereafter. [Sec. 2 (e)].

An employé who quits without good cause must wait five weeks. [Sec. 7.]

Excepted occupations are similar to the lists in the federal social security act. There is a waiting period of two weeks before benefit payments begin. [Sec. 6 (d)]. The act is administered by the state department of labor, 222 West North Bank drive. There are 19 local and suburban offices in the Chicago area.

O'HARE MURDER SUSPECT SEIZED HERE BY G-MEN

Mystery Cloaks Alleged Bank Robber's Capture.

Chicago G-men yesterday captured Clyde Hamilton Nimerick, ex-convict bank robbery suspect who has been sought for questioning about the shotgun assassination of Edward J. O'Hare.

Clyde H. Nimerick.

Federal agents here shrouded the case in mystery. They said Nimerick was taken in an apartment on the south side where he was living under the name of G. A. Meyer. They said also they arrested a woman known as Frances Heiser, who was living with him. But they said all other information must come from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation at Washington.

Hoover later made an official announcement which failed to mention the O'Hare case.

How O'Hare Was Slain.

O'Hare was the wealthy president of the Sportsman's Park race track in Stickney and front man for the Capone gang syndicate. Gangland executioners overtook his car last Nov. 9 in Ogden avenue near Rockwell street and shot their fleeing victim to death.

One theory advanced by police was that O'Hare had given government secret information regarding Nimerick, and that the killing might have been the revenge of Nimerick's underworld friends.

O'Hare was known as an informer who was blamed for betraying underworld secrets to the government. After his assassination police came into possession of a note penciled by his secretary, Antoinette Cavarretta, and left for him at the race track.

"Mr. Woltz phoned," it read, "and asked if you knew anything about Clyde Nimerick. He wants you or Mr. Beckman to phone Mr. Bennett." [George Woltz and a man named Bennett are G-men. Henry Beckman is a former bodyguard of O'Hare.]

Police suspected at the time that Nimerick or his friends might have learned the government was seeking information regarding him from O'Hare.

Police Theory Told.

Police say Nimerick has many enemies in the underworld because he victimized underworld figures with counterfeit money some years ago.

Nimerick, who is 42 years old, came originally from East St. Louis. He was arraigned late yesterday on a charge of holding up the Caledonia National bank of Danville, Vt., on June 4, 1934. The robbery, in which $18,000 loot was taken, was the first to occur after passage of the law making robbery of a national bank a federal offense.

Edwin K. Walker, United States commissioner, set bond at $75,000 after being informed by Francis J. McGreal, assistant United States attorney, that Nimerick had a $20,000 bond at Kansas City. Nimerick was locked up for a further hearing next Wednesday.

The outlaw is still wanted in Kansas City for the $15,000 robbery of the Interstate National bank in 1930. He is wanted at Fairbury, Neb., for the robbery of the First National bank there in 1933.

FLAMES SWEEP PAPER PLANT; LOSS IS $25,000

Fire for which a 4-11 alarm was sounded, swept thru the plant of the Roosevelt Paper Stock company at 1017 South Fairfield avenue early today, and also attacked a section of the Western Paper Grading company at 1101 South Fairfield avenue.

The fire was discovered by Herbert Zinzer, 1028 South Fairfield avenue. He turned in an alarm. Meanwhile, Louis Berman, 1347 South Lawndale avenue, the watchman, tried to beat out the flames, and suffered hands and face burns.

Firemen under Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan extinguished the fire. Corrigan estimated the damage at $25,000.

Fire Policeman Who Let Rapist Kidnap Companion

Policeman Aubrey Gordon O'Kelley of the traffic division, whose young woman companion was kidnaped from him on March 27 and raped by a gunman, was ordered discharged from the police force yesterday by the civil service trial board. He was charged with neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming a policeman.

6 CONVICTS KILL GUARD; FLEE; 5 SEIZED IN CHASE

2 Tennessee Fugitives Shot by Pursuers

Knoxville, Tenn., May 10 [Special].—Six desperate convicts arose against their guard in the wilds outside Brushy Mountain state prison today, knocked him unconscious with a shovel, and shot him dead with his own pistol.

Three of the felons raced into the woods on foot. The other three, armed with the dead man's pistol and shotgun, fled to a nearby farm, stole an automobile, and headed for Wartburg, seven miles away.

A short distance down the road the car was sighted by John Rogers, a Knoxville newspaper circulation worker. The fugitives fired at him. As Rogers fled he met another prison guard, and they started in pursuit of the desperadoes.

Fugitives' Car Halted.

Overtaking them, the guard halted the fugitives' car with a shotgun blast which wounded one convict. He was captured on the spot. His companions vanished in the woods, but one was seized not far away.

A general alarm was sounded thruout the countryside, posses were organized, and the prison dispatched bloodhounds to the chase.

The three fugitives who fled on foot were soon surrounded and captured, one of them being wounded.

At the prison authorities conceded that the six convicts were considered desperate, but admitted only one guard had been assigned to watch them as they worked on a small reservoir just outside the prison walls.

Slain Guard Father of 3.

The slain guard was John Arms, 50 years old, married and the father of three children.

The five captured convicts are Norman Akins, 24 years old; Richard Pruitt, 23; Dan Johnson, 19; Larry Willey, 26, and John Collier, 17. The latter two were wounded. The one remaining at large is Howard Overby, 24. All were serving sentences of from three to 10 years for crimes ranging from automobile theft to attempted murder.

YOUTH DROWNS IN LAKE WHEN WAVE CAPSIZES CANOE

One of two boys was drowned late last night when their canoe was capsized in the lake 100 yards off Belden avenue. The victim was Kenneth Laubner, 17 years old, 2237 Dayton street. With Burton Howard, also 17, of 902 Wellington avenue, he started out in the canoe from the Lincoln Park Boat club and headed a short distance out into the lake.

Suddenly a wave caught their frail craft squarely and overturned it. Howard managed to cling to it and make his way to shore. He said his companion disappeared immediately on striking the water.

HEAR LAWYER'S PLEA MAY 17 IN JURY FIX CASE

Judge James F. Fardy of Criminal court yesterday set for May 17 a hearing on a motion for a separate trial filed in behalf of Attorney George Crane, who with seven other defendants is accused of conspiring to obstruct justice in the 11th ward vote fraud jury fix scandal.

A motion for a more specific bill of particulars was denied by the court. Attorney William Scott Stewart, arguing for the separate trial, contended that the defense to be offered by two other defendants is antagonistic to Crane's case. These defendants are Sam Orlando, Democratic precinct official originally acquitted by the jury which allegedly was fixed, and John Howe Jr., former state policeman convicted last week on a 10 year old robbery charge.

The robbery charge against Howe was reinstated after his part in the alleged bribery was disclosed.

DOOMED SLAYER PUTS LAST HOPE IN PARDON BOARD

Victor Nukowski's last hope to evade the electric chair next Friday will be placed in the hands of the state board of pardons at Springfield Monday, his attorney, Samuel Hoffman, said yesterday.

Hoffman said he would not file a bill of exceptions to appeal the verdict of a jury finding Nukowski sane after his conviction for murder. Instead he will ask the board for a commutation. Hoffman said that altho Nukowski's erratic behavior during the sanity trial had led him to believe he was insane, he had learned since that Nukowski had told county jail cellmates, "It was a tough try, and I lost."

Scheduled to die with Nukowski next Friday are Henry Drewek and Frank Michalowski. The three were convicted of the murder of Viggo Peterson, 64 years old, in a tavern holdup last October.

GRAND JURY TOLD OF DOLE CHEATS AND 'KICKBACKS'

State Clerk Accused by Orchestra Leader.

Albert Turk, orchestra leader who is one of 17 entertainers and night club notables accused of defrauding the state of close to $3,000 in unemployment compensation, was reported to have told the grand jury yesterday that he accepted $256 from that fund and kicked $50 of it back to a compensation division office clerk.

Turk, it was said, quoted the clerk as saying, "There's millions in that fund, and there's no reason you shouldn't have a chunk of it."

Jury Hears 9 Witnesses.

Nine witnesses appeared before the grand jury. Two of these, in addition to Turk, told of paying back part of their compensation cash, it was reported. All those accused were formerly employed at Dennis [the Duke] Cooney's Royale Frolics café, 426 South Wabash avenue.

The clerk, whose arrest Thursday night precipitated the scandal, is Robert Myers, 49 years old, 837 Agatite avenue, a senior clerk in the zone office at 175 North Ada street.

Mark Fisher, formerly an orchestra leader at the café, was one of the witnesses yesterday. He was said to have told the jury he received five checks—three for $13 and two for $16—to which he was entitled. He denied he paid any of the money to Myers.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard B. Austin said there was no complaint of fraud against Fisher, but that he was questioned about addresses on his application for compensation. He said he never signed the two addresses given for him in the records and could not explain them.

Walter Tells of Deal.

John Lepori, 2512 Wentworth avenue, a waiter at the Frolics, was reported to have testified he received $256 and paid $128 of it back to Myers. Austin said Lepori was entitled to $90 of the money. Edward Jones, a bus boy living at 3725 Union avenue, was said to have told the jury he received $256, of which Myers got $50.

One who got his full $256 was Michael Hume, formerly a chef at the cafe. He ignored hints by Myers that he should get part of the cash, according to reports of his testimony. Mansfield Bryant, colored, 4634 Michigan avenue, was said to have told the jury he received $105 but that he thought he was entitled to $120.

Three others who said they received $256 apiece from Myers but made no kickbacks are: Michael Relli, 2300 Michigan avenue, former chef; Theodore Miller, 2135 Michigan avenue, a waiter, and Ralph Stamm, 1150 East 62d street, former head waiter at the Frolics.

Torch Singer Also Accused.

The prosecutors charged also that Dolly Kay, a torch singer now in New York City, also cashed in on the scheme and agreed to pay Myers $50 for her cut. Instead, they said, she notified Myers he would get only $40 because she "took care" of a dinner check for Myers and another state employe at a near north side night spot.

BANDIT CAUGHT AFTER POLICE SLAY COMRADE

Theodore Billik, who escaped early yesterday in a chase during which police shot his bandit comrade to death, was captured a few hours later in his room at 2015 Washington boulevard. Billik, who is 26 years old, confessed he had taken part in a dozen street holdups with the slain gunman.

The man killed was Thomas E. Mayo, 25, who had no permanent home. He and Billik had just held up a man and woman at Racine and Cornelia avenues when three policemen arrived. The police took up the chase. Policeman Robert Anderson killed Mayo with a bullet. Billik fled to his home, where he was hiding under the bed when police arrived.

Jail Listening Post

Warden Frank Sain (left) of the county jail and Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien beside listening device.

The county jail was equipped with ears yesterday. Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien and Warden Frank Sain announced the installation of a specially designed apparatus that allows the warden at any time to listen in on anything that may be going on inside his domain.

Warden Sain conceived the idea of the communicating system after examining similar equipment in office buildings. Microphones to pick up conversation or noises are installed at 20 strategic spots in the jail. Each connects with a keyboard in the warden's office that enables him to tune in by pressing a button.

He can tune in each listening post separately or all together. Another button allows two-way communications with guards thruout the jail. The warden said the system cost about $200.

JUSTICE TAKES A TURN OUTSIDE CARDS OF SEER

Julius Chakowsky is an amateur fortune teller, but there was nothing in his cards about the turns justice sometimes takes.

On Thursday he appeared before Judge Mason S. Sullivan in Stockyards court, accusing Frank Urbiatis, 951 West 34th place, of punching him in the nose. The judge dismissed the c8harge against Urbiatis when the latter told him what all the fighting was about. Chakowsky had told Urbiatis' wife, Tofilia, that she would come to bodily harm at the hands of her husband.

Then the court advised Urbiatis to swear out a warrant against Chakowsky, who lives at 821 West 34th street. And yesterday Judge Sullivan found Chakowsky guilty of telling fortunes without a license and placed him on probation for a year.

OAK PARK BANDIT PAIR CAUGHT IN BENTON HARBOR

Two bandits who robbed the Lombard pharmacy, 200 Harrison street, Oak Park, on Thursday, were captured yesterday by Michigan state police in Benton Harbor. They are Art Klema, 24 years old, 926 Belle Plaine avenue, who was shot and seriously wounded in the knee after the holdup, and Charles Rhinehart, also 24, of 3822 North Long avenue, Western Springs.

Both admitted the holdup, according to Michigan police, and were locked up in the St. Joseph jail. They were riding in a stolen car. Oak Park police prepared to fight any efforts to resist extradition and to return them here.

START ROUNDUP OF WITNESSES IN BABY FARM QUIZ

Grand Jury Investigation Will Open Tuesday.

Subpenas for dozens of witnesses who had dealings with the Smith "baby farm" at 2415 Winnemac avenue were drawn up yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney's office and will be served by the police today. These witnesses, drawn from a list of some 2,000 names found in the Smith home, will be required to testify at a grand jury inquiry beginning Tuesday.

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek already has indicated that several physicians may be prosecuted for performing illegal operations in connection with the operations of the farm. Mrs. Mae Smith and her daughter, Mary Smith, the alleged operators, are held in jail on charges of abducting an infant.

Tells of Signing Forms.

One woman who was questioned yesterday told of signing, as a witness, blank adoption forms at the request of Mary Smith. One instance, she said, was in April, 1938, and another in March, 1939.

"Mary told me she was going to adopt the baby herself," said this informant. "That was the first time. The second time she said she hadn't got that baby, but was going to get another one. It looked a little strange to me, but Mary is domineering and I signed."

Evidence in the hands of the authorities has indicated that the Smiths sold the babies of unwed mothers to married couples and that their operations extended over three states. Most of the 2,000 persons listed in the records were baby buyers, according to investigators, but many were women for whom abortions were performed.

Arrested in Trailer Camp.

Mrs. Smith and her daughter were arrested in a trailer camp at Waukegan last Sunday on the complaint of an unmarried mother who alleged they had demanded money before they would turn her child over to her. So far they have been unable to furnish bonds and it was said additional charges will be placed against them if they try to do so.

Laborers under the direction of Chief Deputy Coroner Anthony Prusinski yesterday dug up the entire back yard of the Winnemac avenue residence, but found nothing unusual. The digging was ordered by Coroner A. L. Brodie in the hope that several cases of murder by abortion might be solved.

BURNS TO DEATH IN HOME.

Oliver Johnson, 40 years old, burned to death early yesterday in a fire that wrecked his home five miles east of Gary near U. S. highway 20.

UNION CASH PAID OFF 3 BOMBERS, TWO TELL COURT

Say Marks Charged It to "Organizing."

Plymouth, Ind., May 10 [Special].—Two witnesses testified in circuit court here today they had been told that union funds belonging to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers paid for the bombings of a power company's property.

The witnesses were Lucius La Fortune, captain of detectives in South Bend, Ind., and Fremont Lemler, a former Indiana state policeman now a member of the South Bend police force. They were testifying against John Marks, a union organizer who is being tried on charges of plotting to sabotage property of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company.

Charged to "Organization."

The policemen said they questioned Marks in La Fortune's office last Feb. 9. They testified that Marks admitted hiring three men to perpetrate a series of dynamitings, paying them from union funds which he charged to "organizing expense."

Thru earlier testimony today, the state attempted to trace a trail of dynamite from factory to jobber, then to the retailer, and finally to Marks, who is an official of the Michigan City local of the Electrical Workers' union, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

One witness was U. J. Cook, official of a dynamite manufacturing plant at Ceneta, Ill. He identified fragments found at the scene of one dynamiting as parts of a box in which his company shipped dynamite and indicated it might have been shipped to Oscar M. Haines of Beech Grove, Ind., a jobber of his company's products. Haines, he said, sells dynamite to the R. E. Harold hardware store at Fishers, Ind.

$2,500 Offered for Bombings.

Parrish Freeman of Joliet, Ill., an ex-convict, had testified that Marks had offered him a total of $2,500 for a series of dynamitings and that he accompanied Marks to Fishers, where Marks procured the dynamite at the hardware store.

Freeman admitted dynamiting several power line towers of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company in rural Indiana. He said Marks wished the company terrorized so it would come to his terms.

Two Witnesses Balk.

Two Michigan City filling station attendants, Edward Jaske and Arthur Granns, testified that Freeman frequently had used Marks' automobile and charged gasoline to Marks' account.

The state suffered one setback when Circuit Judge John W. Kitch dismissed two of its witnesses, Earl Freeman and Frank Lung of South Bend, also under indictment. They refused to testify on constitutional grounds, contending they might incriminate themselves. Earl Freeman is a cousin of Parrish Freeman.

KILLED IN BLAZING HOME.

SOAPBOX AUTOS MUST HAVE $6.50 ILLINOIS LICENSE—OR NO SOAP!

Bloomington, Ill., May 10 [Special].—Gloom came today to Bloomington boys who have been cruising about in little autocarts made with washing machine engines and soapboxes.

Acting on advice of the state automobile department, Police Chief Clyde Hibbens announced that all miniature powered vehicles must have state licenses, which cost $6.50. The drivers must also possess driver's licenses, which cost 50 cents. This also means that owners of these vehicles who are under the age of 15 must put away their machines until they reach the minimum age. Arrest of all youngsters who do not comply was ordered.

Policeman Chases Three Bandits, Rescues Wife

Policeman Joseph Stevens was sitting in his home at 8552 Dante avenue early yesterday, waiting for his wife to return from a bridge party. He heard an automobile horn and looked out. Three men were attempting to get into his car. Mrs. Stevens, who was inside, had locked the car doors. As one of the bandits smashed the glass in the car door with a pistol, Policeman Stevens fired thru the windows into the air. The bandit escaped.

HAROLD TEEN—DARN THOSE SOX

Mrs. Thorne's Room Exhibit Opens at Fair

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. James Ward Thorne departed on Wednesday to superintend the installation of her miniature rooms at the New York World's Fair and to be there for the opening today. The rooms were at the San Francisco fair last year, but that exposition will have a new set this summer. Mrs. Thorne will spend several weeks in the east.

Surprisingly enough, the Chicagoan, Nathaniel A. Owings, who is director of the midwestern participation office of the New York fair, is not there today, for business here brought him home from the east yesterday. He will commute between Chicago and New York all summer, as he has been doing for a year or more. He hopes to be able to take Mrs. Owings east with him some time soon, for she did not visit the fair last summer. She is the mother of twin daughters who are 8½ months old, so it is difficult for her to leave home for more than a few hours at a time. Mr. and Mrs. Owings recently have moved from an apartment to a house at 1240 North State street, where she and the babies expect to spend most of the summer in the pleasant little garden that is an attractive adjunct of the house.

Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher Postpones Trip to Fair.

Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, the only woman commissioner from Illinois to the New York fair, is not in the east today, either. She was at last year's opening ceremonies, so decided to postpone a visit to the fair this year until after the annual meeting next Wednesday of the Chicago Drama league, of which she is president. The meeting is to be held in Curtis hall in the Fine Arts building. Following the election—Mrs. Steinbrecher is stepping out of office after serving efficiently for three years—Dr. J. Bradford Pengelly will talk about "Masterpieces of Drama in the Making." Later the board of directors will serve tea to the members.

The Drama league is holding a benefit for its pet project, the Children's Civic Theater, tonight at the Chicago Woman's club theater. It will be a gala spring festival, made up of the highlights of last season's programs presented by the children on Navy pier. The Children's Civic theater, located on the pier, provides recreation and free training all summer under expert teachers in drama, dancing, and singing for school children.

Mrs. William E. Vogelback, chairman of the league's theater committee, has a box for the festival, and so have Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Jefferson Jackson, Mrs. James G. McMillan, Mrs. Archibald Freer, Mrs. Walter Cummings, and Mrs. Victor L. Schrager. The proceeds of the affair will be used for the scholarship fund of the theater.

Roxane McKenzie's Troth Announced by Father.

William Dexter McKenzie of Hubbard Woods announces the engagement of his daughter, Roxane, to Alfred Marsden Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marsden Price of Hubbard Woods. The wedding will take place next fall.

The last party of the season of the Dinner Dance club, to be given tonight at the Saddle and Cycle club, undoubtedly will be the gayest of the year, for Mrs. Forest Ray Moulton of Washington, D. C., is to be the especial guest. As Miss Alicia Pratt she directed the club for several years, and the young people who belong to it are delighted that she timed a visit here so that she could attend their last dance. Mrs. Roger Faherty, Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. Homer Hargrave, and Mrs. John B. Adams are some of the mothers on the committee in charge of the club.

Cliff Dwellers to View Oriental Institute Collections.

Members of the Cliff Dwellers and their guests are to have a private inspection of the collections of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago tonight, commencing at 7:45 o'clock. The group will meet for dinner at 6:30 at the Quadrangle club.

Miss Allene Withers will come from California to be Miss Adele Proxmire's maid of honor when the latter is married to John E. Baker Jr. on June 29, her mother's, Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire's, birthday anniversary. The matron of honor will be Mrs. George Cary of New York. The only bridesmaid will be another New York school friend, Miss Josephine Dawes.

Bruce Baker will be his brother's best man. Ushering will be W. C. Dustin Grannis and the bride's brother, William Proxmire, who is in his last year at the Harvard business school. The wedding will be a small one at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the Church of the Holy Spirit.

Vassar Alumnae to Hold Class Reunions Today.

A reunion by classes will add to the interest of a Vassar luncheon to be held at 1 o'clock today at the Chicago Athletic association. Tables will be decorated with pennants for the different classes from '78 to '39 so that alumnae may be seated with their contemporaries. Some of the class chairmen are Mrs. Walter Palmer, Miss Jeanette Higgins, Mrs. Lawrence Y. Crump, Mrs. Carl Bingham, Mrs. Percival Hart, and Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot Jr.

It will be good news to Mrs. Gordon Loud's many friends to learn that she will be leaving the Passavant hospital today. She will be with her parents, the John H. Merrells of 209 Lake Shore drive, for a time before returning to her own apartment. Mrs. Merrell also is on the convalescent list, for she was seriously ill with pneumonia recently.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Contest Winners.

Hollywood, Cal., May 10.—Despite the whoop-de-doo which is raised by the publicity staffs of major studios at regular intervals, in which it is pointed out that President Blitzkrieg of the Monopolis Picture studios is pleased and delighted to welcome Matilda Pumpernickel, winner of the Monopolis talent scouting carnival, to Hollywood, contest winners are about as popular out here as a wart on your Uncle Ebenezer's front tooth. . . . The contest winners arrive, true enough, but the studio heads brush them off as quickly as possible after going thru motions that are mechanical. . . . The blame should devolve upon the promotion managers who thought up all the various contests held in the country which are predicated on the lure of a free trip to Hollywood. These contests generally exploit everything from a county fair to a new meat market. Finally, in self-defense, the studios demanded that the Motion Picture Producers' association, or the Hays office as it is better known, take steps to stop the practice.

The Hays office wasted no time in advising film exchanges, magazines, theaters and others who had been aiding in staging the contests to cease and desist. It was pointed out that the inability of the studios to give contestants what they wanted was giving the industry a black eye. And besides, Hollywood was becoming overrun with contest winners whom the studios felt responsible for but whom the studios could not force to go home. The stop orders were effective for a number of years with only an occasional studio-sponsored contest breaking the rules. But the studios had noboby to blame except themselves for that. Now, however, the ban seems to have been lifted, or ignored.

The last couple of years have seen the advent of the "talent contest" which has supplanted the "beauty contest" in many instances. But whether it is called a "talent," "popularity," or "beauty" contest, the headache for all concerned is just as throbbing. A studio executive, who has felt reasonably well until that moment, discovers in his morning mail a letter informing him that on a certain date a lovely girl or boy who has won a certain popularity or talent contest will arrive in Hollywood for a glimpse of picture making, a possible screen test, and a round of riotous entertaining by the studios. The executive groans but dictates a gracious reply. Of course the winner will be shown the inner workings of the studio, will dine in the studio commissary where the stars eat and will have her picture made with some of the screen's stellar luminaries. All this, of course, if the executive knows the promoters of the contest are responsible and too important to be offended.

Before the winner arrives, however, other letters are exchanged between promoter and studio. The promoter wants to know if a screen test will be given, if the contestant will have the use of a car to go here and there in Hollywood, and just what stars he or she will meet. The last two questions are the easiest answered. A studio car will meet contestant at airport or railway station, take him to the hotel room the promoter has paid for, and will take him to the studio for a visit. At the studio the winner will meet any stars that are working—if the star's work permits the interruption of visitors.

A screen test costs at least $300, so the executive evades that question—at least until he can see the winner in person and know the test is worthwhile. Even a fake screen test, with no film in the camera, costs money, and despite the general impression, studios don't toss away money unnecessarily. The layman seems to have an idea a screen test is simple. In reality it is a miniature production, requiring a large crew and extensive preparation. Four electricians are needed to rig the set with lights and to man the lights during the test, a camera crew of three, a sound crew of three, two set dressers, a makeup man, a hairdresser, a wardrobe attendant, a property man, a grip [or laborer], a director and his assistant make up the rest of the crew. Of the cost, $130 will go for a thousand feet of film and its printing. Actual filming of the test may not take long, but if the crew is called especially for the test it is paid for a full day's work whether it works or not. For that reason a studio usually waits until it has from 5 to 9 or 10 tests to make before calling a crew.

Small wonder, then, that the studios want to make sure a contest winner has something that will make it possible to offer her a job as a contract player before wasting time and expense on a film test. Once in a great while a beauty contest winner makes the grade in Hollywood. But for one called hundreds go back home. Norma Shearer won a contest in Canada and a trip to New York. It was not this contest that put her in pictures, however. She returned to Canada and it was not until after the contest was forgotten that she crashed Hollywood. Mary Astor is another contest winner who made good in pictures in spite of, perhaps instead of, because she was a beauty winner. Men sometimes make the grade as the result of a contest, as witness Buster Crabbe, erstwhile lion man. Beauty, popularity or other contests launched Marjorie Weaver, Katherine Aldridge, Elise Knox, Linda Darnell, Helen Wood, Linda Hayes, Gail Patrick, Susan Hayward, and Lona Andre on their screen careers. Even when they crash pictures most contest winners have very brief careers, being used only while they have freak exploitation value.

Marie Wilson was selected in a theater contest once as the girl who looked the most like the late Jean Harlow and on another occasion she won a physical culture contest. Ann Sheridan, of course, definitely got her start in pictures by being one of the winners of Paramount's "Search for Beauty" contest. The contest was national and was sponsored by a newspaper in Ann's home town of Dallas.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

If anybody asks me to sit thru "It All Came True" again with 'em when the film reaches our neighborhood theater, I'll jump at the chance, because that's how much I like the picture.

"What's it about?" the young in our nest asked me. And, after a minute's thought, I answered:

"About practically everything."

"Meaning——?"

Meaning that it has a gangster angle, and a boarding house angle, and a romance angle, and a "Roarin g'90s" angle; that it has broad humor and delicate whimsy; a few tears, a lot of suspense. It is sophisticated, and it is clean. And, best of all, it has originality. Vivi Louis Bromfield!

While the story isn't a mystery, it IS delightfully unexpected in so many places, and this unexpectedness is the main tang of the piece. SO—I refuse to go into details.

The action is localed for the most part in an old, old, OLD fashioned boarding house, bequeathed, along with several dippy boarders, by a Miss Minnie, to her dear old friends, Maggie Ryan and Mrs. Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor is a gentle optimist who gilds the most painful facts of life with make believe. . . . When things don't go as she would like them to she makes up stories in which all works out just as it should. She is goddess of the upper regions. Peppery and capable Mrs. Ryan attends to the cooking and managing.

The former has a music composer son, Tommy, who, as the story opens, has been long away without ever enlightening his mother as to his whereabouts. . . . The latter has an ultra sophisticated but "technically good" daughter, Sally, who's been absent, too, and not, you gather, just where she should have been.

Sally comes home in exciting fashion. So does Tommy—and with him arrives a "Mr. Grasseli," who is none other than the much wanted and hunted gangster, "Chips" McGuire.

Who are the funny boarders?

Fluttery Miss Flint, who thinks [and hopes] that men are always following her; "The Great Boldini," a ham magician with his clever stooge dog, of whose ability the master is rabidly jealous, and a dreamy Mr. Van Diver, who is always forgetting that Miss Minnie is dead.

I will NOT tell you more of the story. But I will gather that when a gangster makes such a haunt as this Ryan-Taylor domicile his hiding place interesting things are bound to happen.

In Sally, Ann Sheridan has a rôle that is worthy of her—and how she DOES give! Jeffrey Lynn and Humphrey Bogart are tops in their respective portrayals of Romeo and racketeer. Una O'Connor and Jessie Busley do grand work as the boarding house owners, and all other rôles are most skillfully handled. Thumbs up on direction and dialog.

So——
I think the thing for YOU to do
Is to Patronize "It All Came True."

See you tomorrow.

Crocheted Items for Infant

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The old fashioned name "nightingale" is nothing but the ever popular shoulderette. The chocheted shoulderette for the infant and the accompanying carriage cover are ideal pieces which may be included in any layette. Both are quick needlework jobs. Fine, two ply sweater wool creates the shoulderette and four ply saxony is used for the carriage cover.

For instructions in crocheting the infant's shoulderette and carriage cover, No. X406, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Gentleman Bandit.

When the Bryson hotel on the south side was held up some little while ago the only clerk on duty was a young girl, who handed over the money upon request. Questioned later about her reactions, she said: "O, I wasn't frightened. He was so polite! I told him I had a weak heart and he said, 'Then have a chair.' And I did," she added.

Teacher and Census Taker.

Miss Mary Osgood, first grade teacher to many a Chicagoan at the Latin School for Boys, was called upon by the census taker. After answering a few questions, including the one as to how many grades of school she had gone thru, she was asked to repeat the place of her birth.

"New Hampshire," she told him.

"Let's see, that's in Vermont, isn't it?" asked the census taker.

Quick as anything Miss Osgood asked him how many grades of school he had gone thru.

• • •

Which brings to mind the tale told by a man who was registering for a forthcoming election. When he told the examiner he was born in New Mexico she wanted to know if he had his papers.

Cuff Notes.

Mortimer J. Adler is at work on a new book, Problem for Thomists. . . . If you would like to know what Miss Hepburn wears offstage, it's usually slacks and sack coat. Often it's beautifully cut tan gabardine. But at a recent tea party in her honor she wore a dark blue frock, very conservative looking, but on close inspection it had a divided skirt. . . . Clark McMeekin's book, Show Me a Land, which has a background of horse racing and a climax in the first running of the Kentucky Derby, was put in nearly every hotel room in Louisville for the Kentucky Derby, like a Gideon Bible. And Louisville hotels served Show Me a Land toddies and Show Me a Land sandwiches. . . . One of the interesting bits of Chicagoana in Joseph T. Ryerson's Chicago room in his Astor street house is the collection of World's Columbian Exposition copies of Puck, the once popular American humor magazine, and originals of all the cartoons in the 1893 Chicago World's Fair editions. . . . The demand for ticket consumption for Carl Sandburg's lectures at the University of Chicago beats the record set last year by Alexander Woollcott. Woollcott lived at the Ambassador during his lecture series; Sandburg commutes from his goat farm in Michigan.

Engagements

From Brooklyn, N. Y., comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Evelyn Hicks, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Le Roy Sherman Edwards of Brooklyn and Sayville, N. Y., to Ralph L. Dabe Jr. of Chicago. Miss Hicks, a graduate of the Packer Collegiate institute of Broklyn and of Cornell university, was admitted to the bar of New York in 1938. She made her debut in 1932 and is a member of Colony house. Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dabe of Chicago, is a graduate of the George Washington university in Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Denham of 512 Belden avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marion, to David Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Wells of Evanston. The wedding will take place in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Frank of 5419 Ingleside avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred, to Robert Firestone Eger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eger of 1358 Madison Park.

Girls of Olivet Make Dresses of Drapes, Too

Scarlett O'Hara isn't the only one who tore down the family drapes to make a costume.

Another set if drapes crossed the stage of the half century old Olivet Institute Community center, 1441 Cleveland avenue, last night. It would be hard to recognize their former glory. The drapes had been converted into two pairs of knickers for two sturdy schoolboys and a pair of tailored trousers for their father.

The mother of the boys was a member of the Olivet sewing class which last night held its second annual style show. Forty self-conscious girls from 5 to 20 years old, minced or swaggered across a barren stage and thru a makeshift arch. They wore crisp cotton dresses, suits, aprons, pajamas, play suits and housecoats which they had made for less than a dollar.

The amateur seamstresses were flushed and proud of their handiwork. They do not have much money to spend on clothes. Social workers call them underprivileged.

Yet pretty, blonde, 16 year old Mary Stern would not have changed places with Schiaparelli last night. She was the star model, designer, and dressmaker of the show. Four of her costumes caused thunderous applause from the audience of shabbily dressed women, grimy faced children, and restless but proud fathers.

Mary's outfits were a trim, collarless sport jacket made from an old coat; a chic two piece brown linen school dress; a gay floral cotton frock, and a princess style plush coat transformed from a sacklike garment brought from Germany 20 years ago by her mother.

Because a physician prescribed that her mother must have sunshine, Mary proudly displayed an abbreviated white and blue play suit which is to be her Mother's day gift.

The Olivet sewing classes are open every afternoon and evening for all ages. The institute supplies the needles, thread, scissors, pins, machines, patterns, and instructors.

Marry My Daughter

By Alice Duer Miller

(Copyright: 1940; By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Millicent Dunham's mother dreams of marrying her off to some one like Dick Shard, who is kind, distinguished, and rich. Dick lives in New York, but Mr. Dunham worked for the Shard firm in Kansas before his death and Dick, who had stayed at their home while visiting his branch office, gave Mrs. Dunham a job after her husband died. On a business trip to New York, Dick invites Mrs. Dunham to a theater party with his friends, Constance and Aleck Stewart. Aleck is an invalid, and Mrs. Dunham realizes that Dick is in love with Constance. After the theater, Mrs. Dunham is hit by a car while saving Dick's life and, while she is dying, makes Dick promise to marry Millicent. Tho still in love with Constance, Dick keeps his promise. Millicent doesn't love Dick but she thinks he loves her and Dr. Ogden, a family friend, advises her to marry Dick, for they know it was her mother's wish and she has been left penniless and untrained. After the wedding Dick tells Millicent why he married her and that she will be free to do as she pleases, but that until she decides what she wants to do, she can live with him in his New York apartment. She is humiliated but agrees to stay with him for six months and then get a divorce. Dick tells Constance how badly dressed his wife is and she agrees to get a personal maid for Millicent who will choose the right clothes for her. Constance then plans a party for the bride and groom, thinking Millicent will appear drab, while her own beauty will stand out in contrast. But the maid has done a good job and Millicent is beautiful and is exquisitely dressed when she comes to the party. Maliciously Constance invites Donald Eaves, suave worldling, and he goes into his usual rôle of flirting with the neglected wife. He warns her against Constance and that night when she questions Dick about her he admits he is in love with Constance. She is more humiliated than ever when she finds that Constance knows why Dick married her.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

A DANGEROUS SUITOR.

Dick stood by the door, and Millicent sat supporting herself on her arms, staring at him. The interest of the narrative did not fail thru being rather badly told.

He ended: "I want you to understand clearly that she does not love me, but a woman can depend so much on a man who loves her that for him to desert her—without a word of explanation. . . . If I had gone off and married you without telling her why I was doing it, I should have been betraying everything I had done and said and felt for seven years."

"Did she try to stop you?"

"She said a very wise thing to me, Millicent, and tonight is proving that it was true. She said I was in a position where it was impossible to be on the level with every one. You feel I have betrayed you, and I suppose she feels, altho she doesn't say so, that I haven't been really true to my love for her. But I give you my word I want to be on the level with you. I want to be what your friend Eaves said I was"—he smiled at her—"dependable."

She looked at him wtih her swimming eyes: "You must have been very unhappy."

"Well, it isn't much fun—loving some one whose life is dedicated to some one else."

"He's worth taking care of . . . Mr. Stewart."

"I'm glad you think that. Aleck is really one of the greatest people I ever knew. He has made himself great. He takes in suffering and disability and turns it out wisdom and kindness—the way a printing press takes in blank paper and turns it out a newspaper."

She wiped her eyes. "I suppose I was unreasonable," she said. "I suppose it's just vanity that makes me hate to think any one knows I trapped you into marrying me."

"That's absurd. You didn't trap me. Something happened—a tragedy—neither of us was responsible for that. . . ."

"The truth is that the reason I mind so much her knowing is that I made rather a fool of myself—talking about you, as if—as if you loved me. . . . I didn't say anything untrue, but I talked a lot about the clothes you bought me, and the interest you took in how I looked. . . ." She paused and glanced up at him under her eyelashes.

He couldn't help smiling. She had just the look of a puppy he used to own who insisted on bringing shoes into the drawing room, and then would look up at him, with one gleaming tooth on the leather, as if to say: "I know you don't approve of this, but you must own it's amusing. . . ." Still he could now understand why Constance had been so icy as they parted. He suddenly became aware that she wouldn't like it if she knew he was lingering at such an hour in his wife's bedroom—not, fortunately, that she could know.

He bade Millicent rather a formal good night and went back to his own room. He was aware that he had slightly injured the pure romance of his emotion by speaking about it—as if his own words came between him and his love—putting, as it were, a mask over a beloved face. . . . He regretted the necessity that had made him speak. Well, evidently, secrecy was a luxury a married man could not allow himself. "C'est le mariage," he thought rather bitterly.

For a few days Constance avoided seeing him, then Aleck had one of his bad attacks, and she sent for him as she always did. Aleck would let Dick stay with him, when he considered his sufferings unfit for Constance's eyes. After the crisis was over and Aleck had fallen asleep, Dick came downstairs, to find her waiting for him in the drawing room. They had a few words about Aleck, and then Shard said: "You know you were unjust to me, Constance. No one was more surprised than I was at that vision in pink. But anyhow, if she were as beautiful as an angel, what difference could it make between us?"

"I know, I know," she said. "But I'm so dependent on you, Dick. I get terrified—like a child—at any threat. . . . Just that day the doctor had been telling me that he thought I oughtn't to try to live in New York—that possibly if I settled in New Mexico or Arizona . . . what would become of me then?"

"Well, I'll tell you what would become of the Shard company. It would probably go into the hands of a receiver owing to the fact that its president had either gone mad or moved to the great southwest."

At this she gave him her hand for a moment with a look of deep gratitude, and then slightly changing the tone of the conversation, she said: "You ought to tell your wife, Dick, not to go into connubial details in public. It's not good manners. Nobody would be much interested in the fact that you tremble at her touch—even if it were true."

"I don't suppose she said just that, did she?"

"Well, I'm not sure. She gave us all the impression that you were definitely her love-slave—possibly she believes it."

He opened his mouth to say that Millicent could never now believe that, for the reason that he had told her of his love for another woman. But he didn't speak. He felt it wasn't a good moment, when Constance's nerves were still rasped by Aleck's sufferings. And he was too happy in their reconciliation to risk another quarrel; he wasn't certain how Constance would take the knowledge that he had been confiding in Millicent. In old times he had always known how Constance would feel—he had known that she would always understand and make things easier, but he was beginning to see that his marriage had altered this—and most unjustly he felt inclined to blame Millicent for the change. So he didn't speak. He said instead: "Will you take luncheon tomorrow with another woman's love-slave?"

"Yes—if Aleck's better. I'll telephone you."

Aleck was better and she came, and everything was as it had been in the days before her marriage cast its shadow over their perfect understanding.

The Andrews' party was a repetition of the Stewarts'—on a larger and more magnificent scale. This time Lucille had done something wonderful in black velvet and tulle. This time the effect was of a good little girl who had dressed up in her grandmother's best gown and found it incredibly becoming. It was a dancing party and Millicent danced a great deal—more with Donald Eaves than with any one else.

Constance in the course of the evening commented on this new friendship:

"Don't you thing you ought to warn her?"

"No, I don't. I think she's able to take care of herself."

"Not two months out of the Dust Bowl and able to manage our Mr. Eaves—what a talent!"

Dick didn't correct her geography, nor did he say that in a way he had already warned his wife, without much effect. He said instead that he hated Eaves, and he hoped Constance remembered why he did.

"That's just it," she answered. "He hates you more than you hate him. Nothing would delight him more than to compromise your bride in the eyes of the world."

Dick opened his mouth to say that he didn't care what people said—that he wasn't like her—concerned with the world's verdict, but he found to his surprise that he cared very much. It would be intensely disagreeable to him—that his friends should comment and smile over Millicent and Eaves—not because of his affection for Millicent, but because of his hatred of Eaves.

Parents Must Be Fitted for Guidance Role

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Naturally I can't attempt to go into the subject of how unfit some grown people are to guide children. Anyone who knows human beings knows that there are men and women who reach adulthood and parenthood, violent, selfish, undisciplined, and irresponsible. It goes without saying that they are not fit to guide a new young life to fulfilment, and probably nothing short of an upheaval [or, perhaps, religious conversion] could change them.

But there are many parents who are not like that, but who are not wise either. For them I want to say that, even tho you are by nature's intention your child's guide in living, you must also fit yourself for that job. By thinking, by reading, perhaps, and by disciplining yourself to patience and tolerance you will learn to use wisely the power you have over your child's life. When we have authority we must be very careful to use it well. The world has seen in recent days too much of the abuse of power. And individuals, as well as nations, can learn from the spectacle.

The other suggestion I want to set down here is this:

Accepting the idea that it is our rôle to guide and control our children, we also must recognize that our eventual purpose is to fit those children for mature, independent lives out in the world. With this in mind, we must use only as much guidance or control as is needed for that end.

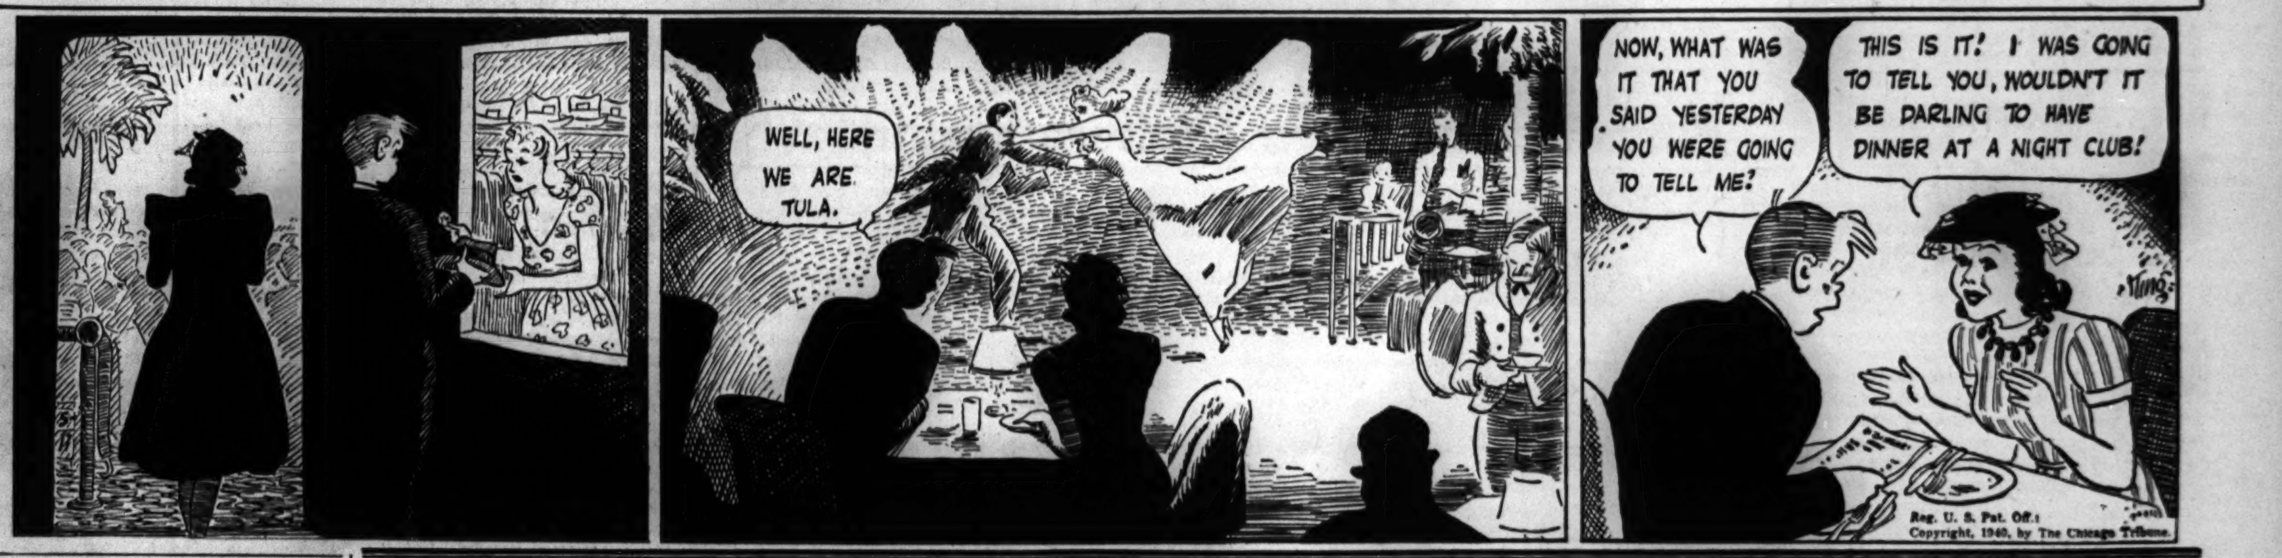
GASOLINE ALLEY—WISHFUL GETTING



Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

May 11, 1940.

This is one of the master numbers and as such we do not reduce it to the single digit, two, and those with this birthdate should never let themselves down to the level of the two. Eleven is the number of inspiration and idealism, but these qualities can be rather wishwashy if there is not strength of character behind them, so while the vocation should not be in the practical or commercial fields, these people with an 11 birthdate must avoid being too dreamy and vague. Those born on May 11 should feel a relief from last year's petty annoyances and begin to find pleasure in new friendships and enjoy a much more social year. Bring out your talents, pursue your hobbies, and get around in your community socially.

MONEY SAVING COOKBOOK: Ida Bailey Allen, author of many another practical cookbook, recently produced "Ida Bailey Allen's Money Saving Cookbook," which is guaranteed by its publishers, Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., to save you 20 per cent on your food bills.

Balanced budget menus and many other budget recipes are featured in the book, which sells for $1.

CAKE MAKING TIPS:

1. Have shortening and eggs at room temperature before starting to mix.

2. "Don't spare the horses or, rather, the beater, in mixing sugar and shortening.

3. Mix quickly and lightly once you begin to add flour.

4. Cream flavorings or spices with sugar and butter, if you like. Butter is a good absorber and distributor of flavorings.

5. Egg whites should be beaten until moist and glossy, not dry. And they should be folded lightly but thoroly into the cake batter.

6. Spread cake batter well into the corners of the pan, leaving a slight depression in the middle, in order to assure even rising.

7. Oven temperature is important. It should be even thruout baking.

8. Let butter cakes stand in the pan for 5 minutes after baking, then turn them out onto cake racks to cool.

TIPS ON SALAD MAKING:

1. Have all salad ingredients cold.

2. Be sure that lettuce and other greens are thoroly washed, crisp, and dry. Wipe wet greens carefully in soft paper or toweling before using them.

3. Make use of the kitchen scissors in using leaf lettuce and outside leaves of head lettuce for the salad bowl or for shredded salad bases.

4. Never add to the dressing for a green salad until the very last minute. Some greens, notably watercress, begin to wilt the moment the dressing is added.

5. Choose dressings with care. Thin French dressings are most popular for greens. Several good commercial kinds are available. And learn to mix your own for the individual salad, using flavored vinegars and fine oils.

TIPS ON COOKING ASPARAGUS AND BROCCOLI:

1. Use boiling salted water, and no cover on the saucepan.

2. Trim off tough parts of the stalks of both vegetables. Peel large stalks of broccoli and split them for quicker cooking.

3. Stand either vegetable up in the cooking pan at first, so that the less tender stalks may cook longer than the tender tops. Lay the vegetables down after 10 minutes.

4. As soon as either vegetable is tender, not soft, drain, and save the liquid for soup or sauce.

5. Season with more salt, pepper, and add melted butter. Or add Hollandaise sauce. And serve at once while still hot.

Duet of Daytime Dresses

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

A duet of patterns today offers a tailored daytime dress and a rather dressy afternoon frock. At the left, a model with princess lines, the now famous high pockets, a simple V neckline, and short puffed sleeves. Kerchief, buttons, and belt are the contrast notes on a frock in plain color cotton, linen, lightweight woolen, or washable silk. Right, a printed silk model with square neckline, shoulder yoke under which is shirring to soften the bodice, short puffed sleeves, new longer waistline, bow sash in back, and moderately flared skirt. Plain colors may be used, too, if you wish.

Style No. 2534 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material for short-sleeved dress.

Style No. 3039 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material for short-sleeved dress.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

No type of error can be more expensive than the misuse of a double. The catastrophe described below, altho an extreme case, is duplicated on a smaller scale at far too many bridge tables.

East, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH

SOUTH

♣ 8 3 2

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Double
Redouble	2 diamonds	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

North hesitated a long time before passing to two diamonds doubled, obviously considering running to three clubs. He should have done his hesitating earlier, before making his atrocious double of two clubs. Of course he meant that double as a penalty or business variety, but it wasn't! Technically and conventionally, such a double is for a take-out, and South, altho a fine player, could not dream that North had the type of hand he actually did have. When East redoubled [feeling that his shortness in clubs was more than compensated by his general strength] South made the "cheapest" rescue at his command; that is, he selected diamonds so that North could either pass or bid two spades. Conventionally, a pass by South to the redouble would have implied willingness and ability to defend against two clubs redoubled. Incidentally, West had selected clubs for his first response as something of a "psychic," his hope being to discourage a club lead at whatever contract he and his partner agreed on.

The carnage at the two diamond doubled contract was too frightful for human eyes to behold! West properly opened the king of trumps and continued trumps for two more rounds. East, on lead with the diamond ace, laid down the ace and king of hearts, then sent the heart nine thru the agonizing declarer. The latter's heart queen was pitilessly ruffed away by West, who returned a club to East's marked ace. East now rattled off his three established hearts, and then led a spade. West took his side's 12th and 13th tricks with the jack and ace of spades. The declarer had not been able to win a single trick!

North looked as tho he had met a steam roller in a dark alley, while South seemed only two inches from apoplexy. And, as East solemnly but very plainly entered 2,300 points to his own side's credit on the score pad, perhaps the unkindest cut of all was West's unctious reminder: "Don't forget my 100 honors, partner."

Last call for Mother's day gifts:

A handsome gift for Mother's day and for many days to follow is a beauty handbag. It's a real leather purse in an alligator grain with a sturdy gold colored metal clasp. Tailored and roomy, there are extra pockets for lipstick, compact, billfold, and change purse, with room to spare for the other things that always go with a woman's purse.

The beauty department of this bag consists of a slim silk case containing all the preparations needed to keep the skin clean and fresh on a day's outing or a week-end trip. There's a lightweight cleansing cream and a fine night cream, both of which are especially good to combat the effects of the summer dust and wind when on a motor trip. There's a bottle of lotion that refreshes the skin and removes all traces of cream after cleansing. Most important is the jar of soothing hand cream. It's a good protective for the hands when exposed to sun and wind and helps to keep them soft.

In the nick of time, some adorable sachets have arrived in time to be included on the list of last minute gifts. They're oblong pillows made of peach, blue, and ivory satin, two and one-half inches wide and five inches long, and are perfumed with gardenia, white lilac, carnation, heliotrope fragrances and with one that's a distinctive blend, all of them outstanding. There's a loop of narrow ribbon fastened to the center of one side with a pert bow, with which to slip them over a clothes hanger.

White Costume Jewelry Is "In" but Going Fast

BY REA SEEGER.

Smart shoppers snap the white costume jewelry finds as soon as possible, for such cooling accents with all dark summer wools, silks and sheers do a vanishing act that would put to shame any of the disappearing acts of a magician. Earrings, clips, pins, chokers, bracelets and necklaces are in now but going fast. Such inexpensive trifles to make ensemble perfection this coming hot weather will be the favorite ways of adding white. All this icing stuff does away with the white collar and cuff chores. Keeping such airy extras spotless always takes time that could be spent in much easier manner.

New this season are the semitransparent white clips and other pieces in realistic full bloom rose shapes. The clips are especially effective for softening otherwise plain necklines Bracelets, and matching necklaces with small earrings are ice white coolers for any summer costume. The price marks are amazingly low for such a performance! Other translucent white finds are big ball earrings and clips that look like white moonstones if there were such stones.

White daisy chain jewelry always looks cool and smart. You may choose between the all white affairs or the white with butter yellow centers. Bracelets, jangling necklaces, bunched clips and earrings are obtainable in the "daisy-won't-tell" motifs. Shiny, white ball combinations are classics, arriving each summer season to a sure and lasting welcome. They are ideal for tailored street, office, and daytime clothes.

Carved ivory jewelry is the luxury buy that is never dated. So is the beautiful white branch coral, and this summer the prices are surprisingly moderate for the effect it gives with afternoon and evening black, navy or deep brown sheers.

Simulated ivory pieces featuring a filigree carved pattern run the genuine pieces a good race for popularity. Dull white composition jewelry, in small and large flower designs, in delicate leaves, or combined with green, red or black for additional color contrast, is in high favor.

New Approach to Teeth Care Worth Heeding

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A new approach in oral hygiene, sponsored by Adelaide R. Ross, director of health education, and Maria W. Bates, health instructor, in Malden, Mass., High school, is launched with a dental score card developed for use at the junior high school level. It serves the dual purpose of renewing interest in care of the teeth and in providing a suitable piece of material for reviewing dental health facts. The appeal its sponsors make is for a wider distribution among school pupils.

But we, here, would like to give a resumé of the features stressed on the score card for the benefit of parental guidance in child teeth care and likewise for the benefit of adults themselves:

Building the Teeth.

Within the past 24 hours:

1. I had a quart of milk.

2. I had a green vegetable, such as cabbage, spinach or green beans, or a yellow vegetables such as squash, carrots, or yellow turnips.

3. I had at least one of the following: Orange, grapefruit, banana, canned or fresh tomato.

4. I had at least one food which required hard chewing, such as an apple, a raw vegetable or toast.

Safeguarding the Teeth.

5. My teeth have been examined, and all necessary dental work has been completed during this school year as indicated by a dental certificate.

Cleaning the Mouth.

6. I brushed my teeth at least twice daily.

7. I used salt a sa mouth wash at least once.

Caring for the Toothbrush.

8. I rinsed my toothbrush after using.

9. I hung up my toothbrush or placed it in a clean glass to allow the bristles to dry thoroly.

10. I have had a new toothbrush within the last four months.

Women to Urge City Manager Plan on G.O.P. and Democrats

The Illinois League of Women Voters voted yesterday to present proposals favoring city manager government enabling legislation and legislation to aid dependent children to both the Republican and Democratic state conventions. This action came in the final business session of the league's 20th anniversary convention at the Hotel Shoreland.

The league already had decided to concentrate its efforts in the next three months on circulating city manager petitions. More than 50,000 signatures so far have been obtained.

Federal aid for dependent children is another long standing league project. The organization has taken an active part in the campaign to make Illinois eligible to receive this aid, which now is extended to all but eight states.

Mrs. J. W. Albig of Urbana and Mrs. W. W. Ramsey and Mrs. Clifton M. Utley of Chicago were elected vice presidents. Mrs. Joe Patterson Smith of Jacksonville was made secretary. Mrs. George G. Bogert of Chicago will retain the presidency another year.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., May 10.—Tomorrow is Golden Jubilee day at old Pimlico. The Preakness will be run for the 50th time. But that's not the half of it. It's also the day when Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech gets another chance to prove whether he's really quite a horse or whether he was just the central character in one of the most conspicuous cases of misplaced confidence in the history of the American turf.

But even that isn't all. It's also the day when Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion gets around to showing whether he is one of those exceptional thorobreds with the speed, stamina, and ruggedness to make a serious bid for the triple crown—Derby, Preakness, and Belmont stakes. He already has won the Derby, but a number of horses accomplished that feat in the past and then failed in an attempt to uphold the prestige that goes with that victory.

It's a Better's Race.

There will be other aspects to the race. With Bimelech's abrupt deflation, the Preakness has become a wide open betting proposition. It is something new for the Bradley color-bearer to go to the post as anything but the odds-on favorite. In all probability he'll still be the public choice, but for the first time since last August he should be running at even money or better—perhaps as high as 9 to 5. His followers have grown accustomed to seeing him listed at such figures as 1 to 10. In the Derby he finished second to Gallahadion after being quoted at 2 to 5—the shortest odds in that race since the 1880s.

Nine entries for the Preakness were filed with the racing secretary this morning. In addition to Bimelech and Gallahadion, the field includes Arnold Hanger's Dit, the Millsdale stable's Andy K, W. L. Brann's Pictor, Charles S. Howard's Mioland, Mrs. Geo. D. Widener's Your Chance, Harold Clark's Royal Man, and Mrs. Anthony Pelleteri's Sun Pharos.

It Doesn't Mean a Thing.

One of the curious things about this race is the fact that in establishing Bimelech as the favorite over Gallahadion in the overnight line, there is no implication that there was any fluke about Gallahadion's victory and Bimelech's defeat in last Saturday's Kentucky Derby. Gallahadion was clearly the best horse on the Churchill Downs track last Saturday. Bimelech simply got licked and no one has any argument or excuses to offer on the subject.

Furthermore Bimelech—last Saturday at least—was anything but a great horse. He had everything in his favor when Gallahadion challenged him in the stretch. The early pace had not been fast enough to wear him out, and he had a clear path to the finish, but he just didn't have the speed to get there first.

Distance May Aid Bimelech.

The fact that the Preakness is only a mile and three-sixteenths may count in Bimelech's favor. He was two lengths ahead of Gallahadion at the finish of the mile Derby Trial stakes, and he held a very slight margin over him after a mile and three-sixteenths of the Derby had been run. It was in that last sixteenth that the big race was decided last Saturday. Bimelech has enough early speed to keep close to the front runners so he should be in a good position for the battle through the stretch.

A crowd of 30,000 is expected. Fans have gathered here from all the eastern racing centers and many have come on from Chicago.

If all nine should go to the post the value of the race will total $72,730. The winner's share will be $53,230. For every one of the entries scratched the winner's share will be reduced by $500.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THIS is the day we find out whether E. R. Bradley's colt is a Bim or a Bum. . . . Fred Vanzo, former Northwestern quarter back who has developed into one of the finest blocking backs in the National Football league as a member of the Detroit Lions, is working in Green Bay and reports that he is being heckled constantly by Packer fans. . . . Bernie Moore, Louisiana State track coach, has a high jumper he predicts will leap 6 feet 10 inches before he finishes his collegiate eligibility. . . . He's a sophomore named J. C. Devall, who cleared 6 feet 6⅞ inches in his first intercollegiate competition. . . . It takes a driver about three days to get rid of the buzzing noise in his ears left by the roar of motors in the 500 mile race at Indianapolis. . . . Bob Kennedy, the White Sox rookie third baseman, who recently went thru several games without hitting safely, was sitting in a Philadelphia hotel lobby the other morning, dejectedly reading a newspaper. . . . Suddenly he came upon an especially gruesome war picture. . . . "And I've been worrying about base hits," he exclaimed loudly to himself and all who cared to hear. . . . Mike Casteel, football coach at Arizona, will open the season with a sophomore back field. . . . That's the way Knute Rockne developed the greatest combination football has known—the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame. . . . Andy Coakley has been coaching Columbia university's baseball squad for 26 years.

Frank Crosetti of the Yankees has led the American league for four years in getting hit by pitched balls. . . . Gerry Nugent Jr., son of the Phillies' president, is the team's bat boy. . . . Taft Wright of the White Sox and Hank Leiber of the Cubs, who have been leading their respective leagues in hitting, are right fielders. . . . Right field is known as the sun field and sun fields are reputed to be tough on vision. . . . The supremacy of Wright and Leiber, therefore, should prove something, possibly that there hasn't been enough sunshine in ball parks this year to hurt anybody's peepers. . . . Red Conkright, former Chicago Bear center, expects to be Red Sr. before he returns to the Cleveland Rams in the fall. . . . Andy Messenger, pitcher for Western State Teachers' college of Kalamazoo, Mich., recently was deprived of a no-hit game against Hope college after he had struck out the third man in the ninth. . . . The catcher dropped the ball, threw wide to first, and the runner was safe. . . . Messenger walked the next batter and the following man singled for the only hit his team made. . . . Ken Chase of the Senators was the hard luck pitcher of the American league last season. . . . He lost seven games by one run. . . . The most talked about football player in the New England states this spring is Mike Holovack, 220 pound full back on Frank Leahy's Boston college squad. . . . Allen Bergner, captain of last year's Naval academy eleven, will be assigned to a ship July 1, shortly after his graduation. . . . Matt Winn, who had the responsibility of putting on last Saturday's Kentucky Derby before 85,000 spectators, is relaxing while Alfred G. Vanderbilt worries this week-end. . . . He is in Baltimore as Mr. Vanderbilt's guest at the Preakness.

Tribute to Mother.

Not all the fairest flowers on this earth
Garnered in one magnificent bouquet
Could better tell the one who gave me birth
Of just how much my heart loves her today.
Not all the wealth this world of ours must hold
Can match in value all she means to me—
Nor any word of praise that might be told
Could speak of all I feel more tenderly.
She has always been the grandest mother,
Counsel, and guide, who turned down no appeal;
Of those I know there has been no other
Who helped me with a greater love and zeal.
If I could give her all the world today,
'Twould be the smallest tribute I could pay.
—Anne C. Korpics.

Ace in the Hole.

You were ever my "ace in the hole,"
Dearest mother o' mine.
You were always a comforting soul
To me—when the sun did not shine.
You were at all times faithful and true,
All the sages of time could not hold
A candle to the word of wisdom which you
Imparted to me when I became bold.
Altho you're in heaven on this Mother's day,
In prayers I send you my love,
And across the miles I can hear you say,
"My blessings, dear son, from above."
To all dear mothers in heaven—on earth,
Let us pay tribute today,
For what would we do from the time of our birth
Without man's most constant mainstay? —Charles Evans Perry.

* *

Mom.

Gee, Mom, but you're looking swell;
You know it does not seem that long
When I was just a little kid
A-doing things, all mostly wrong.

Say, Mom, do you remember school
And how the teachers used to say,
"He's not too good and not so bad,
But he will be alright some day."

Well, Mom, the years have rolled along;
But just the same I'm mighty glad
That I can tell you on this day,
"Your the 'bestest' Mom one ever had."
—G. A. R.

Mothers Understand.

When you were only having fun
And found that mischief had been done
And you were chased home on the run
To mother.

Deep in the throes of childish woe
When all the world abused you so,
Wasn't it comforting to go
To mother?

Then school and a teacher's reprimand
Made you feel no one could understand
Or offer you a helping hand
But mother.

High school days and your first date,
When every one teased and made you hate,
To bring him as near as the garden gate
But mother.

She knew your joys and all your fears
Were told her sympathetic ears.
How many times did you bring tears
To mother?

When problems came what did she say?
"Down on your knees my dear and pray,
Just trust in God—He'll find a way,"
Said mother.

Can we do nothing to erase
The many lines we helped to trace
Upon the very sweetest face,
Our mother's?

We can ask this gift for Mother's day:
"Send health and happiness her way,
God's choicest blessings to repay
Our mothers." —Sleepy Time Gal.

* *

My Mother.

Over my heart there breaks again
A longing, mother, dear,
To emphasize your greatest day,
Your one day of the year
On which we pay you tribute high
For present deeds and past,
That shine like silver thru the years
With topaz setting cast.

So long withdrawn from your embrace,
An exile many years;
The barren shore line of my life
So fraught with sighs and tears
Curves with the tide toward you again,
As I recall to mind
With such a righteous, perfect grace
Maternal ties that bind.

I feel the pressure of your hand
Upon my brow today,
Each restless wish, each urgent need
Your presence could allay.
A crown I'd place upon your head,
Not from the stars above,
Not from the jeweled, crystal streams,
But from the depths of love.

PIRATES BREAK LOSING STREAK; BEAT CUBS, 8-3

Bill Lee Batted Out in the Sixth Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Bill Lee, the one time strong man of the Cubs' staff, faltered again yesterday and his mates experienced another of their recurring attacks of futile bat swinging. But it was all in a worthy cause. The fadeout of Lee, the thumping of his successors, and the Cubs' general feebleness let Pittsburgh's Pirates walk off with an 8 to 3 decision which for the moment brought joy back into the life of their boss, Frankie Frisch. It was their first victory after nine straight defeats and, incidentally, the third successive setback for the Cubs.

The Cubs, despite a new lineup which restored Glen Russell and Dominic Dallessandro to active duty and provided Jim Gleeson with his first starting assignment of the year in the outfield, were so confounded by the pitching of Mace Brown that only five hits were produced, three of them not getting beyond the infield. So Gabby Hartnett's men now have the unenviable distinction of having collected only 13 safeties in their last three battles. The same three struggles saw only four Cubs reach the scoring counter.

Bill Lee Folds Up.

Lee was a fancy pitcher only for five innings during which he yielded one run, for which errant mates were responsible. By way of encouragement his fellow workers fixed him up with a two run lead in the fifth, but he promptly collapsed for his fourth disappearance and fourth defeat of the season.

Four sound whacks with one out in the sixth moved Lee away and when Charley Root endeavored to put on a rescue act, Virgil Davis belted a home run into the seats with two on. The homer netted the last of five runs for the inning and put the Pirates at ease, but for good measure they scored two later off Ken [Lefty] Raffensberger.

Revised Lineup No Help.

The three new men brought into the lineup by Hartnett with the aim of breaking the no-hit complex did no better than the fellows they supplanted. Gleeson, operating in Augie Galan's place, picked up a pass in four appearances. Dallessandro, subbing for Bill Nicholson, got the same out of four attempts. Glen Russell, back on first in place of Phil Cavarretta, went hitless in four trips but

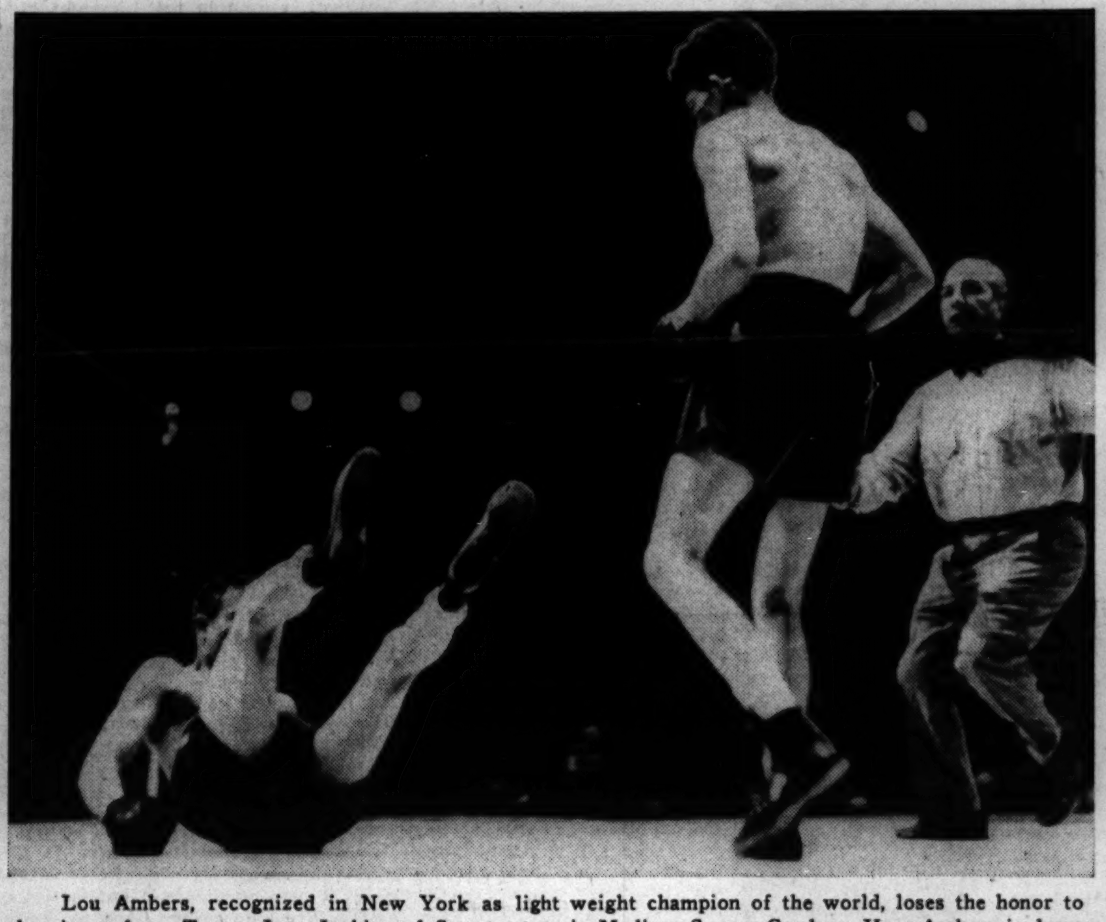
A Fellow from Texas Surprises Mr. Ambers



Lou Ambers, recognized in New York as light weight champion of the world, loses the honor to a hurricane from Texas—Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater—in Madison Square Garden. Here Ambers is down in the first round, the first of four such descents. Referee Billy Kavanaugh halted the fight to save Ambers in the third round of a scheduled 15 round bout. Tigers Defeat Sox, 3-0, with One Big Inning

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 10. — The White Sox, for the third time in this otherwise delightful spring, today ran up against the Detroit Tigers, the team Maestro Jim Dykes thinks has a swell chance to succeed the Yankees as world champions. Nothing happened to make Dykes throw away his crystal ball, for the Tigers whanged the Sox again, this time making it a 3 to 0 decision, their third success against the Chicagoans.

It was the 12th loss for the Sox in 19 games but only their second shutout, they having managed to get across the plate at least once in each game between today's mistreatment by Buck Newsom and that no-hit business with which Bob Feller blighted them on the opening day of the season.

John Has One Bad Inning.

It was the fourth loss for John D. Rigney who pitched rather handsomely but for a sixth inning letdown in which all the afternoon's runs accrued. He yielded three hits up to that time and there were three more in the sixth, after which he went away to let Clint Brown struggle with what was left of the enterprise.

The three sixth inning hits came in succession after Dick Bartell had walked. They were singles by Bruce Campbell and Charley Gehringer and a double by Earl Averill.

The Sox tied the Tiger hit total for the entire afternoon with seven and they, like the home club, played errorless ball. But Newsom was pretty much in command whenever he wanted to kick his momentum foot real high, and the Sox, as a consequence, looked little more dangerous than they did in their earlier shutout, that no-hit thing.

Yankees Are Pals.

With all the disappointment at not being able to whip the Tigers, who had two regulars, Hank Greenberg and Barney McCosky, out of the line-up with injuries, the Sox found some solace in the fact they did not flop back into a cellar tie with the miserable Yankees.

Averill opened the home second with a brutal swat, a 415 foot line drive far over Kreevich's head. Little Mike ran like everything and was to be commended when he held Aver-

Mr. Gustine, 19, Is Pirates' Ray of Hope

There's no sunshine these days in the life of Frantic Frankie Frisch, manager of the forlorn Pirates. That is, there is no sunshine for Onkel Franz except Frank Gustine, elevated to a regular job in the hope that he can stop some of the leaks in Frisch's floundering craft.

Gustine is a Chicagoan—stolen from the shadows of the White Sox park. Two years of baseball while at Parker High effectively inoculated him with diamond fever and he liked the sensation. The next step was easy—to the Franklin Union Printers—and the next step up the ladder was even simpler. At the age of 16 when he paid a visit to Pie Traynor in a Chicago hotel he was signed by the Hutchinson, Kas., club, a Pirate affiliate. The kid looked good enough in his street clothes to convince Traynor, then Pirate manager, that he had the makings of a player.

Pa Wins an Argument.

Gustine reported to Hutchinson in the spring of 1937 and was promptly peddled out under option to Paducah, Ky. While he was there Ma and Pa Gustine thought it would be a good idea to motor down from Chicago to see how the child was getting along. Their 140 pounder had melted off 10 pounds. Ma suspected the minor league victuals weren't sufficiently nourishing. She was for taking the lad right back home and fattening him up. Pa Gustine is a baseball fan, and the 10 pound shrinkage didn't bother him. He won the argument and Gustine [now 180] stayed in baseball.

From Gadsden to Majors.

From Paducah the boy went back to Hutchinson for the 1938 season. That fall the Pirates took him in tow, farming him out to Knoxville, Tenn., in the spring of 1939. He absorbed two days of training with Knoxville and then was sent away for more schooling. This time it was to Gadsden, Ala., but late in the summer he received a long awaited summons. Would he please report immediately to the Pirates, who, because of injuries, were shy on infielders. Gustine grabbed his shoes and glove and met the first train north. He played in 22 games with the Pirates at the age of 19.

LOSER FLOORED FOUR TIMES IN FIERCE BATTLE

New York Accepts Texan as Champion.

New York, May 10 (AP).—Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater, Tex., punched his way to the New York version of the world's lightweight championship tonight by stopping Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., in the third round of a scheduled 15 round bout in Madison Square Garden.

While the crowd of 13,186 roared its surprise, the Texan floored Ambers once each in the first and second rounds and twice in the third. Lou was standing helpless taking a fearful two-handed beating when Referee Billy Kavanaugh humanely stepped in to halt the slaughter after 1 minute, 29 seconds of the third round. Gross receipts were $57,992.58. Ambers weighed 134½ pounds; Jenkins 132.

Jenkin's victory was one of the year's outstanding fistic upsets. He was the 3 to 1 underdog in the betting on the fight. Afterward Al Weill, Ambers' manager, said Lou was thru with lightweight campaigning, and that he would rest this summer, then come back as a welterweight.

N. B. A. Recognizes Angott.

Sammy Angott of Louisville is the N. B. A. lightweight champion. He won the title by defeating Davey Day of Chicago in an elimination bout in Louisville on Derby eve.

Thus Jenkins ended the reign Ambers began by whipping Tony Canzoneri in 1936. Henry Armstrong interrupted this rule of the 135 pounders by outpointing Lou in 1938, but Ambers came back to regain the crown last August. Several weeks ago, the National Boxing association took its sanction as champion from him because he refused to meet Day. The New York commission, however, continued to recognize Lou.

It Wasn't Even Close.

There was really nothing much to tonight's fight. In the first minute or so, Jenkins exploded his right hand sneak punch in Ambers' face, and Lou went down. He recovered somewhat and held his own for the rest of the round. In the second, Jenkins did the same, and again the little Herkimer battler, apparently lacking his speed from the strain of making the 135 pound limit for the first time in a year, hit the floor. On each of these first two knockdowns, Ambers was up at the count of five, seemingly too befuddled to take the rest for nine seconds.

Jenkins came back to his corner at the end of the second with a slight cut on his left cheekbone.

Opening the third, the Texan, working as tho he were bouncing a sledge on an anvil, crashed his right against Ambers' jaw again, and once more the square jawed little Italian dropped. He was up at six, went down again for nine, then took smash after smash until the fight ended.

LOSES IN CHICAGO

Lew Jenkins engaged in five fights in Chicago last year before leaving to seek his fortune in New York. His only victory was scored over Joe Law in White City Jan. 6, 1939, in his debut in this city. Subsequently he fought Willie Joyce, 1937 Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight champion, three times. After fighting 10 rounds to a draw, Joyce scored two decisions in eight rounds over Jenkins. In his last engagement in Chicago, on March 24 of last year, Lew suffered a seventh round knockout at the hands of Pete Lello, also a former Golden Gloves title holder.

REDS RELEASE BERGER TO GET WITHIN LIMIT

Cincinnati, O., May 10 (AP).—General Manager Warren C. Giles of the Cincinnati Reds announced tonight the outright release of Outfielder Wally Berger.

Berger's release was necessary to get within the player limit of 25, Giles said, adding: "We hated to see him go but we had too many left fielders."

The veteran outfielder joined the Reds in 1938 in a trade with the Giants for Second Baseman Alex Kampouris, now with Newark of the International league. He has a 10 year batting average of .300, and last year hit .298.

SCHOOL DAYS FOR GOLFERS OPEN ON 4 LINKS TUESDAY

Classes Free to Every One; Bring Your Own Club.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The eighth annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE will open next Tuesday night on the four courses of the Chicago park district—Jackson, Diversey-in-Lincoln, Columbus, and Marquette. The use of these courses as classrooms the last four years has made the school more of a success each term.

When the school was founded in 1933 it relied for instructional centers on the 27 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, which were among the originators. Even in those early classes the Tribune school made itself the largest system of group teaching in the history of the game. But it was felt that thousands of potential students were unable to attend the classes because of lack of adequate transportation.

All Courses Accessible.

Realizing that the conduct of the lessons within the metropolitan area proper would make it possible for many more novices to take advantage of the free lessons, THE TRIBUNE suggested the use of the Chicago park district courses, and the Daily Fee association and the commissioners of the park district agreed.

All four courses are easily accessible by surface lines, motor coaches, and rapid transit. The Jackson park links, oldest in the park system and cradle of many of the city's best golfers, is at 63d street and Stony Island avenue; the Marquette layout at Marquette road and Kedzie avenue; the Columbus park course at Jackson boulevard and Central avenue and the Diversey course in Lincoln park, on Lake Michigan at the foot of Diversey boulevard.

Recently the park board granted permission for the use of its four courses for the fifth consecutive year. Headed by President Robert J. Dunham, with George T. Donoghue as superintendent, the commission includes Philip S. Graver, James C. Petrillo, Stephen I. Witmanski, and Louis E. Golan.

Classes Start at 7 p. m.

The school is free and open to every man, woman, and child interested in learning the fundamentals of the game from an expert faculty composed of members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association of America.

Four regular classes, all beginning at 7 p. m. promptly, will be held, the first one Tuesday the second next Thursday; the third on Tuesday, May 21, and the fourth and last of the regular series on Thursday, May 23. The graduating exercises for the 32 students adjudged the best in their classes will be held on Sunday afternoon, May 26, at one of the four park courses, to be announced later.

The only requirements for matriculation in the school are one golf club, a willingness to learn the game, and your prompt presence at the course most convenient to your home or your work. If you don't own a club, borrow one.

Parks to Open Two Nine Hole Courses Today

The nine hole golf courses in Marquette and Columbus parks of the Chicago park district will open officially for play today, according to an announcement by Sam Pecoraro, general supervisor of golf and beaches in the park district.

The other three park district courses—Jackson and Waveland and Diversey courses in Lincoln park—will not open for a couple of weeks. Reseeding is now in process at Jackson and a sprinkling system is being completed on the two Lincoln park layouts.

The fee for nine hole rounds at Marquette, Columbus, Waveland, and Diversey will be 25 cents, while a trip over Jackson park's 18 will cost 50 cents. Packy Walsh is golf manager at Marquette, Hank Foley at Columbus, Eddie Davis at Diversey, Jimmy Loftus at Waveland, and Joe Wisowaty at Jackson.

A fivesome of professionals will conduct a one hour golf clinic tomorrow afternoon at Bink's Links, Touhy avenue and McCormick road. The quintet includes Harry Adams and Charley Penna of Medinah, Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake, Bob Stupple of Skokie, and Byron Harcke of Roselle. The program will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Eddie Gayer, tournament chairman of the Illinois P. G. A., is entering his 16th season as professional at the Twin Orchard club. Officers of the club include Leon Silvertrust, president; Leo Jacobs, sports and pastimes chairman, and Saul Weinress, greens chairman.

Members of Tam O'Shanter will officially open their summer season with a dinner-dance tonight in the main dining room of the club. More than 150 members will attend. George S. May, president of the club, announced Tam O'Shanter is spending more than $35,000 this season for improvements on the golf course, and for a new swimming pool and tennis courts.

Today's competitive program includes Butterfield's annual spring stag tournament and Rover Forest's Get-Together day.

Wright College Nine to Play Springfield Today

The undefeated Wright City college baseball team will play Springfield Junior college this morning in a home game at Spencer Coals field. Only one run has been scored against Wright in four games.

How Good Is He? Preakness Will Tell

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion, winner of the Kentucky Derby last Saturday, will have a chance to prove how good he really is today when he goes to the post against eight rivals in the 50th running of the Preakness at Pimlico.

MEET ON TRACK.

Beloit, Wis., May 10 [Special].—Beloit college's track squad will meet Lawrence college in the Beloit stadium tomorrow afternoon.

RECORD FIELD OF 263 ENTERED IN ELMHURST MEET

De Kalb Favorite Among 22 Track Teams.

Twenty-two schools, a record field, have entered 263 men in the eighth annual Elmhurst intercollegiate invitational track meet to be held today at Elmhurst. Participation by a number of stars, including Max Lenover, Loyola distance man, is expected to result in lowering of several meet records.

Given fair weather and a good track, Lenover is expected to reduce the half mile record below his time of last year, 1:56.4. He has run the event in 1:52 this season.

Expect De Kalb to Keep Title.

De Kalb Teachers college is expected to retain its team title. High scorer in the meet with 287.4 points in the last five years, De Kalb has had little trouble winning this year. North Central, which has piled up 264.2 points, is weak in the field events this season.

Illinois State Normal also is expected to rank well up in the team standings this year, having shown strength in its meets to date. The Normal team is paced by Capt. Jimmy Herdgrove, sprinter, who has placed twice in the 100 yard dash at Elmhurst.

Seeks Dash Record.

He is one of a group seeking to break the seven year old record of 9.9 seconds. Normal's stars also include Marion Cole, who has run the two mile event in 10:03, and John Scott, second in the Elmhurst high jump in 1939. Schools in the meet are: American College of Physical Education, Armour Tech, Aurora, Bradley Tech, Carroll, Charleston Teachers, Chicago Teachers, Elmhurst, Illinois State Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, La Grange Junior college, Loyola, Maine Junior, Milwaukee Teachers, Morton Junior, North Central, De Kalb Teachers, Oshkosh Teachers, Wheaton, Wilson Junior, George Williams, and Rose Polytechnic of Terre Haute, Ind.

Mothers Are Like That.

In olden days King Solomon
Was rated very wise,
For pat and pithy sayings, why,
He really took the prize.
But if he'd had to answer all
The questions mothers do,
The chances are he would have flunked,
The same as I—or you.

Then there was Job, that patient man,
Hard luck was his renown.
It seems old Nick gave Job the works
But couldn't wear him down.
A mother's path is likewise strewn
With trials she may not shirk,
Without acclaim she meets them all
As part of her day's work.

We've always heard that Samson was
A man of mighty strength,
Until a lady barber trimmed
His locks to briefer length.
But if for one short day he'd tried
To tag mother about
And crash the bargain counter, well,
He'd likely have passed out.

We sometimes think that beauties all
In Hollywood reside,
But mother has a quality
That shines from the inside.
The glamor we admire is oft
Just laid on with a trowel,
But mother's looks that so allure,
Is beauty of the soul.

—B. L. Bruce.

Conviction.

Through all eternity to come
God cannot make another
Who in my eyes can equal
The angel I call "mother."

—F. H. Keith.

* *

Mother's Face.

There is one fair face that lingers
In our memory's kindly store,
And tho time may banish others,
This one stays forevermore.
'Tis the face of her, our mother,
Who has gone with Him to dwell
In that land remote from sorrow,
Where the songs of gladness swell!

This the day we would have clasped her
And smoothed back her snowy hair,
While the heart would frame this message,
"Years but make you wondrous fair!"
Gone—and yet this precious vision
Now appears before my eyes
Like a benediction falling
From our God beyond the skies.

Sentiment has little place now
In these days so full of strife,
And grim doubt would claim us converts
As we view the scenes of life.
Still, we thank God for a beacon,
'Tis our mother's goodly face,
And tho the darkness oft diverts us,
We return to paths of grace!

—G. Gordon Carter.

* *

Mother's Day.

It means a lot to mothers,
This day you've set aside,
Not because you send us flowers,
Tho they fill us with great pride.

It's because they say "We love you,"
For everything you do,
Not just today, but every day,
And all these long years thru.

Just to know you love us
Is full payment for it all,
It dims the sacrifices,
Be they great or very small.

For to mothers love is first
And most important, so it seems,
Just to give love and to get love
Fulfills our fondest dreams.

—From a mother, Gene Dell.

COUNTRY'S BEST GYMNASTS OPEN TOURNEY TODAY

Bartlett Gymnasium Scene of National Meet.

After final workouts yesterday afternoon 60 top ranking gymnasts of the United States will begin competition in the national A. A. U. gymnastics meet in Bartlett gymnasium at the University of Chicago today, with the all-around, rope climbing, flying rings, tumbling, and Indian club swinging events expected to provide the greatest interest. The free calisthenics, long horse, Indian clubs, side horse, and rope climb were slated for 2:30. The evening's program, starting at 8 o'clock, includes competition on the flying rings, parallel bars, horizontal bar, and tumbling. Members of the Illinois Gymnkana will put on a group tumbling exhibition in connection with the meet.

Wheeler Is No. 1 Man.

George Wheeler of Pittsburgh, conceded the title of America's No. 1 gymnast on the basis of the 15 national titles he has won in the last three years, will defend his championships in calisthenics, long horse, parallel bars, side horse, and all-around. Opposing the slim former Pitt star will be eight of the country's most proficient gymnastics, headed by Arthur Pitt, Olympics performer of the Swiss Turnverein of Union City, N. J., 16 times national team championship winner; Kenneth Dale of the Los Angeles Athletic club, Jack Korda of the Germania Turnverein Vorwaerts of Cleveland, O.; Vincent D'Autorio of the Newark, N. J., Y. M. C. A., and Caton Cobb, University of Illinois freshman, competing unattached.

Edward A. Hennig of the Cleveland Germania Turnverein will defend his national club swinging championship to celebrate his 53 years of competition on the gym floor.

Cobb's First Tourney.

Cobb will compete in a national tourney for the first time. He is entered in the all-around event. Capt. Joe Giallombardo, also of Illinois and competing unattached, will defend the national tumbling championship he won two years ago and successfully defended last year.

Withdrawal of the United States naval academy team, which tied for second place last year, eliminates one defending champion, Midshipman Stanley Ellison, who holds the American collegiate and world's records in both the 20 and 25 feet rope climb. Roman Pieo, one of Penn State's four entrants, may break Ellison's marks. Pieo won the national rope climb title in 1935, placed second in 1936, and became champion again in 1937.

Dupont Beats Ahlbeck in Five Round Match

Joe Dupont, city Golden Gloves featherweight champion, beat Torsten Ahlbeck of Northwest gymnasium in a five round amateur bout in Madison Athletic club last night to avenge a previous defeat at the hands of Ahlbeck. Bill Cowan, 1940 Golden Gloves heavyweight finalist, conquered Lucius Williams in another match of five rounds. The near capacity crowd of 1,300 set a record for the year. Other results:

George Marino beat Enoch McLain, [3].
Morris Lewis stopped Turtle Fernandes, [3].

Crosetti's Fumble in 10th Lets Peacock Score.

New York, May 10 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox gave the Yankees their seventh straight drubbing today, 3 to 2. It was the longest losing streak the Yankees have had under the guidance of Manager Joe McCarthy. None of the Red Sox runs was earned and both of the Yankees' were legitimate. Buster Mills, the Yankees' left fielder, hit a homer in the second inning with Catcher Buddy Rosar on base, but it wasn't enough. In the tenth, Frank Crosetti fumbled Roger Cramer's hit and Johnny Peacock scored. Score:

Fenger's baseball team suffered its first defeat in the south section of the Public High School league yesterday in a nine inning game with Hirsch, 4 to 3.

The result dropped Fenger into a tie for first place with the idle Calumet team, whose contest with Hyde Park was postponed on account of wet grounds.

Gets 3 Run Homer.

Richel put Fenger out in front when he hit a home run with two on base in the first inning. Hirsch tied it with a three run rally in the sixth. In the ninth Kobar singled and in attempting to catch him stealing, Dreger threw wild and Kobar scored with the winning run.

Lane beat Taft, 4 to 0, for its sixth victory to remain undefeated leader of the north group and sharing with Lindblom, idle yesterday, the distinction of being the only defeated teams of the 31 in the league.

Frank Tells Ma and Sis

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Frank Gustine, 19 year old Chicago boy who plays second base for the Pittsburgh Pirates, talks things over with his sister Marjorie and his mother, Mrs. Zelda Gustine, before yesterday's game in Wrigley field. Frank's two hits helped the Pirates end their nine game losing streak by defeating the Cubs, 8 to 3.

Pirates Beat Revamped Cub Lineup, 8 to 3

he did manage, because of an error by Lee Handley, to make a complete jaunt around the bases in the second.

Pirates Get Cheap Run.

The Cubs committed three errors in the second inning. Mattick started it by making a high throw to Russell on Vaughan's grounder. Vaughan lost no time stealing second and he didn't even stop there, getting a free ride to third when Todd threw the ball into center field. Fletcher singled off Russell's shin and Vaughan scored. The next three men went out, Fletcher getting to second during the interval on a bad throw to first by Lee.

Leiber and Dallessandro were retired on infield taps in the home second before the Pirates decided to return the run given them. Handley made the generous gesture by heaving Russell's grounder into the dugout, Russell going to second. Todd brought him home with the tying run by singling to center. Todd thought he could continue to second without attracting the attention of his enemies, but Brown intercepted L. Waner's throw-in and tossed it to Gustine to end the inning.

The Cubs had visions of big business in the fourth, but it turned out to be another of their left on bases tricks. Herman singled and Gleeson walked with none out. They were bunted ahead by Leiber and Dallessandro was given an intentional pass. The chance vanished quickly. Russell lined to Handley and Gleeson was doubled off second.

Cubs Score Twice.

Todd and Mattick opened the fifth with singles and moved up on Lee's bunt. Hack was given an intentional pass, but the anticipated double play didn't materialize. Herman scratched a single to short and Todd scored. Gleeson tapped to Brown, whose throw to Davis forced Mattick at the plate. If Davis hadn't been so leisurely about making the throw to first base the Pirates would have completed a double play. Leiber then walked, forcing Hack to score. Dallessandro rolled to Fletcher.

The sixth which saw five Pirates parading gayly across the plate opened with singles by Garms and P. Waner. Vaughan took a healthy swing which resulted in nothing worse than a fly to Gleeson. Fletcher singled to right, scoring Garms and sending P. Waner to third. Handley also singled, scoring P. Waner with the tying run. This is where Lee was asked to resign so that Root could take charge of the trouble laden situation. Root was successful with his first pitch. The second was the one Davis slapped into the left field bleachers to round out the five run incident.

Vaughan was the first enemy to face Raffensberger in the eighth. He helped himself to a single and was bunted to second. After two were out Davis was purposely passed. Gustine, instead of becoming the intended victim, lined a single into center, Vaughan scoring. The Pirate run in the ninth was the work of the Waner boys. Lloyd singled, was bunted to second and ran the remainder of the distance on Brother Paul's single.

ill to a triple. When the customers finished applauding Averill's prowess, York drew a pass. Whether there was a missed sign on a double steal was not discernible from Detroit's lofty press ledge, but, anyhow, York made a break for second while Averill lounged on third. Rudy was thrown out, Turner to McNair. Thus encouraged, Rigney did some great bearing down to strike out Fox and Higgins.

They Almost Score.

The Sox got a runner to third base in the fourth inning but not until there were two out. After Kreevich had fanned to get the fourth started, Wright doubled to left. He went to third while Gehringer was throwing out Appling. The inning ended with Rosenthal's pop to Higgins.

The game lost its scoreless status in the Detroit sixth. With one down, Bartell walked and went to third on Campbell's single to right. Gehringer also singled to right, scoring Bartell and putting Campbell on third. Averill doubled to left, Campbell scoring. York was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Fox sent a long fly to Wright, Gehringer scoring. Then Higgins forced York.

The Sox were retired in order in the seventh and Rigney didn't come out to pitch the home half. Brown took his place. Sullivan beat out a bunt, moved up on Newsom's sacrifice and stopped while Bartell and Campbell flied out.

HOMESPUN TINGE GIVEN TO INDIANA RACE BY EMMERT

Outspoken Judge Runs for Governor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shelbyville, Ind., May 10.—A Hoosier homespun type is Judge James A. Emmert of this city, one of the three leading candidates in the field of six for the Republican nomination for governor in the state convention May 24.

His friends say he is no glamor boy, but in appearance presents an unmistakable appearance to Abraham Lincoln, a tall, lean, wiry, unpretentious man with a serious face whose pants are rarely creased.

The Emmert campaign manager, Editor Leo Kinman of Shelbyville, who wrote a biographical booklet, says that Judge Emmert is a counterpart of the old frontiersman, a democratic, approachable man, with a fine record as jurist. He hunts squirrels with a .22 calibre target pistol and bags more than some with shotguns.

Not Polished by Harvard.

Incidentally, the judge superimposed upon the homespun three years at Harvard law school, but did not acquire the Harvard accent nor did he become a [Felix] Frankfurter "hot dog." At times his talk is flavored with a picturesque saltiness reminiscent of the late speaker "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Danville, Ill., last of the pioneer type in Illinois politics.

One of the political frontiers crashed by Judge Emmert in this campaign was the liquor question, an exceedingly vexatious one in Indiana. The judge came out for state ownership and operation of liquor stores. The opposing camps in high glee said: "Jim Emmert's picked up a hot potato." They argued it would rouse the wrath of drys and wets alike and knock Emmert out as one of the top flight contenders.

Judge Emmert said today, however, that the effect has been the reverse. The idea, he declares, is applauded by drys because it would promote temperance; is favored with wets because it would bring lower prices, and is liked by taxpayers and small business men because it would mean reduction in gross income tax.

Charges Widespread Abuses.

"It's a foregone conclusion," said Emmert, "the McHale system of liquor control is going to be abolished in Indiana. Abuses have become notorious. Our problem is to promote a plan that is workable but that will promote temperance.

"The robber beer barons made $2,500,000 a year when Indiana had importers and ports of entry. We still have the liquor barons to fatten the war chest of the Indiana gang. Under the present system sales to minors are prevalent, we have bootlegging promoted by exhorbitant prices compared to other states, and we lose millions in taxes.

"Eighteen states have solved the liquor control problems thru public ownership and operation of liquor stores. The result has beeen a 20 per cent decrease in the consumption of hard liquor, a 30 per cent increase in the state revenue, and a 15 per cent decrease in liquor prices.

"A 25 per cent reduction in gross income tax can be effected by removing liquor control from the hands of the Indiana gang. Honest drys cannot find fault with a program that would promote temperance by reducing liquor consumption one-fifth. Honest wets cannot oppose a plan that would give them 15 per cent lower prices.

Predicts Cut on Taxes.

"Without adding a single dollar on property and without taking a single dollar now going to school uses, the gross income tax on retail sales could be cut at least 25 per cent.

"Our general fund should have at least $3,000,000 additional revenue a year from liquor control for temperance by following the Ohio system of liquor control instead of the McHale system, which promotes intemperance and loses revenues.

"The recommendations of the Rockefeller Foundation report should be followed. In 1938 Ohio, with twice the population of Indiana, made $20,942,000 from liquor control, while Indiana made only $6,491,000. Why should the liquor barons be allowed to deprive Indiana's general fund of 2 to 3 million dollars revenue a year?

"And consider prices. Ohio sells one brand of liquor at $1.92 a bottle. In Indiana the same bottle sells for $3.30."

As first of his issues, Emmert lays stress on "destroy the Indiana gang." State government, he says, has been in the control of the Indiana gang for seven years. It has been vicious, ruthless, greedy, and ungrateful to the old line Jeffersonian Democrats. This political machine can only be destroyed by beating it with ballots in November.

Born in Indiana.

"The two per cent club has been a double barreled weapon of extortion. The right barrel collected from 2 to 4 per cent of the pay checks of each state employé, and the left barrel collected the kick back or payoff which was levied on thousands of transactions with the state. This raised the cost of state government by hundreds of thousands of dollars since 1932."

Judge Emmert, who is 44, was born in Franklin county. He worked in a flour mill. While a student at Northwestern university he enlisted in 1917 and served on French soil 22 months. He was graduated from Northwestern in 1920, thence to Harvard law school. He is married and has three children.

The hobby of "Jim" as they call him here, is rifle and pistol shooting. He has numerous medals and is past president of the State Rifle association. In 1925 he was elected mayor of Shelbyville, first Republican in 20 years.

The city council was Democratic. It tried to get him behind the eight ball. After tumultuous meetings the mayor called in the police chief to enforce a roll call. The council concluded he was too tough to be trifled with.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "... and No Harm Done"

TRUCE IS CALLED IN CITY'S BATTLE WITH CAR LINES

Heralded Showdown Set for Tuesday.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The coming showdown on Chicago's 13 year old transit unification dispute has been put off until next Tuesday.

This was announced yesterday after Mayor Kelly and other city representatives discussed for three hours with transit officials the city's latest demands for a unified traction ordinance. The city made its latest compromise proposal Thursday after the Public Works administration on Wednesday had issued an ultimatum to the city to settle the franchise dispute or face immediate cancelation of the PWA's 18 million dollar subway grant.

Make Reply Tuesday.

The lines are expected to reply to the city's demands at a joint meeting Tuesday. Company officials will meet Monday to finish their analysis of the city's demands.

The companies, it was learned yesterday, told the city their stand on the first 10 sections of more than 30 in the city's proposed ordinance. These 10 sections, however, did not include the three most controversial points blocking a settlement: city compensation, payment for paving street car rights of way, and payment for equipping the new subway.

Joseph Sharfsin, PWA traction counsel, left for Washington, D. C., late yesterday to report to John M. Carmody, PWA head, on the progress of negotiations. He will return to Chicago for Tuesday's meeting. It was learned that Sharfsin will recommend that the PWA withhold any move to cancel the subway grant for a few days, pending definite indication of the outcome of the franchise controversy.

How City Stands.

In its latest proposal the city asked that compensation for use of streets and the subway be paid at 3 per cent of gross revenues, with a reduction to 1.5 per cent until 1943. Only 1 per cent of revenues would be a flat charge, with the remainder payable only if earned after bond interest.

The city offered to split the 10 million dollar estimated cost of equipping the subway 50-50 with the lines. The lines had rejected the city's earlier demand that they pay $10,000 a mile to help repave street car rights of way torn up for bus substitutions. The city has asked for a counter offer from the companies.

CHURCH TO SHARE $25,000 ESTATE OF BISHOP STEWART

St. Luke's procathedral in Evanston eventually will receive $5,000 of the estimated $25,000 estate left by Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago. The diocese will receive $2,000 more. This was disclosed yesterday when the bishop's will was filed with Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court. The procathedral was the scene of the bishop's labors for many years.

The will left most of the estate in trust for the widow, Mrs. Gertrude Clyde Stewart. After her death and the death of the bishop's sister, the principal will be distributed to the church, the diocese and relatives. Four books of sermons each are left to the 150 clergymen of the diocese. The rest of the bishop's library of 9,000 volumes will go to Mrs. Stewart under the will, which was approved by Judge John F. O'Connell. Bishop Stewart died May 2.

DAIRY FILES SUIT TO SAVE DEALER FROM PICKETING

Officials of Brown Dairy Products, Inc., asked the Superior court yesterday to protect a customer from picketing by local 753 of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union. The company's suit charged that the company has lost many of its customers because of threats and intimidation by the union.

The company asserted the union has threatened to picket the store of Richard Patrick at 6000 Loomis boulevard unless Patrick buys his milk from a company employing union labor. Employés of the dairy, the company contended, do not wish to join the union. The dairy is located at 7717 62d place, Summit.

Judge Joseph A. Graber in Criminal court withheld sentence of Rex Flach of Amboy, Lee county, a former state highway policeman, on a manslaughter charge when the father of a girl fatally injured by Flach's car last Dec. 28 urged leniency for him. The victim was Virginia Rudd, 5, daughter of William Rudd, 8540 Bennett avenue. Judge Graber continued the case to next Friday on a probation motion. Flach was found guilty May 3.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 302 persons had been killed by traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 232 were killed in Chicago, where 7,463 were injured in traffic accidents in the same period.

NEW TROUBLES BESET TRUCE IN MILK PAY FIGHT

Settlement Is Left Up to Courtney.

State's Attorney Courtney will cut short a vacation and return to Chicago Monday in an effort to smooth out new difficulties between the Milk Wagon Drivers' union and the employing dealers. This was announced yesterday by Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney.

Under Courtney's guidance representatives of 4,300 drivers and 2,000 members of the Inside Dairy Workers' union agreed with the dealers on truce terms that ended a two day strike on May 3. The unionists and dealers have since split on the interpretation of one important clause of this agreement.

Split on Arbitration.

This clause provided that union representatives would recommend to their memberships that in the event negotiations for a new pay scale came to an impasse, arbitration would be resorted to on May 31. The drivers, at a meeting Thursday night, declined to ratify the proposal. They instructed their officers to continue negotiations and to report May 23 on points that must be arbitrated.

At a meeting of the negotiation committees for the two sides yesterday the drivers' decision was announced to the dealers. Attorney Ernest S. Ballard, dealer spokesman, replied:

"We understand that this terminates the Courtney agreement. However, we will take the matter under advisement and let the union know whether we will continue negotiations."

Union heads, including Henry Weber, the president, said they believe they had carried out the agreement in good faith. Ballard's contention was that the arbitration agreement should have been approved no later than Thursday; the union heads said they had until May 31 to accept or reject this clause.

Await Courtney Return.

It was indicated by both sides that the status quo would be maintained until Courtney returns and gets them together Monday. Crowley's announcement was made after a union delegation called on him late in the afternoon.

The unionists are working at the pay scale prevailing in the old contract that expired April 30. They have insisted they keep that scale. The dealers have argued that a pay cut—variously estimated at from $11 to $15 a week—must be taken by the drivers if the present system of milk distribution is to be kept, that otherwise there will be a great loss in the number of jobs for drivers.

SCHOOL DISTRICT TAXES FOR 1938 OF 20 SUBURBS HIT

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday held illegal portions of the 1938 tax levies of 14 elementary and six high school districts in Cook county suburbs. The rulings were made on objections to levies filed by attorneys for taxpayers in the districts. Judge Jarecki postponed to next Thursday hearings on objections of most of the suburban park districts' levies and on the remaining objections to 1938 levies of the county's six major governments.

Following is a table showing the amounts for each school district and equivalent tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation invalidated yesterday:

BOARD ADVISES CHANGES IN CITY MILK ORDINANCE

Urges Conformity with Federal Standards.

The board of health advised the city council committee on health yesterday that the Chicago milk ordinance must be revised and amended if the city's milk standards are to conform to new provisions of the United States Public Health service.

One of these provisions approves the sale of milk in paper containers, now barred in Chicago. Other omissions in the present ordinance which were cited by the board apply to regulations for milk bottle caps and regulations for homogenized milk [milk in which the butter fat has been broken into small particles, so that there is no cream line].

Referred to Committee.

Recommendations that the milk ordinance be amended to conform in these particulars to new government standards were referred to the council health committee by a vote of 3 to 2. Those favoring amendment were Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, board president; Dr. Louis Schmidt, and Dr. Francis Dulak.

The dissenting board members, Dr. Lloyd Arnold, bacteriologist, and Harry Reynolds, contended that the suggestions for amendment constituted an indirect attempt to obtain a completely new milk ordinance.

Fear Loss of Rating.

The majority of the board answered that, unless the revisions are made, there is danger that Chicago milk may not be given Grade "A" rating when government tests are made this year on the basis of the new Public Health service standards. Chicago has always been accorded this rating since the existing ordinance was drafted in 1935 in conformity with government standards then in force.

The board's suggestions were referred to the council committee upon request of Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], committee chairman, that it submit its views on the adequacy of the ordinance as it stands.

SELLING BLAST SINKS STOCKS IN HEAVY TRADING

Many Leaders Slump 1 to 5 Points.

New York, May 10 (AP).—The German blitzkrieg on the low countries today brought a selling blast in the stock market that knocked many leaders down 1 to more than 5 points, many to new lows for the year and longer.

A few so-called war issues managed to put up a show of resistance. These swung up substantially at the start while "peace-time stocks" crumbled. Even the favorites later gave ground, and, altho a small assortment managed to emerge with modest plus signs, the majority were lower at the close.

Most traders were said to have stepped aside because of their inability to determine the effects on domestic economy of the outburst of "total war" abroad.

"War Shares" Rise at Start.

Steels, aircrafts, coppers, and sugars were in the rising division at the opening. Rails, utilities, rubbers, motors, and oils were among the main tumblers. With the biggest crowd on the floor of the stock exchange since the overseas conflict got under way last fall, the ticker tape occasionally was as much as 5 minutes behind trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 1.4 points, at 48.5, a new 1940 low level. It was the largest decline for a single day since Sept. 18. Transfers expanded to 2,086,240 shares, a high mark since April 9. Turnover was 847,530 yesterday.

Prominent in the retreat were Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber common and preferred, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, American Airlines, Westinghouse, Loft, Union Pacific, Texas corporation, and International Paper preferred.

Steels Lose Fractions.

United States Steel and Bethlehem held setbacks to fractions and small gains were retained by Boeing, Anaconda, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, South Puerto Rico Sugar, and Fajardo Sugar.

Business news, fairly good in spots, was virtually ignored. Brokers said foreign selling of American stocks thru banks may have been a factor in the unsettlement.

Losses up to five points on the curb were posted for Aluminum of America, American Gas, Niles-Bement-Pond, and Todd Shipyards. Volume was around 366,000 shares compared with 196,000 the day before.

CHICAGO STOCKS DECLINE

Reacting to the spread of war in Europe, dealers on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday traded 54,000 shares, the largest volume since April 4. Of the 142 issues traded, 100 declined. Commonwealth Edison, of which 4,850 shares were traded, dropped 1 point.

Other volume leaders were Chicago Corporation, Armour & Co., Central Illinois Securities, Aviation and Transportation, Aviation Corporation, and Libby-McNeill.

Signode Steel common closed at 17¼, a new 1940 high mark and up ¾. Sundstrand Machine Tool touched 29¾, a new peak, but closed 1¾ points below Thursday's final price.

LEONARD JENKINS PLEADS GUILTY IN M'KESSON CASE

New York, May 10 (AP).—Leonard Jenkins, brother of the widow of F. Donald Coster-Musica, pleaded guilty in federal court today to the conspiracy count in his indictment in the McKesson & Robbins mail fraud and conspiracy case.

Leonard Jenkins.

Jenkins' lawyer, William Copeland Dodge, announced the plea to Judge Grover Moscowitz at the start of the afternoon session of the cross-examination of Horace B. Merwin, another defendant. John Jenkins, brother of Leonard, had previously pleaded guilty. Besides Merwin there are two other defendants.

Sentencing of Jenkins was deferred until the end of the present trial. He faces a possible maximum sentence of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

CALL OFF MERGER OF ATLAS CORP., CURTISS-WRIGHT

New York, May 10 (AP).—The proposed merger of Atlas corporation, big Wall street investing firm, and the aircraft manufacturing firm of Curtiss-Wright corporation into a $160,000,000 combine was called off today.

Floyd Odlum, president of Atlas, announced abandonment of the plans on the grounds that in his opinion "certain of the objections" raised by Curtiss-Wright stockholders "could not be met in any way that seemed feasible to him."

Massachusetts Investors' trust, a holder of 21,700 shares of class "A" stock, had presented strong objections to the merger to the Curtiss-Wright board.

Bendix Nearly Doubles First Quarter Profit

Bendix Aviation corporation, South Bend, Ind., yesterday reported first quarter net income including its subsidiaries was $1,933,880, or 92 cents a share on he capital stock, nearly double the $1,023,966, or 49 cents a share, earned in the first quarter of 1939.

Laurens Hammond reports upturn in his company's profit. [Moffett Photo.]

The company, which manufactures household, aviation, and automobile appliances, and its subsidiaries had consolidated net income of $5,395,856, or $2.57 a share, for the 12 months ended March 31, according to the report. In the preceding 12 months' period, net income was $1,741,648, or 83 cents a share.

Instrument Maker Has Gain.

Several other large corporations, including the Hammond Instrument company, Chicago, and the Anaconda Copper Mining company and subsidiaries, also reported increased earnings for varying fiscal periods.

Hammond Instrument, manufacturer of electrical clocks and musical instruments, earned $208,186 or 48 cents a share in the fiscal year ended March 31, Laurens Hammond, president reported. This compared with $170,988 or 38 cents a share in the preceding fiscal year.

The company's business, transacted in 30 foreign countries, was seriously affected by the outbreak of the war, Hammond said, but profits increased because of improved operating efficiency.

"Our dollar volume of musical instrument export business for the year was only one-third that of the preceding year," he told stockholders. The company's output during the year was 72 per cent musical instruments and 28 per cent clocks.

Western Union Has Profit.

A loss of $818,482 in the first quarter of 1939 by the Western Union Telegraph company, was converted into a net profit of $210,472, or 20 cents a share, in the first quarter this year, the company reported. Net income for March was $337,738 against $146,941 in March, 1939.

Anaconda Copper and its subsidiaries issued a preliminary report for the first quarter, showing net profit of $10,517,636 before depletion, equal to $1.21 a share. In the 1939 quarter, net profit was $3,686,911 or 42 cents a share.

B-G Foods, Inc., restaurant chain with headquarters in Chicago, reported net profit of $40,797 for the 16 weeks ended April 19 against net profit of $35,158 in the similar 1939 period. Both figures are after depreciation and federal income taxes.

Air Line Cuts Loss.

W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, reported his company had a net loss of $288,575 in the first quarter, compared with a net loss of $419,085 in the same quarter last year.

Operating revenue's of the company were 32.8 per cent greater, Patterson said, largely because of a 59 per cent increase in the number of revenue-passenger miles flown during the quarter.

MAY SNOWS CUT SALES IN CHICAGO STORES FOR WEEK

Snow or rain on six days in the week ended May 4 took its toll in Chicago department store sales, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Sales declined 6.5 per cent in comparison with the corresponding 1939 week.

The decline in Chicago, plus a loss of 5.9 per cent in Indianapolis, carried the total of the entire 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district down 0.9 per cent below the same week a year ago. Special sales in Milwaukee accounted for a 16 per cent gain there, while better shopping weather in Detroit helped boost its department store sales 4.1 per cent. A New Index of Output of Durable and Nondurable Goods

New Invasions Strangle More U. S. Markets

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

American agriculture and industry face the loss of important markets as a result of the spread of the war to Holland and Belgium, Chicago trade leaders said yesterday.

Holland was America's sixth best customer in 1939, taking $96,809,000 worth of goods. In addition, her possessions purchased nearly $74,000,000 of goods from this country, the Dutch West Indies accounting for $38,378,000 and the Dutch East Indies for $35,470,000.

Total Market of 161 Millions.

Belgium's purchases in the United States last year totaled $64,567,000. Thus Holland proper and Belgium provided America with a $161,376,000 market, and purchases, including those of the possessions, exceeded 235 million dollars, or more than 7 per cent of last year's total American exports of $3,177,344,000.

United States exports have been increasing since the European war began in September, and the department of commerce estimated yesterday that exports to Holland proper, Belgium, and Luxemburg are now at the rate of $200,000,000 a year. Imports from these sources into the United States last year totaled about $93,000,000.

Belgium and Holland buy crude materials, vegetable products, lard, bacon, cotton, tobacco, wheat, fruits, machinery, and vehicles from the United States. They sell us cut diamonds, tulip bulbs, nonferrous metals, and chemicals, and Holland, thru its East Indies possessions, supplies rubber, tin, oil, sugar, quinine, tea, and spites.

Buy Many Farm Products.

The importance of Belgium and Holland as markets for agricultural products is indicated by figures covering sales since the war began.

From September, 1939, to Feb. 29, 1940, the Netherlands purchased $61,783,000 of goods of all kinds in the United States, including $30,937,000 of farm products. Belgium's total was $34,464,000, including $16,595,000 of farm products. The total of farm sales to the two countries in the six months was $47,532,000.

Chicago trade leaders said yesterday that, regardless of whether Germany succeeds or fails in the newest thrust, shipping into Belgian and Dutch centers will be strangled. It already had been restricted to "normal" proportions by the British in an effort to prevent Germany from getting supplies thru neutrals, and the menace of German air raids will further discourage shipping, it was said.

American ships have been barred from the area since last November by presidential proclamation.

Fourth Largest Fleet.

Holland has the fourth largest merchant fleet in Europe, being outranked only by England, Germany, and Norway. The East Indies, one of the richest regions of the world in terms of natural resources, supply much of the business on which the Dutch shipping trade has thrived.

The Dutch West Indies include the Island of Aruba, off the Venezuelan coast, where the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has the world's largest oil refinery.

Belgium, in addition to being a high ranking industrial nation, possesses the Congo Free State in Africa, a leading source of the copper used in Europe.

BANK STOCKS

First National bank shares declined 6 points, and Continental Illinois, Harris Trust, and Northern Trust sank 2 points each yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. City National dipped a point and Chicago Title eased half a point. American National was unchanged.

COURT DEMANDS EXPLANATION OF RAIL PLAN DELAY

C. & E. I. Reorganization Is Involved.

Reorganization managers of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway were ordered yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes, on his own motion, to file by May 13 a report stating "the reason or reasons, if any there are," for delay in completion of the reorganization plan under section 77 of the bankruptcy law.

The plan was affirmed by the court Jan. 10. The reorganization managers filed with the court Tuesday a progress report which said an additional 90 days would be needed to complete the reorganization.

Believes Delays Unreasonable.

The order of Judge Barnes stated also that the court is inclined to the opinion "that the delays that have occurred are unreasonable."

The report of progress said, in part, that the delays were brought about by the necessity of frequent conferences with representatives of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which is providing a large loan for the plan, and by the need of drawing various drafts of new first and general mortgages, which must be approved by governmental agencies, including the RFC and the Interstate Commerce commission.

Managers Are Scattered.

The three reorganization managers were in different parts of the country yesterday, but were expected to be in court Monday.

John W. Barriger has his headquarters in Washington, D. C., Kenneth D. Steere was in Texas, and Carroll M. Shanks was in Newark, N. J.

HOG RECEIPTS DIP AND PRICES MOVE UP 10 TO 20 CENTS

Small receipts of hogs at all leading packing centers in the country resulted in a 10 to 20 cents rise in prices at the stock yards yesterday. New developments in the European war had little effect on the demand, market experts said, altho they admitted that heavy fighting may increase the drain on the "war kitchens" built up over the last few months by warring nations.

England is said to be well stocked with pork pproducts, and Canadian cold storage houses are filled with meat ready to be exported whenever England needs it.

Lambs sold readily at strong to 10 cents higher rates. Packers and eastern order buyers paid the $10.60 top for wool stock. Freshly shorn stock went at $9.35.

Not enough cattle arrived to test the market. Scattered sales were made at prices about in line with Thursday sales.

Wheat Futures Rise 4 Cents on Spread of War

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the July delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$1.08½	$1.04⅝	$ .73½
Corn	.69	.67⅛	.51⅝
Oats	.38¼	.37⅝	.32⅝
Rye	.70⅝	.67⅝	.48
Soy beans	1.05½	1.04⅝	.95⅝

Wheat prices advanced 5 cents and corn 2½ cents at the opening of trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade as the result of the invasion of Holland and Belgium by Germany. September wheat sold at $1.10 at one time and September corn at 70 cents. All deliveries of corn went into new high ground since September, 1937.

Trading was extremely active during the first 15 minutes of the session. Profit taking by traders who had bought at lower prices and selling by cash interests checked the bulge, and later the markets fluctuated in a fair range following war news reports.

Upturn Relatively Small.

Closing trades on wheat futures were at gains of 3⅛ to 4 cents a bushel. Corn finished 1⅝ to 2 cents higher. Oats were ¼ to 1¼ cents higher, and rye advanced 3 cents. Soy beans finished ⅝ cent lower to ⅞ cent a bushel higher, the former on the May delivery.

Yesterday's upturn in the grain markets was smaller than those following previous sudden moves by Germany. Brokers attributed this to the fact that the immediate effect of war in Holland and Belgium might be bearish, as the two countries are normally among the largest European importers of wheat, corn, and other agricultural products.

Buenos Aires wheat futures were 4⅛ cents lower at the opening, reflecting apprehension that recent large purchases of wheat and other grains by Holland and Belgium might be canceled.

Flour Mills Buy Wheat.

Mills were reported to have been good buyers of wheat futures. It was indicated that many domestic users of flour were buying supplies. Canadian mills were reported to have sold about 50,000 barrels of flour for export. Winnipeg wheat closed 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents higher.

Farmers sold about 150,000 bushels of cash corn for deferred shipment to Chicago. Confirmation of reports that the government had sold 20,000,000 bushels of corn to the United Kingdom had little effect on the market as the grain, it is understood, was part of the 90,000,000 bushels of defaulted 1938 loan corn held by the Commodity Credit corporation in steel bins and western elevators.

Heavy Steel Scrap Price Rises Second Day in Row

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10 (AP).—No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap has advanced 50 cents a ton, second such gain in the last two days, to a new range of $17.50-$18 a ton. Metal dealers reported a scarcity of available scrap.

COTTON

Cotton prices declined over $2 a bale yesterday as the result of general liquidation by holders of contracts and heavy selling attributed to Bombay. The invasion of Holland and Belgium is expected to greatly curtail demand for American cotton, brokers said, in explaining the break. Closing trades were at about the low point with net losses of .27 to .46 cent a pound. The latter is equal to $2.30 a bale.

Selling of cotton futures in American markets by Indian traders is said to have been in the way of closing a large spread between New York and Bombay. Indian traders are estimated to own about 200,000 bales of cotton futures in New York and are said to be short a like amount in Bombay.

Spot cotton closed .41 to .42 cent lower with New York, 10.32 cents; New Orleans, 10.17 cents and Houston at 9.82 cents a pound. Prices follow:

RUBBER LEADS PRICE BOOM IN STAPLES LIST

Metal Markets Also Front Runners.

Waves of speculative buying swept commodity futures prices forward yesterday on war inspired markets. The war favorite, rubber, climbed 3.08 cents a pound to 23.5 cents for May deliveries and deferred futures advanced the 2 cent a pound limit permitted in a single day's futures trading. A burst of activity in the metal markets carried straits tin futures up nearly 5½ cents a pound and prices of other metals soared

Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins instructed chiefs of several trade and finance divisions in his department to make proposals for building up United States stock of tin and rubber.

Report Rubber Confiscated.

The United States, which grows no rubber itself, takes 55 per cent of the world's output. About 40 per cent of the world's production of the staple comes from the Dutch East Indies. There were unofficial reports that the Dutch government had confiscated a large amount of crude rubber, rumored to be nearly 100,000 tons, to prevent its falling into the hands of its enemies.

Custom smelters withdrew cash copper quotations of 11 cents a pound, altho primary producers continued to quote 11½ cents a pound, Connecticut valley, for electrolytic metal. Lead futures closed 20 points higher; zinc futures, 32 to 33 higher, and copper futures, 46 to 49 higher.

Silk Futures Bound.

Among the imported commodities, silk futures recorded 11 to 20 cent gains a pound, and cocoa advanced 7 to 20 points as traders were plagued by fears of limited shipping space.

Also in the front lines of the advance were cottonseed oil futures with final prices 25 to 29 points higher and raw hide futures with gains of 33 to 38 points. Wool tops rose 3½ cents a pound, and futures climbed 33 to 38 points.

World sugar futures gained 6 to 7 points as the spreading war threatened Europe's sugar beet crops and factories. Domestic futures followed the upturn with gains of 4 to 5 points.

Butter Market Higher.

Butter futures advanced over ¾ cent a pound on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The gain was contra-seasonal, as the season of flush production has been held back two to three weeks by slow pasture growth and traders still lack a definite basis on which to fix their fall needs. Meanwhile, apparently well founded rumors that the government subsidized Dairy Products Marketing association plans to continue supporting the butter markets has limited demand.

Egg futures advanced 0.30 cent a dozen as more of Great Britain's sources of supply were shut off. Traders pointed out that the Netherlands ordinarily supply 20 per cent of England's egg imports. Germany's invasion of Denmark had cut off the source of 40 per cent of her egg imports.

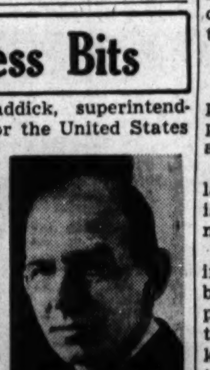
Canada to Export Eggs.

Reports in Chicago yesterday stated that the Canadian branch of one of the big meat packers had sold 1,000 cases of eggs [30 dozen to the case] to English interests at $7.52 [Canadian funds] a case and that the British food ministry ordered 10,000 more cases at the same price.

Egg traders have bought cautiously because of losses on stored eggs in recent years and because of government activities in the egg market. Buyers have encountered considerable hedging pressure. Heavy buying for relief purposes by federal agencies and willingness of the government to take eggs held in storage less than 30 days has brought increased activity in futures.

Business Bits

Charles P. Graddick, superintendent of air mail for the United States postoffice department, announced his resignation yesterday to accept a position with United Air Lines on June 1 as director of mail and express. He will head a new department of the air line created for the promotion of cargo transportation by air.



Charles P. Graddick.

A railroad car has been turned into temporary executive offices for six officials of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company who are making a 6,000 mile business survey trip in the west.

Milton A. Romney and Stuart P. Williams have joined the investment firm of Dempsey, Detmer & Co.

J. H. Struyk has been named sales manager of the Chicago district of the B. F. Goodrich company.

Thomas B. Hart has been appointed regional administrator for the Securities and Exchange commission in the Chicago district. He has been connected with the SEC as attorney.

Lewis F. Gordon, public relations director, Citizens and Southern National bank, Atlanta, Ga., will address the Chicago Financial Advertisers at a luncheon at the Bismarck hotel Monday.

Recovery Held Back by Fears, Says Knudsen

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

America can get up steam again and make as much progress in the next 80 years as it did in the last if it can eliminate fear of law, fear of taxes, and fear of risk, William S. Knudsen said last night. He spoke before 1,000 business leaders at a dinner of the Economic Club of Chicago at the Stevens hotel.

William S. Knudsen.

The one time $6 a week Danish immigrant boy who worked his way up to the presidency of the 1¾ billion dollar General Motors corporation gave his own cure for the nation's economic troubles—plain hard work. Standing in the way of work for all those who want it, he said, are these three fears.

Explains Fear of Law.

Explaining what he meant by fear of the law he cited the recent experience of himself and other General Motors executives when a South Bend jury found the flesh and blood heads of the corporation not guilty of an antitrust charge, but declared the corporation to be guilty.

"I can't figure out what the corporation did that was wrong; I know we did nothing," he said. "I mention this to show how one can become confused, the result is fear."

Concerning taxes, he said that when one sees taxes equaling or exceeding the amount of dividends paid to stockholders, the fear arises as to whether taxes are supporting the government or whether they are getting in the prohibitive zone. He recommended that corporate taxes be limited to 12½ per cent and individual taxes to 40 per cent, explaining that in normal times more funds would be collected with these limitations than under the confiscatory taxes.

Fear of Risk "Is Worst."

"Fear of risk is the worst of all three," Knudsen said, "and the present pattern of taxation has no doubt something to do with it. During the last five or six years so much has been spoken against large profits that it is almost a public disgrace for a concern to be profitable and the proposed remedy is that some way be found to take the profits away and give them to somebody who did not have anything to do with making them in the first place.

"It makes me uneasy when I sometimes hear successful men take the position, 'What's the use?' Idle men are bad enough, but idle brains spell plain disaster to the nation. Whatever our so-called conditions are in a democracy we ourselves have to accept the responsibility for them. Work is the only cure for our economic ills."

Two Schools of Thought.

Declaring that more jobs must be created to absorb workers in a way that will give them something permanent to do, Knudsen said there are two schools of thought as to dealing with the unemployment problem. One, advanced by labor leaders, is to divide the available work. This method has proved a flat failure and "led to 1932."

Knudsen said the other way comes thru a surplus earned by those who are employed. This surplus puts others to work. Free opportunity for investment of this surplus, big or little, will do more to put men back to work and get the United States out of the slump than all the attempted regulation on the books, he declared.

Knudsen said it was the willingness to take a risk that resulted in a plowed field near La Grange in five years becoming a $20,000,000 Diesel plant giving employment to 3,000 persons in the Chicago district. After 10 years of experiment and the expenditure of $1,000,000 it resulted in the Allison plant at Indianapolis, Ind., which is now turning out liquid cooled airplane engines that will aid the national defense.

Treatment Is Unfair.

Altho while industry coöperates 100 per cent with some government departments, he commented "it gets a kick in the pants from others."

One hopeful sign, he said, is that labor is getting weary of strikes and is beginning to show signs of common sense.

Knudsen concluded his talk by urging that the nation arm itself "and be prepared, as the government prepared for gangsters, so that if any one tries to get us involved he will know he has somebody to deal with that can handle himself in a scrap. If international law has gone into the discard, let us make a good job of preparedness so our children can play in the streets without fear of bombs or guns."

BRITISH POUND PLUNGES TO ALL TIME LOW MARK

President 'Freezes' Dutch Assets.

The British pound sterling shattered its all time low price record yesterday, plunging at one time to $3.00 in New York as world markets reacted to Germany's invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxemburg. The closing price was $3.16, down 19 cents for the day.

Other financial developments:

1. The American government "froze" all Dutch and Belgian owned assets in the United States, estimated at more than $1,330,000,000, exclusive of gold reserves.

2. The Canadian foreign exchange control board took similar action.

Foreign Markets Weak.

3. London and Paris securities markets weakened, and some issues directly or indirectly connected with the invaded countries tumbled or were not quoted at all.

4. The bourse in Amsterdam since the beginning of the war the chief neutral financial center in Europe, was closed.

5. Banks in Amsterdam were reported to have had some "runs," with all requests for withdrawals being met.

In its sudden collapse the pound sterling went 14½ cents below the former record low mark of $3.14½ established in November, 1932. At the day's lowest price the unit was 35 cents below Thursday's final quotation of $3.35.

Franc Falls to 1.79 Cents.

Quotations on the currencies of Belgium and Holland were suspended. The French franc slumped to 1.79 cents, from 1.90 cents on Thursday. The Canadian dollar was 1 cent lower at 82 cents.

Included in the Dutch assets tied up by order of President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau were these: About $200,000,000 on deposit at New York in balances callable on short notice; a large but undisclosed part of the $700,000,000 of Bank of the Netherlands gold reserves, and $850,000,000 of American securities.

Belgium is said to have $165,000,000 in short term balances in the United States. Belgian holdings of American securities are estimated at $121,000,000. Belgium has a $600,000,000 gold reserve, part of which [the amount is unknown] has been shipped to the United States for safekeeping.

Bar Nazi Fund Seizures.

The purpose of the order, which prohibits transfers without approval of the treasury, as in the case of Norway and Denmark, was to keep Germany from seizing assets of the invaded countries. Danish held assets in the United States totaled about $67,000,000 and Norwegian owned holdings were about $29,000,000.

In spite of the American action to "freeze" the holdings Germany is believed to have taken some gold and convertible assets in Scandinavia.

Washington officials estimate that Germany now has $200,000,000 in its war chest, altho the federal reserve reports still carry the 1937 figure of $29,000,000 as the reich's gold total. German seizures of gold in earlier conquests were reported to have totaled $46,000,000 in Austria and $67,000,000 in Czecho-Slovakia.

Lowland Issues Slump.

From the opening of the London Stock exchange steps were taken to discourage dumping of securities. Quotations were marked down and the spread between bid and asked prices by jobbers [specialists] were widened. Actual dealings were small, and quotations were mostly nominal.

On the Paris bourse, Belgian and Dutch issues were the weakest, altho French government bonds also declined. Selling orders for some Belgian and Dutch stocks were so heavy that no prices could be quoted. Royal Dutch shares were the hardest hit.

Week's Auto Production Declines to 98,480 Units

Detroit, Mich., May 10 (AP).—Ward's Reports, Inc., estimated today that this week's output of automobiles would be 98,480 units, compared with 99,305 last week and 72,375 a year ago. The survey referred to production as continuing "in firm ground," and said that this week's slight dip may be followed by a rebound in the next week.

PROPOSE LABOR BE BANNED FROM OWN NLRB CASES

Causes Intense Feeling, Say Investigators.

Washington, D. C., May 10 [Special].—Labor organizations or individuals filing charges against employers should be barred from participation in subsequent hearings on the case by the National Labor Relations board, investigators for the attorney general's committee on administrative procedure suggested today. The investigators submitted a memorandum to the committee which later will submit a full report on the subject.

[This committee was appointed by the attorney general to make an independent study of present administrative operations of government bureaus with a view toward improvement. The Walter-Logan bill would make such reforms in procedure mandatory.]

"There is considerable doubt," said the investigators, "as to the wisdom of the board's current practice of making the persons who filed the charges parties to the proceedings. That their interests should be represented is axiomatic, but it is not nearly so clear that they should be permitted to participate in the case, at least until the hearing has been terminated, at which time they would be allowed to file exceptions."

Meetings "None Too Amicable."

The investigators said that the board's trial attorneys were "entrusted with the task of establishing the truth" of the charges, and that appearance of lawyers for the unions in the "heated atmosphere" only made feeling more intense in proceedings "which are already none too amicable."

Neither the constitution nor the Wagner act makes the appearance of the unions necessary, so the board might well bar them, said the investigators. They advised the board to follow the example of the federal trade commission, which has "steadfastly refused to permit intervention" by the complainants.

Former Senator Assailed.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers union, accused former Senator James A. Reed today of "unwarranted attacks" on the union. Dubinsky testified before the house committee investigating the National Labor Relations board, while the former senator from Missouri looked on.

The witness appeared at his own request to reply to testimony given the committee last Saturday by Reed regarding attempted organization of the Donnelly Garment company of Kansas City. The company is owned by Mrs. Reed.

Reed had said his company had attempted to protect workers at the Donnelly plant from "horrors" with which he declared they were threatened by International Ladies Garment union organizers.

Disputing Reed's testimony that the Donnelly Garment Company Workers union was not a company union, Dubinsky declared it was dominated by the company and given preference over his own organization. He also attributed to the company a campaign to "coerce" the workers into not joining his union.

APRIL DELIVERIES BY STUDEBAKER BEST SINCE 1928

Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, yesterday reported the company made more domestic retail deliveries of passenger cars and trucks in April than had been made during the month in any year since 1928. Deliveries totaled 10,118 units, against 7,385 in April, 1939, a gain of 37 per cent, he said.

Factory sales to domestic and foreign dealers in April totaled 10,898 units, against 10,974 in April, 1939.

BOND LIST RENT BY NEW IMPACT OF EUROPE'S WAR

Foreign Section Tumbles in Distress Selling.

New York, May 10 (AP).—Declines of 2 to 5 points were numerous in the foreign section of the bond market today. Domestic issues also leaned back heavily as traders tried to evaluate the invasion of Belgium and Holland by Germany.

Brokers described the action in corporate and United States government bonds as "frightened selling" which caused buyers to withdraw pending a better insight into the latest turn in the war. But in the foreign list it was "distressed" selling of the most acute type, with holders of obligations of Europe's warring nations accepting whatever they could get.

Belgian Bond Off 25½.

A case in point was the transfer of one Belgian 7 per cent bond at 72⅝, a drop of 25½ points. It was the only sale of that kingdom's bonds during the day, but it was not because they were not offered but rather because no one wanted to buy. Holland has no government bonds outstanding in this country.

A few of the wide losers included Australia 5s, off 3 at 59; Canada 3s, off 3¾ at 73; Denmark 5½s, off 2½ at 22; Irish Free State stamped 5s, off 5 at 75; New South Wales 5s, off 3⅞ at 54; Queensland 7s, off 4⅝ at 90⅛; Japan 5½s, off 4 at 60; German 7s, off 2⅜ at 11⅝, and Italy 7s, off 3 at 50.

Government Loans Fade.

The domestic list was dotted with declines of 1 to 3 points or more. Typical were International Telephone 5s at 33; Goodrich 4¼s at 103; Santa Fe 4s at 104½, and Pacific Gas 3⅜s at 110⅛.

United States government loans joined the downward parade. Losses extended up to a point or slightly more for some long term maturities. It was the widest break in government bonds since the war started last September.

Total sales of $10,485,550, par value, were the largest since April 4, and compared with $7,256,450 on Thursday.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 10 (AP).—Carload lots, per barrel in 98 pound cotton sacks: Family patents, 25c higher, $6.75@6.95; standard patents, 20c higher, $5.60@5.80. Shipments, 17,875 brls. Pure bran, $23.50@24.00 per ton. Standard middlings, $23.50@24.00.

WHALING INDUSTRY.

What kind of a company is Anglo-Norwegian Holdings, Ltd.?—G. B.

Answer: Anglo-Norwegian Holdings, Ltd., owns interests in various companies engaged in the antarctic whaling industry. Properties of the affiliated companies include floating and shore factories in the Antarctic ocean in which are produced whale oil for the margarine industry. The holding company was formed in Canada in 1929 and has its office in Montreal.

OILS AND INDUSTRIES.

What has happened to Oil Shares, Inc.? Is the company still operating?—J. S.

Answer: Oil Shares, Inc., was formed in 1928 as an investment company of the management type to hold securities in various oil firms. The corporation's name was changed to Oils and Industries, Inc., in 1934 and the restriction that its funds be limited to investments in the oil industry was eliminated. The company has outstanding 40,337 shares of $1 par participating preferred stock and 47,748 shares of $1 par common stock.

Net investment loss of the company [interest and dividends from investments less operating expenses] and dividends paid on the participating preferred and the common stocks in recent years compared as follows:

	*Net inv. loss.	Part. pfd. dividends.	Common dividends.
1935	$ 3,783	$ .75	$ .25
1936	18,679	1.00	.50
1937	50,487	1.25	.75
1938	27,479	.75	.25
1939	29,565	.37½	......

*Excluding profit or loss from securities sales. Dividends were paid from profits of securities sales or from surplus.

Net asset value of the company's investments at the end of 1939 was $703,600, equal to $4.18 a common share, against $824,823, or $5.67 a common share, at the end of 1938.

WARRANTS.

What are stock purchase warrants?—W. W.

Answer: Stock purchase warrants are attached to securities at the time they are issued and in most cases entitle the holder to buy common stock at a fixed price, at a designated ratio to his holdings and within a specified time. Because the stated price is ordinarily below the market value of the common stock when the warrants are issued, warrants offer a speculative opportunity to share in the improvement in a company's earnings, if any. As the market price of the common stock rises, the warrants become more valuable, and if the market value climbs above the option price, the holders can buy common stock at a discount.

SIMPLIFICATION HEARING SET FOR HOLDING CONCERN

Electric Bond and Share Case Up June 10.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today ordered a hearing June 10 to study corporate simplification under the holding company act of Electric Bond and Share company, $2,600,000,000 utility system.

It was the first action begun by the commission solely under the section of the law which calls for corporate simplification and equitable distribution of voting power among securities holders. It was against Electric Bond and Share also that the SEC issued its first order for steps toward geographical integration under the so-called "death sentence" of the act.

"Unduly Complicated."

The commission said it had reasonable grounds to believe that the Electric Bond and Share holding company structure was "unduly and unnecessarily complicated," that voting among security holders was "unfairly and inequitably distributed," and that Electric Bond and Share was a holding company with respect to certain subsidiaries which themselves had subsidiary companies which were holding companies.

The law provides that no more than two holding companies may be superimposed upon an operating company.

Lists 85 Subsidiaries.

The SEC said that Electric Bond and Share had six subsidiaries which were holding companies and in its notice listed a total of 85 subsidiary companies, not including the 112 subsidiaries of American and Foreign Power Company, Inc., a subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share.

The system has electric properties in 26 states and gas properties in 12.

LIFT U. S. WINTER WHEAT FORECAST 33 MILLION BU.

Big Improvement Shown in May 1 Condition.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—April rains following the abnormally dry winter season boosted American winter wheat prospects 33,476,000 bushels, the department of agriculture said today. It forecast a crop of 459,691,000 bushels on the basis of May 1 conditions.

A month earlier, production was estimated at 426,215,000 bushels, compared with last year's harvest of 563,431,000 and an average of 571,067,000 in the period 1929-'38.

Spring Planting Delayed.

However, the indicated smaller crop this year, officials said, would be offset by a surplus of about 300,000,000 bushels from previous years.

The department made no forecast on spring wheat production. It said seeding had been delayed, but that farmers were expected to be able to carry out their intentions to plant 19,425,000 acres.

The department said prospects for all crops improved markedly during April and early May as a result of good rains in areas where badly needed.

Moisture Situation Is Good.

Except in the southern great plains, the moisture situation was described as much better than at this season in most recent years.

The department said indications were that nearly 11,000,000 of the 45,014,000 acres, or 24.3 per cent of the land seeded to winter wheat last fall, would be abandoned.

The report said a rye crop of 36,476,000 bushels was indicated on the basis of May 1 conditions. Production was 39,249,000 last year and 38,095,000 for the 10 year average.

While cool weather has delayed the growth of grass, outlook for hay and forage crops was improved.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

War Hits the Farm.

May 10, 1940.

WAR struck the Du Page county farm this week. It was a bird war in which the purple martins defended their homes against an invasion of sparrows and English starlings.

When the main flock of martins arrived on the farm it was behind the usual spring schedule. The troublesome starlings and sparrows had taken over their houses, which are perched on the top of long poles on one of the farm lawns. But the martins are among the most agile and graceful flyers, and they are a match for the larger starlings and more numerous sparrows.

Birds Arrive Late.

Bird fans in Chicagoland still are talking about the lateness of the purple martins this spring. Martin scouts arrived during mid-April, but the main flocks didn't take over their Chicagoland apartments until the first of this week. Some martins came Sunday, and on the Du Page county farm the main flock arrived Monday for their war with the starlings and sparrows.

The cool spring weather probably caused the martin's delay. These birds depend mainly upon hatches of flying insects for their food, since they feed on the wing. The cool weather delayed the hatches, so the martins stayed south where food was available. This year's arrival is one of the latest ever recorded for purple martins in this area. Gordon Pearsall, curator of the Trailside museum, River Forest, says it is the latest in the 12 years that he has kept records on the martin migrations.

All Migrants Tardy.

The purple martins aren't the only birds which are tardy this season. Almost all of the migrants are off schedule. White throated sparrows were five days later than last spring, towhees were about two weeks behind, brown thrashers which usually arrive about April 20 weren't seen on the Du Page county farm this season until May 6. Bobolinks have not yet arrived, and last year they were here during the first week in May.

Fragile spring beauties, the small pink flowers which are so profuse on the farm each spring, continue to dominate the unshaded woodlots, with patches of anemone and dogtooth violets in the main supporting rôles. The common blue violets also are starting to show their petals, but they aren't out in sufficient numbers to provide serious competition for the spring beauties. The toothwort, another wild flower which has white and pink petals, also is showing its blossoms this week. This wild flower is known as the pepper root in some areas, due to the fact that its tubers are edible, tasting somewhat like a radish.

Tomorrow—

It will show in large scale the countries of The Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxemburg, invaded by the Germans, and their locations in respect to Germany, France, and England.

From this map you will see how near to England are the countries now attacked—how the invasion of the low countries may make it possible for Germany to establish air bases less than 135 miles from London.

Be Sure to get your copy of this important map which tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune will bring to you. See it tomorrow and save it in order to follow the progress of the war.

The British censor, who released this picture, says it shows German bombs just missing a British aircraft carrier "somewhere in the North sea" yesterday at start of Nazi drive on the low countries. The picture was apparently taken from another vessel accompanying the carrier.
